NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

From the N. O. Delta.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER.

Beneath a shed, upon some new-mown hay,
At noon in Summer, when all things seemed gay,
A little girl was lying.
Beside her knelt the mother, wept in grief
Too deep for tears to give her heart relief—
Her only child was dying!

A hectic flush suffused the downy cheek
Of Kathleen, as she smiled, and thus did speak
In innocent devotion
Of him who slumbered in her native isle—
Of him whose memory waked that placid smile,
To calm death's rude commotion.

"Oh, mother, say! can you, like Kathleen, see
"Our dear, dear cottage, and the old yew tree
"That grew so like a bower?
"I think I see my brother seated there:
"He weaves a wreath of Shamrock for my hair—
"A wreath without a flower.

"Say mother, do the dead return to earth?
"Ah! see him smile—his heart is full of mirth,
"While—mother, you are weeping!
"Why are you sad? You'ro told me many times
"That brother lives where joy and peace consigns
"Good children to God's keeping."

Oh, Nature! mighty empress of the heart,
How frail, how beautiful, how pure thou art!
The girl had scarcely spoken
When o'er the mother's pallid cheek of wo
The burning tears of anguish began to flow—
Chaste Nature's fount was broken.

The mother's lips upon her child's were pressed
With fierce emotion—"Heaven! I was blessed"—
She said— with this one only:
"And must she leave me too? Oh, Mighty Power!
"Withhold thy wrath, revive this drooping flower;
"Ah, leave me not quite lonely!
"My Kathleen, dearest! lift thy cherub heart
"In prayer to heaven that thou may'st not depart
"From thy poor stricken mother."
"Ah, weep not so!" said Kathleen, while a tear
Gushed from her eye—"You told me not to fear
"When I wept o'er my brother.

"Come smile on me—your Kathleen bids you smile,
"My head upon thy bosom hold awhile;
"Sweet dreams are o'er me creeping;
"My eyes grow heavy, but my heart is light;
(The angels had prepared her soul for flight,)
"I know I'll soon be sleeping."

Yes, lovely girl, thou sleep'st forevermore;
Nor can a mother's kiss thy breath restore;
Thy latest word is spoken.
The mother dropped her head and sighed a prayer,
Then cast one look to heaven—it was despair!
She sunk—her heart was broken.

Hon. Robert Smith of Illinois is now in Boston endeavoring to obtain subscriptions to the Alton and Springfield Railroad. The stock is $500,000, of which $100,000 has been subscribed in Alton and Springfield. A Road, called the Sangamon and Morgan Railroad, is already constructed from Springfield to Meredosia, on the Illinois River, and will go into operation next Summer. From Alton to Springfield is 80 miles; but, as the Company is authorized to use the Sangamon and Morgan Railroad, for the distance of 15 miles from New Berlin to Springfield, only 64 miles of new Road are to be constructed. Of this 64 miles, there are 13 already graded, or nearly so. The whole route is over a level prairie.—The estimate for grading, based upon the cost of the work done by the State is $2,500 a mile. The estimate completing the whole 64 miles, with heavy T rail, and including depôts, cars and locomotives, is between $12 and $13,000 a mile—so that the whole can be finished and furnished in the most substantial manner for $800,000. No where can a Road be built cheaper. It is estimated that the net receipts for passengers and freight would be $242,500.

The Cheshire Railroad will be open for business to Winchendon next week, and to Fitzwilliam soon. It is hoped that the terminus will be at Keene by Dec.

The following circular was prepared for the Britannia by Messrs Wright & Lewis, Cotton Brokers:

During the past fortnight we have had a fair demand for Cotton, chiefly from the French and Continental buyers; holders have met the market willingly, and a decline of ⅛c has taken place since the sailing of the last English steamer. There have been but few sales made for Liverpool, the orders received by the Britannia being at very low limits, and there is no disposition to ship on American account, partly owing to a want of confidence in the maintenance of prices in that market, and partly to a difficulty in negotiating Exchange. In the South, business has not yet fairly opened for the season; in the Atlantic ports the receipts are too small thus far to admit of large transactions, while the Fever in Mobile and New-Orleans forbids the return to those cities of all unacclimated absentees, and prevents larger receipts of Cotton from the interior. The accounts from the South in relation to the growing crop, have within the last ten days been of a more favorable nature; the rains have ceased, and fine weather has been general in nearly all sections. The worm fever in Louisiana and Mississippi has measurably subsided. The injury thus far in these and the States tributary to New-Orleans has been of a very limited nature, and it is now pretty generally conceded that the second brood of worms will appear, if at all, at too late a period too cause any serious damage. Complaints continue from some sections of Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina, but these are less decided than was the case too weeks since, and it is thought the extent of injury, even in those States, has been somewhat exaggerated. We reiterate the opinion expressed in our last circular, viz: that we cannot have a large crop, and that the degree of shortness depends solely upon the state of the weather from this time to the period when vegetation is checked by the frosts of Autumn or early Winter.

In our Circular of 15th inst. we gave the operations in this market to the evening previous, when "Fair" Uplands were quoted at 13c "Middlings" at 12⅞c and "Middling" Orleans 12½ ℔ lb. Subsequently during the week ending 18th inst the business was more moderate and a slight decline followed the receipt of the unfavorable news from Europe by the French steamer Union. The total sales of the week amounted to 5,000 bales, taken chiefly for France and the Continent. On Monday, the 20th inst. we received Liverpool dates to 4th inst per Britannia, the accounts showing an unfavorable state of trade in the manufacturing districts, some additional failures in the corn trade, a pressure in the money market, a high rate of interest, and a derangement and want of confidence in commercial circles generally; it was a matter of surprise that notwithstanding these adverse causes the decline in the Liverpool Cotton market since the sailing of the previous Boston steamer was only ¼d ℔ lb.

These accounts entirely checked a previous existing speculative inquiry for Cotton in this market, and the orders from England being at unexcutable limits, the market was left to the operations of the Continental and our own domestic buyers, both of whom purchased freely; the sales for the week ending 25th inst amounted to 8,000 bales, and at the close prices had declined ¼c ℔ lb. During the present week there has been an increased desire on the part of holders to realize, owing to the more favorable accounts of the crop at the South, and prices have further declined ⅛c ℔ lb. The sales to last evening amounted to 6,500 bales, mostly taken for export to France and the Continent, with some small purchases for home consumption. The market closed at the quotations given annexed, with a downward tendency and a disposition to sell.

THE PALO ALTO or Waterproof Man Cover.—This special article, invented and introduced by the subscriber, has every requisite required of a water-proof outer garment with none of the objections of the former India rubber coats. It is made of silk or fine cambric as thin as oil silk, perfectly free from all smell, never stiffens or softens by climate, weighs but a few ounces, is made with mantle falling over the arms, and with a hood and large sleeves. It is unlike all India rubber goods heretofore made and will supersede all other kinds of water-proof garments. No garment of India rubber has ever received like universal approval. It is worthy the inspection of officers of army and navy, gentlemen exposed in traveling, or substitute for umbrellas in stormy weather. Extensive arrangements are made to supply this article wholesale or retail, as well as other kinds and styles of India rubber coats, cloaks, capes, ponchos, mackintoshes, overalls, leggins, riding suits, firemen's suits, &c. &c. INDIA RUBBER SOLES.

GUARANTEED TO LAST FIVE MONTHS manufactured and sold by A. J. WHEELER, in Walker's shoe store, 419 Broadway, corner Canal-st. The trade and customers promptly supplied. Of these Soles, the Editor of the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser thus testifies from personal experience: "Mr. Wheeler has the art of applying to boots and shoes extra soles of India rubber, in a way that contributes largely to one's comfort and health, and is very economical withal. A sole of India rubber will outlast two or three of leather, it is very elastic and pleasant to tread upon, and in all ordinary weather will keep the feet the feet as dry and comfortable as if they were cased in rubber shoes. These extra soles can be applied to any boot or shoe without impairing their trim appearance, and those who would consult economy and health, would do well to give Mr. Wheeler a call." a25
