Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Back From Atlanta.

J. W. Andrews, Sr., is back from a visit to Atlanta. Mr. Andrews made this trip merely to acquaint himself with the condition of the stock market and did not intend to buy any stock at this time, but he came across four bay mares that were so "classy" that he took them in and brought them along. The mares arrived Thursday and persons who like to see good horses will enjoy a look at them.

Leviton's Weekly Sales.

Beginning with next week I am going to inaugurate a series of weekly sales and my customers may look for some extraordinary bargains.

The past week we had a big run on our shirt waists and laces and everybody was delighted with the values we offered them.

Our Ladies' Underwear Sale, beginning next Monday and running for a week, will be no less pleasing and satisfactory to those who come and see the unusual values we are going to offer.

Just as soon as our new stock of skirts can be received from the factory we expect to give the ladies a price surprise in this line.

Rattlers Killed.

Tuesday, while two colored men were taking a wagon load of pine gum to the Powell-Smith still on Kingsley lake, a trace came undone and one of the men jumped off the wagon to hook it on. As he struck the ground the whirring of a rattlesnake was heard close by and only a couple of feet away lay two large snakes coiled up. After the team had been moved away from danger the men killed the snakes. One had eight and the other seven rattles and both were of the length of a buggy whip.

Mint Tea For the Nervous.

Mint has many virtues and a few vices. Well washed, the leaves pulled from the stems, slightly mashed and boiling water poured over, there results a "mint tea" that is a sovereign remedy for nervous as well as stomach troubles. Served in a thin glass with cracked ice and a little sugar in it it cools and quiets the system generally. In preparing the mint tea the bowl is kept closely covered until the contents are cool, then strained, poured into a bottle that can be closely corked and set on ice. When wanted ice should be pounded very fine and a little sugar added if liked. Some prefer the tea unsweetened.—New Orleans Picayune.

Greek Scholar a Waiter.

A student at Columbia University was living with his mother at one of the large hotels in New York. When preparing for an examination he often brought his books to the table and worked at Latin and Greek between the courses of his dinner. It happened one evening that he had considerable trouble over his Greek. The man who waited on the table saw his predicament and finally said quietly, "If you will let me come to you some time this evening I will be glad to help you over that translation." The boy was surprised, but eagerly reached for any aid in sight. It transpired that the waiter was a graduate of a European university, well able to coach the puzzled student.—Christian Herald.

The Devil's Knell.

Among the famous bells of Dewsbury, Yorkshire, England, is one known as "Black Tom of Scothill," which was presented to the church in expiation of a murder. "Black Tom" is always rung on Christmas eve. Its solemn tolling as it strikes the first tap at exactly midnight is known all over Yorkshire as the "devil's knell," it being the notion that when Christ was born the devil died.

A Sturgeon Swims the Atlantic.

The American sturgeon is a distinct species and is captured on Lakes Michigan and Erie, where it is landlocked, but below the falls of Niagara the same species occurs and passes to the sea. It is recorded, with every probability of truth, that a specimen of this species was captured some years ago in the Firth of Tay, having crossed the Atlantic. — Sir Ray Lankester in Town Councilor—Have you heard Mr. Skinflint, that our generous townsman, Mr. Muller, is defraying the cost of a new promenade all around the town? We think a wealthy man like yourself might also do something for us.

Skinflint—Well, what do you say to my giving you a park of oak trees?

Town Councilor—Oh, you noble hearted philanthropist! Why, do you really mean to—

Skinflint—Yes, yes; I'll make the town a present of an oak forest. You have only to find the land, and I will supply you with as many acorns as you may want for seed.—German Mag.

Irritation and Pain.

A sharp distinction should be drawn between irritation and pain. Irritation is not pain, but only a frequent cause of it. Thus a crumb lodged in the larynx near the vocal cords produces violent irritation and prolonged coughing, which often results in actual pain. So, too, a speck of dust in the eye sets up violent irritation and inflammation, followed by acute pain. Of the surface of the body the finger tips and the end of the tongue are most sensitive—for instance, a burn on the fingers is much more painful than one on the back would be, while one on the tongue would be more painful still. Deep wounds are not painful, as a rule, save as regards the surface injury.

The Symphony.

The symphony was the result of growth rather than a direct creation. It grew in proportion as instruments came. The direct form leading to the symphony was the sonata of the seventeenth century. Then came the concerto, invented by Joralli, who employed the ordinary string quartet and the solo instrument. Wind instruments were later added, and finally the instrumental parts were doubled, and thus a real approach was made toward the symphony, the great tone epics of Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven. The musicians generally associated with this formative time are Gossec, Joeske, Vanhall and Fisch, with Gossec in the van.—New York American.

How Far the Blood Travels.

The mileage of the blood circulation reveals some astonishing facts. It has been calculated, for instance, that, assuming the heart to beat sixty-nine times a minute at ordinary pressure, the blood goes at the rate of 207 yards in a minute, or nine miles an hour, 220 miles a day and 80,000 miles a year. If a man eighty-four years old could have had one single blood corpuscle floating in his blood all his life it would have traveled in that time nearly 7,000,000 miles.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Word "Ragging."

The word "ragging" is more common in England than in this country, even if the custom is not. An English paper asserts that "rag" is not a slang word, but is a real old verb, also to be found in use among Icelanders, meaning to banter or irritate. In Lincolnshire and doubtless other counties to provoke a boy is called "getting his rag out." "Bullyrag" is an elaboration of the elementary term, and here also the meaning is clear. A ragamuffin originally meant a kind of demon.

The Diamond Carat.

In diamond language a carat is equal to four grains, but it is not customary among merchants to speak of carats under twelve grains. Many difficulties in the trade are due to the fact that the carat of France is lighter than that of Leipzig, which has one lighter than the carats of Holland and Antwerp. Attempts to establish a universal standard have failed, owing to conservatism and false pride.

The Unknown.

A Frenchman attended a Burns celebration. At the end of the jollification a friend asked him if he had enjoyed himself. "Why," said he, with the characteristic French shrug and upturned hands, "it was magnificent. The haggis was good, the whisky was very good, the singing was good, but who was Mr. Auld Langsyne? Was he a Scottish chief?"—Argonaut.
