BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK and POULTRY MEDICINE

Stock and poultry have few troubles which are not bowel and liver irregularities. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is a bowel and liver remedy for stock. It puts the organs of digestion in a perfect condition. Prominent American breeders and farmers keep their herds and flocks healthy by giving them an occasional dose of Black Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine in their food. Any stock raiser may buy a 25-cent half-pound air-tight can of this medicine from his dealer and keep his stock in vigorous health for weeks. Dealers generally keep Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine. If yours does not, send 25 cents for a sample can to the manufacturers, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

ROCHELLE, GA., Jan. 30, 1902.

Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is the best I ever tried. Our stock was looking bad when you sent me the medicine and now they are getting so fine. They are looking 20 per cent. better.

The Output

The output is the key-note to profit. In deciding upon a price at which to sell, a manufacturer, no matter what article he has to offer, considers how many he is likely to sell, and bases his charges accordingly. It is quite reasonable, too. If a tailor sells only two suits of clothes each week, his income must come from the profit of these two suits. If he can, however, double or treble his output without materially increasing his working expenses, he can naturally afford to make the profit on each suit much less

Again, this output decides the buying power. It is only necessary to state that there have been manufactured and sold over to prove what the buying power of this great Company must be. The small manufacturer who turns out only a few pianos each month will certainly have to pay more for the material in each piano—there is absolutely no doubt about this.

77,000

When you consider these facts and put this truth along side of them, that there are only three companies in the United States who have made and sold as many pianos as ourselves—that we haven't a competitor making a high grade piano whose output is as large as ours—it needs no argument to convince you that, quality for quality, you can buy cheaper from us than of any one else.

Emerson Piano Company,

BOSTON, 120 Boylston St. CHICAGO, 195 Wabash Ave

Alfred Peterson a young man in the employ of the Old Dominion Mining & Smelting company, was killed last Saturday by the caving of bank at a point on the west side of Pinal creek, below the laurel orchard.—Globe Belt.

A Perfect Painless Pill.

Is the one that will cleanse the system, set the liver to action, remove the bile, clear the complexion, cure headache and leave a good taste in the mouth. The famous little pills for doing such work pleasantly and effectually are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Bob Moore of Lafayette, Ind., says: "All other pills I have used gripe and sicken, while DeWitt's Little Early Risers are simply perfect" Sold by Safford Drug Co., Safford.

THE HORSE BREEDERS

See that the horse has a clean, cool, airy stable; that he is cleaned night and morning to get rid of loose hair and the dandruff coming with it; sponge his face, eyes, nostrils, mouth and around anus and sheath when he comes in sweaty. Do not allow him to drink a large quantity of water when hot—a swallow or two will suffice, and the full drink should be given later when he has cooled off. Always give the water first and the food when that has been taken and when he has had time to rest and cool off, advises Live Stock Report. Nothing is to be gained by watering and feeding a warm and tired horse. The noon hour is shortened by such practice, but so is the life or usefulness of the horse. It pays to rest him at noon and remove his harness. He will work better and longer and have less trouble from sore shoulders and neck where this is done. He will not pant and sweat so much when hardened on oats and treated as above, and when the hot spell comes he will go through the day without "going down," "petering out" or having the "sweat stop on him," as so often happens to corn fed, badly managed horses. But in the hot weather it is not enough to water him at noon and night. The brown jug in the cool mud of the slough should be for him as much as for the driver. He wants and deserves a sip of cold water now and then as much as does the man and should have it, and if there is a little oatmeal in it so much the better when work is hard and the weather hot.

Out All Winter.

In speaking of a noted shire stallion whose second crop of foals won over fifty prizes, including several championships, the London Live Stock Journal says: He is "kept out all winter in natural condition especially for stud purposes." And no doubt this has a lot to do with his success at the stud. "Kept out all winter" in the mild climate of England does not signify that such should be the rule here, but plenty of outdoor exercise when idle and plenty of oats all the time will make a stallion valuable if anything in the line of care and feeding will do it.

American Mules In South Africa.

A message recently published by the press states that the British government has decided that the American mule is needed to rehabilitate the Transvaal and Orange River colonies in South Africa. It is stated that the total number of mules required is 60,000, and the price is to be $163.66, or around £35 per head. This means a total payment of $10,000,000 for the mules. The animals are to be contracted for in "lots to suit" the requirements of the authorities in South Africa and will be shipped about 1,000 at a time from New Orleans after inoculation. It will be recalled, says Breeder's Gazette, that during the Boer war the United Kingdom maintained a large establishment at Lathrop, Mo., where horses and mules were inoculated, and it is considered probable that the same premises will be utilized again. It was found that the danger of death during acclimation was greatly lessened when the horses and mules were inoculated before shipment. From the statement of price it would appear that the intention is to purchase good, big, sturdy mules that will be able to do a lot of work in the subduing of the ground. Agriculturally speaking, the British South African colonies are possessed of great possibilities, and with American mules to do the hardest of the work it should not be long before an exportable surplus of grain and meat will be forthcoming. Meantime continued prosperity for the American mule breeder seems clearly in sight.

Teaching to Back.

G. E. F. wants some one to tell him how to teach a colt to back in harness. My way is to stop a load of any kind on a side hill. Don't drive up a long hill, just a few steps up, and let him hold it (with a horse you can depend on to back or go ahead when told). When he looks tired, ask him to back and at the same time give him a short, quick jerk with the reins, always while sitting in the wagon. Then loosen the reins whether he steps back or not. After sitting a few seconds give another jerk. Always loosen the reins and give him lots of time to think whether it is not best to let the load go back and not hold it. If you succeed in getting him to take a few steps back, then go a little farther up the hill and give him lots of time to hold the load, then try as before. If you get him to back, don't ask him to back unless you know the other horse can back the wagon alone. —W. H. Riker in Stockman and Farmer.

High Prices For Yearlings.

It is thought that the average prices for yearlings from the successful studs this season will break all American records. The heavy harness horse never ranged so high in value. There were never so few of the really good kinds for sale nor so many men after them. There is not one well known dealer in such high priced commodities who has not unfilled orders on hand. Drafters are needed in about the proportion of two to one to the supply. Perhaps the ratio is larger.

Energy Used In Fighting Flies.

A statistical genius has figured it out that 20 per cent of the energy in a horse's allowance of oats goes toward chewing and digesting the grain and that 10 per cent more is taken up in fighting flies in the stall. This is supposed to apply to horses whose tails have been allowed to retain their normal length. What amount of additional energy would be expended by the horse whose tail had been docked by some human brute is not stated.—Farm and Ranch.
