MEN AND THEIR DISEASES.

DR. H. BOSTWICK'S GREAT WORK AND LECTURES on Diseases of the Genito-Urinary Organs, 350 pages, quarto, illustrated with 37 colored plates, which surpass anything of the kind ever seen in this country. It also contains 40 wood engravings, and the whole work has been got up without regard to expense, expressly for the medical profession. The author is a practical surgeon of great experience and his object has been to put into the hands of the student a thoroughly practical work free from trash—so that he can, without searching through book after book, find in this all that is known at the present day about the modern treatment of this class of diseases. The same book cost $10 in Europe, and for less than $5. Put it in your library. What is $10 for such a work? It may be had of the author, 504 Broadway, or of the publisher, 222 Broadway. Also Dr. BOSTWICK'S work on the "Nature and Treatment of a class of Diseases Resulting from Improper Habits, with Hints to Young Men." It is a work of 100 pages. He is determined to sell those, as well as every other book he possesses at prices unprecedentedly low for cash. In every branch of religious knowledge he has the writings of the greatest divines, including many of the Greek and Latin Fathers. In Miscellaneous Literature, all the works commonly on sale, together with books out of print, and otherwise very rare, that cannot be had in any other bookstore in the country.—He is also largely supplied with books on the following subjects, viz: Agriculture, Botany and Rural Sports; Bibliography; Antiquities; Illustrated Books, Albums, Annuals; Nihilistics and Works on Antiquities; History and Biography; Cookery and Domestic Economy; Education; European Topography; Heraldry; Books relating exclusively to Great Britain and Ireland; Works relating to the Jews; Lexicons and Dictionaries; Logic, Metaphysics and Political Economy; Mathematics and Natural Philosophy; Military Books; Musical Works; Natural History and Geology; a large collection of curious and rare Pamphlets; Bound Sets of Periodical Literature in whole sets and odd vols; Phrenology, Physiology and Mesmerism; Astrology, Necromancy and Fortune Telling; Poetry, Shakspeariana and the Drama; 1,000 vols Sermons; Works on Slavery; Travels and Voyages; Dictionaries, French, Spanish, Italian and German Books; Hebrew, Arabic, Chaldee and Chinese Works; Voyages and Travels; Guide Books, Gazetteers and Maps of every description; Law and Medicine; School and College books, endless in number and variety; Blank Books of every kind; Chemistry, Metallurgy, Geology, Mechanic Arts, Engineering, Surveying, Banking Exchange, Assurance, and works on curious and out-of-the-way subjects, which admit of no classification.

In short it is well known there is no similar store in this city which presents such various literary attractions; and he begs to say, that as he is selling exclusively for cash, he is charging the very smallest profit on which the business can be carried on. He invites all to call that every one may judge for himself. A literary lunch is daily spread that will satisfy the greatest cormorant, though it should be like the celebrated Bishop of Avaranches, devour 1,000 volumes a year; or a large roast shoulder of mutton and two pots of porter daily, like Archbeacon Paley.
