NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

THE SUMMER RETREAT.

BY NELSON COOK.....For The Tribune

In some retreat,
Far from the noisy Mart, in sylvan shade,
At Nature's shrine my homage shall be paid—
In visions sweet
The heart shall calmly beat.

Come whispering,
Ye zephyrs! how your influence buoys the heart
With joy and peace, that shall not all depart,
While the flowers cling
To your enamored wing

Distill, ye flowers,
Your fragrance for the sense; but for the Mind
Nature hath spread her glories unconfined!
Its thoughtful hours
Shall perfect more its powers.

In gentle sighs,
How softly whispereth the fanning gale,
Freighted with perfume from the dewy vale:
The fair lake lies
Asleep 'neath fairer skies.

Now wide around,
See Nature opes her volume's radiant page:
Through all times read, by savage and by sage;
And doth abound
With wisdom most profound!

Arise, O Soul!
Behold Design in every graphic line;
Proving the Hand that drew them is divine!—
Holds o'er the whole
Omnipotent control!

From the grass blade
Up to the giant of the forest wood,
Vast was the aim and purpose for thy good:
Hast thou surveyed!
Adore the Power that made!

Saratoga Springs, July, 1849.

Law Courts.

MARINE COURT.—Before Judge Lynch.—William Grieshaber vs. Leonard M. Rutherfurd.—This was a claim, we believe, for medical services. A question arose as to its trial. The defendant called a Jury, but afterward refused to pay the Jury fees and waived a trial by Jury. Plaintiff then insisted that having demanded a Jury he is bound so to try the cause, and could not waive it. The Court held that the party calling a Jury had a right to dispense with it whenever he pleased. The plaintiff then demanded a Jury and offered to pay for it, but defendant objected, as the plaintiff, at the time of taking issue, did not give notice of requiring a Jury, and he is stopped now and the trial must proceed before the Court. The Court sustained the position, when plaintiff refused to try the case, and a nonsuit was ordered.

Hugh Mooney vs. John S. Barker.—Action by a seaman of the ship Charlotte, for alleged assault and battery, against the first mate. It appeared, as the vessel was near port from Liverpool, plaintiff was dilatory, as the mate supposed, in coming on deck to relieve the watch. The man replied that he was quick enough considering the grub he got, or to that effect. The mate replied that what he got was too good for him, and ordered him to go forward and lend a hand to get up the chain so as to prepare the anchors. Plaintiff replied he would go when he got ready; to which the mate said he should go before he got ready. The plaintiff avers that the mate then struck him. The proof showed, however, that, if when the mate said he should go before he got ready, the man squared off, and it is said struck the mate; also that a passenger interfered with the mate, and a seaman named Richardson struck the mate a blow in the eye and blacked it. The mate caught up a belaying pin, which plaintiff tore away from him; the mate then seized a mallet, and Richardson seized a marlinspike, and if the mate struck any one with the mallet he (Richardson) would break the mate's head with the maul. The second mate came up, when Richardson, as he said himself, took hold of the second mate and slewed him round, and they struck each other. During the difficulty the mate struck plaintiff, it was said. The captain came and took the mate aft, but the latter came forward again, where the difficulty commenced anew, and it is alleged again struck plaintiff, and it is for this latter that the complaint is principally made. The mate put down the mallet soon after taking it up. It is said three persons were on the mate at once.

The Court on giving judgment alluded with much severity to the conduct of plaintiff and the other seamen, which the Judge said amounted almost to mutiny. The plaintiff had no right to speak to the mate as he did, or to say he would attend to taking up the chain when he got ready. Judgment for defendant.—For plaintiff Mr. Donohue; for defendant Mr. Cooper (Scoles & Coy.)

Landlord's Warrants.—Judging from the large number of dispossessing warrants being sued out before the Court, we should think that much distress, from want of employment, is beginning to be experienced by our laboring and working population. The Judge, at 2 o'clock, stated, we think, that he had ten still to act upon. They are issued from this Court, we believe, mostly returnable the same day. The names of some of the parties to be turned out were called, but with one or two exceptions there was no answer and the warrants would probably forthwith issue by those demanding them. The tenant that appeared said he had expended money, by the landlord's direction, upon the tenement, to be deducted from the rent, which was denied. He said he was ready to pay if this were allowed him. It was agreed, we believe, he should not be removed till Monday.

BROOKLYN.

CITY COURT—CHAMBERS.—Habeas Corpus.—A surgeon's steward named Edward Brittingham, was brought up yesterday before Judge Greenwood on a writ of habeas corpus from the U. S. Navy Yard, which he demanded, at the hands of justice, his liberty as a petty officer, which he alleges is denied by Capt. Sands, commandant of the vessel. Capt. Sands admitted that if any liberty was deprived it was done by his order, and the captain said he alleges that he possesses the authority to restrict the man's liberty. Judge Greenwood ordered the man into the custody of the Sheriff of Kings Co. till Tuesday next, when the matter will be decided. Mr. Evart appeared for the United States, and D. C. Barnard, Esq. for the complainant.

JUSTICES' COURT.—The examination of Rev. Richd. Van Kleek, Principal of the Flatbush Academy, charged with cruel and unusual punishment of a son of John D. Lawrence, Street Commissioner, came off yesterday afternoon before this Court, as announced previously. The testimony went to show that the lad in question had been beaten in a severe manner—that he had several inflamed stripes of the rod across his back, and upon the legs the skin was broken in many places, and the bloody water running from it so that his clothes stuck to him. A brother of Mr. Lawrence testified that he had a conversation with Mr. Van Kleek, and that the reverend gentleman informed him that the cause of the thrashing was playing truant only. Dr. Goodrich also testified that he examined the lad and gave as his opinion that the child was injured thereby. The defense was that the lad merited the flogging, that the punishment was for other causes and had been promised him for previous misconduct. The case was not concluded.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—On Monday, as a daughter of Dr. Johnson of this city, about ten years of age, was attempting to cross the track on the Providence Railroad, near the Tremont road crossing, she was struck by a train and received fatal injuries. In stepping out of the way of the noon Stonington train, she step immediately in front of the Providence train on the other track, when she was caught by the cow-catcher and thrown violently against an embankment, fracturing her skull. [Boston Transcript.

FOR CALIFORNIA.—The Nashville Gazette learns that Col. B. F. Cheatham, with a party of twelve or fifteen choice young men, intend leaving these "diggings" for those of California in a few weeks. Col. Cheatham was the commander of a regiment from this State during the late Mexican war, and distinguished himself very handsomely. [Memphis Eagle.

FIRE.—We learn from a friend that an extensive fire was prevailing in the woods in the immediate vicinity of Brunswick, Me., on Sunday, and that a large number of citizens were out making strenuous efforts to arrest its progress.

OUTRAGE.—In the Police Court at Boston, on Wednesday, Thomas Connelly, Patrick Duran, John Joyce and John Reilly, the party charged with committing the outrage upon Mrs. Clarissa Clark, on the evening of the 5th of July, were brought up for examination. Mrs. Clark was the first witness examined, and she testified that on the evening stated she, in company with her husband, started from their home at the corner of Essex and Lincoln sts. to walk to Dorchester. After crossing the railroad at South-Boston they met a party of young men, who assaulted her husband and took his cane from him. Her husband then went to seek for aid, and in his absence they dragged her from the turnpike road into the grass alongside, where one after another they violated her person. Connelly, Joyce and Reilly were committed for trial at the Supreme Judicial Court. The crime preferred against them is a capital offense. Mrs. Clark is a woman of about 25 years of age, and we should think an intelligent. [Boston Courier.
