BULL'S PATENT VENTILATING FURNACE—The superiority of this Furnace over all others, consists, among others, in the following important points. 1. The heat from the fuel is so perfectly economised that no more can escape into the chimney than is barely sufficient to create a draught. 2. By an entirely new and original method of distribution, the heat is more freely imparted to the air flowing into the house. 3. It is the only furnace producing a direct and positive ventilation, as by its action the cold foul air is drawn off, and is immediately replaced by a copious volume of fresh warm air, which is equally diffused throughout the room. 4. A new and more proper method of supplying the necessary water for evaporation, and also for governing the varying temperature of the apartments.

The construction of this Heater has been so strictly governed by Philosophical principles, and its effective operation, both as a Heater and Ventilator, has been so apparent as to attract the attention of our men of science, among whom Professor Griscom has deemed it worthy of a particular description in a valuable work on the "Uses and Abuses of Air," Published by J. S. Redfield, N. Y.

Reference to the Commissioners of Emigration, who have seven of these heaters in successful operation, and to the following certificate, selected from a number, are all that is necessary to demonstrate its high claims to public regard.

JAS. H. BULL, Esq.—Dear Sir:—I, with pleasure, state that your Furnace put up in the Eighth-av. Presbyterian Church, has given entire satisfaction. Not only the main body of the Church, but the basement story also, has been kept warm during the past winter mon s. It has likewise thoroughly ventilated both apartments, and kept the atmosphere in a pleasant and healthful state and has consumed but three tuns of Coal. Thus proving to me it to be what you claim for it, viz: An economical Ventilating Furnace. Very respectfully, your obt. servant,

J. W. SAVAGE

SCHOOLS.

ST. PAUL'S COLLEGE COLLEGE POINT
NEAR FLUSHING, LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

THE TWENTY-SECOND SESSION of this Institution will commence on the first Monday of October next. Pupils are admitted into the primary classes at 10 years of age, and into the collegiate classes when or ter they have attained sufficient scholarship.

There is but one session of the Institution in the year. It commences on the first Monday in October, and ends on the first of August.

It is requested that all who desire to place their sons in the Institution will present them for admission at the beginning of the session in October. Pupils are received, however, after the Christmas and Easter recesses, and on the first Monday in March. Application to be made to the Rector at College Point.

au2 10t Rev. J. G. BARTON, Rector.

ABBOTT'S COLLEGIATE
INSTITUTION FOR YOUNG LADIES.
REV. GORHAM D. ABBOTT, PRINCIPAL.
Springer Institute, Union Park.

THE AUTUMN TERM will commence Wednesday, Sept. 12. The location and appointments of this new Edifice, erected and furnished at an expense of about seventy thousand dollars, present as desirable facilities for its great object, as have ever been combined in any similar institution. Its spacious Halls, its Lecture Room, Chemical and Philosophical Apparatus, and its Calisthenic Rooms, embrace every convenience for education. s12 2w

WRITING CLASSES—JONES'S INITIATORY COUNTING-ROOMS, 247 Broadway. Writing Classes are received from 4 to 9 and 7 to 9 P. M. They are thoroughly instructed upon W. Jones's system, as developed in his Elementary Writing-Books. The success that has attended this system of instruction, in the principal schools of this city, and in Brooklyn, is a sufficient guaranty that the progress of the pupil will be commensurate with the time and attention given. The books are published by J. Metcalf, (successor to W. Jones,) 278 Broadway. J. METCALF occupies his time, during the day, in teaching writing in schools. s8 2w*

UNIVERSITY GRAMMAR SCHOOL—Prof. E. A. JOHNSON, Rector.—The first quarter of the Academic year begins on Monday, Sept. 3. The three Departments—the Preparatory, the English and the Classical—offer a progressive course, in which the pupil is advanced from the first rudiments to a state of preparation for the counting-house or the University.

Circulars may be obtained at the school-rooms, or at the book-stores of R. Lockwood & Son, 411 Broadway, and Samuel Raynor, 76 Bowery.

Frederic A. Adams's First Book on Arithmetic, comprising Lessons in Number and Form for Primary and Common Schools.
This book is no imitation of any other; but is original in its plan of introducing beginners to the science of Numbers.
Frederic A. Adams's Arithmetic, in two parts. Part I—Advanced Lessons in Mental Arithmetic. Part II—Rules and Examples for Practice in Written Arithmetic, 300 pages.
This book possesses the merit of carrying the usual mental instruction to a much higher point than any other work, and is at the same time so happily arranged that the pupil combines Written and Mental Arithmetic, thus securing rapidity of Progress, with a clear understanding of Arithmetical Principles. s6 6eod*
