NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

The Mormon City of the Salt Lake.

MORMON CITY, GREAT SALT LAKE, July 22, 1849.

I shall never forget the first sight of this valley. It shall ever remain on my mind as the most beautiful spectacle I ever beheld. The Great Salt Lake lies toward the north. The Utah Lake lies sixty miles to the south. The valley is watered by the Jordan, Weber, and Bear Rivers, with several creeks. The whole valley is surrounded by snow-capped mountains, forming a complete basin. The land is very rich, producing wheat and corn in abundance, but there is no wood for 15 miles. The whole valley is occupied by the Mormons, who build their houses entirely of sun-dried bricks. Their city occupies more ground than Pittsburgh, but each man has a large piece of ground around his dwelling. The bridges are all good, the streets and roads wide, and the fences very regular. There are about 10,000 Mormons here. They say that they will welcome to their society any good citizen, no matter what his religion may be. Their motto is "do right."

They are building a church of stone, which is already one story high, and will be a fine building. They assemble every Sunday morning under a large shed. The Society is governed by a President, the twelve and the seventy. The President and the twelve occupy the pulpit, and do all the preaching. I went this morning, when the bell rang, to church, where I saw a large assemblage, some dressed quite fashionably, and all clean and neat. A brass band first played a lively tune, and then the clerk rose and read several notices.

One man had lost his pocket-book—another had had his garden destroyed by cattle breaking into it. He then read off the names of persons to whom letters in the post-office were addressed, and several other items of that kind. He then announced that on next Tuesday they would have an anniversary feast, as it was the day of the month on which they arrived at their present snug quarters. He stated that the city would be roused early in the morning by the firing of cannon and the music of the brass band. A procession would then be formed, which would march out of town, and at 2 o'clock dinner would be served. The emigrants were all invited to attend.

They are very strict in the administration of justice. One of their number stole a pair of boots from an emigrant. He was sentenced to pay four times their value, and fined $50, and was compelled to work fifty days on the public roads. One of the men was sentenced to death for borrowing some property from a neighbor and selling it, but finally, owing to the intercession of his family, his sentence was commuted to banishment. When they first arrived they were very much troubled by some Indians, who killed their cattle and stole from them. They sent to remonstrate with them, and the Indians replied that their president was an old woman, and they would not mind him. They then sent out a company of soldiers, and killed a few of them, since which time they have not been again annoyed.

The Crops at the South.

Our accounts from all parts of the cotton-growing region have, for some time past, been extremely unfavorable. In every section of the country, there are complaints of the caterpillar and the rust, which are now blighting the prospects of those planters whose crops were spared by the frost of April. It is now conceded that the cotton crop cannot reach an average, of which it must be far short, even under the most favorable contingencies. Our own State has not escaped the visitations which have proved so disastrous in others, and here, to the worm and the rust, has been added the calamity of the Red River overflow, which we believe effectually destroyed the cotton in that section. Yet we have reason to be thankful that our property does not rest solely on a crop so uncertain and liable to destruction as cotton. We have another great staple, to which our planters are every year directing more of their attention, and which bids fair soon, in all the districts where it can be successfully cultivated, to supersede cotton entirely. Sugar is now raised in latitudes which were formerly thought wholly unsuited, and the rich lands of Red River are found to be as well adapted to the culture of the cane as any others in the State. We doubt not that those still further North can be made profitable in the same manner, and we must assuredly hope so, since it will release our State from total dependence on a crop so inconstant as cotton has always been known to be.

Action of trover is brought for the value, it being contended that Mr. B. had invalidly obtained it, and that Mr. W. had notice. Mr. C. was in the room where the ballots were being canvassed, and persons came in, a defendant, it was asserted, threw flour over him, and beat and kicked him. The proof only appearing against the defendant, Carl, the Jury exonerated the others and found in favor of plaintiff against Carl for $350. [It was said on the trial that defendants have gone to California.]—For plaintiff, Mr. A. Nash and Mr. Huff; for defendant, Mr. Schafer and Mr. Charles Fraser.

POLICE COURT—Friday.—Wm. Norther was taken into custody on suspicion of stealing a coat, pants and dress, valued at $20, which were found in his possession by officer Forshay of the Eighth Ward. Held for examination.....Wm. Williams, an escaped convict from Blackwell's Island, was arrested and sent back.....Wm. J. Mills, an Englishman lately arrived, was taken into custody charged with taking letters from the Post-Office directed to Mr. Murphy and to Walter Meadows. Mr. Murphy states that about a week since a letter containing a draft for $150 was taken from the office, and the prisoner is charged with having obtained it. He was taken before the U. S. Commissioner, who held him for trial.....Theodore Martin was taken into custody and held on a charge of stealing a pocket-book containing $50 (found in his possession by officer Roome of the Seventeenth Ward, who arrested him.) from Mr. M. McMenous, of 3d South-st. Held for examination.....A coverlid was stolen, named John Young, alias Ames, was yesterday taken into custody by officer Gillespie, on a charge of stealing $9, together with a silver watch, valued at $15, and a note of hand for $40. This fellow is supposed to be the one who, about two weeks since, committed a Grand Larceny on board the schooner Alabama, then lying at pier No. 7, E. R.....He was committed by Justice Lathrop for examination.

BROOKLYN.

KINGS COUNTY CIRCUIT COURT AND COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.—The only thing of any interest which transpired in this City yesterday was the trial of Michael Fotty, who stands indicted for attempting to pass a counterfeit $5 note of the Burlington County Bank, on a man named Gneafkerkte, a merchant of Williamsburgh. The transaction took place some two years since, and the defendant was arrested on the spot and taken before Justice Everitt of that village, who held him to bail for his appearance to answer. He subsequently forfeited his recognizance, however, and was not again heard of until subsequently arrested on a similar charge in Philadelphia, at which place he was acquitted, but immediately arrested on a requisition from the Governor of this State. He has been lying in prison here since that time. Messrs David Paul Brown and Recorder Lee appeared to defend the prisoner, and used the most strenuous exertions to induce the Jury to acquit him. No verdict had been rendered, however, at a late hour of the night.
