

AN OPEN LETTER TO HYPERMETROPES

THE FAR SIGHTED.

Your trouble, friend, known as hypermetropia, is also called far sight or over sight; not because you can see farther or better than one with a normal eye, but because the focal point of your eye is adjusted to a point abnormally distant. Therefore it cannot be adjusted to the near point without overstrain unless aided by lenses. The normal eye on the contrary can be, until the age for old sight is reached.

Normal eyes are adjusted naturally to any distance; yours to none except beyond the far point and then only through an abnormal strain; hence the designation far sighted.

MRS. JOHN MURRAY PASSES AWAY WEDNESDAY NOON

Upon returning home shortly after twelve o'clock Wednesday, Miss Laura Murray was shocked to find her mother in bed and apparently lifeless. Stricken almost helpless by her discovery, Miss Murray summoned her neighbor Mrs. Bare, and Dr. Dent was called and upon his arrival a few minutes later pronounced that life was extinct but that the spirit had taken its flight within a half hour. Mrs. Murray for a day or two previous had complained of feeling weak, but when her daughter left for school in the morning she was doing the housework with her accustomed rapidity and cheerfulness. Evidently during the forenoon she had been taken ill, and had laid down on the bed, carefully covering herself. Her face was in peaceful repose, evidence that there was no struggle when the summons came, the messenger probably beckoned while she slept.

Her sudden death was a distinct shock to all her friends and of these there are many, for Mrs. Murray was a noble, generous woman, one who was ever thoughtful of her friends and constantly rendering them acts of service and kindness. To her family she was intensely devoted, to her church and its teachings she was faithful and her smiles and cheerfulness had their influence over others. No complaint ever escaped her lips; she bore whatever burdens came to her with patience and without affecting her cheeriness. A kind, lovable and christian woman has been called.

Funeral services were held at St. Patrick's church at nine o'clock this morning and interment made at the Fort McPherson National cemetery in the same grave with her husband, who was a civil war veteran as well as having seen service in the Indian campaigns in the west.

Bedollah Fenton was born in Cork, Ireland, February 14, 1846, her father being English and her mother Irish. She came to this country with her parents when but a child and her girlhood days were spent in New York, Baltimore and Washington. She was in the latter city when President Lincoln was assassinated, and it was there, too, that she was married to John Murray. In the latter part of the 60's Mr. and Mrs. Murray came west to Cheyenne and a year or so later removed to Fort McPherson. Following Mr. Murray's honorable discharge from the army service they took up a residence on a ranch near the fort, remaining there until 1905, when they moved to North Platte.

Surviving her are Frank and Miss Laura Murray of this city and Ray Murray and Mrs. Rose Bartlett of Lincoln, the husband having died January 4th, 1911.

ARRANGE FOR AUTO RACES AT THE FAIR

Additional race features at the county fair have been announced by the management. They will consist of auto novelty races and will be held on Saturday, the last day of the fair. The first event is a Ford novelty relay race in which prizes of $10, $5 and $3 are offered. Four drivers are to be entered for each car, the car to leave the starting line with three men aboard and one man at the wire ready to run, car and man running to start at the same time. When a car reaches a certain point, it stops and the driver climbs out and starts to run, another man taking his place at the wheel and waiting until the runner who started at the wire reaches the machine and gets in. The car then runs to another given point, changes as before, runs to another point and another change is made. The first team to reach the wire, either runner or car, wins.

A slow race on high gear with prizes of $5, $3 and $2 is set down for the second event. Fords only are entered in this race. Each car must carry an observer. Cars will be given a start of 25 feet on low gear, after this distance the drivers are not allowed to touch the pedals. The car finishing last wins the race. Changing gears disqualifies the car. The third event is identical with the second except that any make of car except Fords may be entered.

The fourth event is a speed obstacle race, in which Ford cars and roadsters of any make are barred, obstacles gedyderamedtwilliOBaharra stacles are to be placed on the track and dodged by the drivers. Contestants will be penalized for striking any of the obstacles. Prizes of $5, $3 and $2 are offered for this race.

The machines will stop at a certain point and deflate a tire on any of the wheels, take off tire, put in tube, replace tire and pump to 60 pounds pressure and finish at finishing line. Hand pumps will be used and less than 60 pounds pressure will be penalized. Prizes of $5, $3 and $2 are offered.

The events will close with a five mile motorcycle race for prizes of $25, $15 and $10 and a ten mile automobile race for prizes of $50, $30 and $20.
