A Car-load of the Popular
HOBART M. CABLE PIANOS
Sale Begins Monday, Sept. 24, Continuing two weeks

"Quality" has given the Hobart M. Cable pianos their great prestige throughout the world. Quality has done it. Quality is conspicuous in the remarkable even scale, the rich, clear tone. The light, responsive action. Quality is manifest in the beautiful cases; in their classical styles and artistic finish. There is only one quality, one grade—Hobart M. Cable pianos. The highest quality possible to make.

The sole underlying reason for that quality is the ability to create a piano of the first class.

Hobart M. Cable Pianos and Player Pianos are found the world over. In the homes of the great musicians as well as those of students of music. Musical colleges and universities of practically every state in the union unite in praising the rich musical tone of Hobart M. Cable pianos.

Every Home Should have a Piano

Your children deserve a musical education. Your entire family will appreciate the advantages and pleasure of a piano or player piano in the home. You have long intended buying one, why not take advantage of the prices offered in this sale. Come in and let us show you the pianos.

Liberal allowance for old pianos or organs

Perhaps you have an old organ or piano you wish to exchange for a new one? If you have a piano in your home and there is no one to play it, why not exchange it for a player-piano? Let us demonstrate one of these wonderful instruments for you. The Pleasure and Educational advantages will remain long after the price is forgotten.

Toric Lenses

These are an improvement over the ordinary flat lens. Torics are curved like the ball of the eye--Nature's Curve. The result is a greatly increased field of vision. Light rays striking on a larger area of the lens are accurately focused. Toric lenses add a great deal to eye comfort and efficiency. They can be ground to correct any defect in refraction, and considering the increased benefit derived from their use are very inexpensive. Come in and let us demonstrate Toric lenses.

COLLARS ARE UP IN PRICE; MAYBE IT'S THE WAR.
Frayed collars at one time might have been a thing of scorn and to be cast aside as of no consequence, but when they are quoted three for fifty cents, as today, they become an asset and instead of being worn by those of low plebeian birth and gentlemen of literary proclivities they become quite the thing for the boys along the Rialto. The alibi offered for selling one for 20 cents, two for 35 or "three for a half" is that the increased cost of making a dozen collars is so much higher than formerly that even the raise in price to the consumer will not net the manufacturer nearly as much as when the old prices prevailed. All men's furnishings stores were notified of a raise in wholesale prices and say they are compelled to act accordingly.
And it is not only collars that have taken the jump. It applies to all kinds of cottons, yarns and woolen merchandise. We learn on good authority that men's wool suits will advance from $25 to $40 and even $50, men's overcoats from $25 to $5 and $6, underwear from $3.50 to $5 and $6. The country's wool deficit and the extraordinary demand for materials, in fitting the U. S. government troops have caused an abnormal condition.
It behooves the thinking man and woman to seriously consider the situation and from a point of economy to make provisions to avoid such a contingency. The announcement of the well known stock of men's and boys' clothing of J. B. McDonald, "The Home of Good Clothes", which is now being closed out in a gigantic quitting business sale by the T. K. Kelly Merchandise Corporation of Minneapolis, comes right at the opportune time. The great attendance at this sale is causing the merchandise to disappear and it is safe to say that North Platte has never witnessed greater buying enthusiasm. We are informed by Mr. McDonald just before going to press that the entire stock in trade is being thrown out for public sale at tremendous savings, and by the way—collars with him are 2 for 25 cents as long as his present stock lasts.

May Draft Airplane Men
In compliance with the need of the country aviators and signal service men it is probable that some means will have to be found to get them. To win the world war the United States will have to send innumerable airplanes into the German lines and secure supremacy of the air.
It has been suggested that another draft be made, this time to fill these ranks. The draft would probably have to be made for 100,000 of the best men of the country.
Moving an Army
Beginning last Wednesday and continuing for aviators and signal service the national army will be moved to the sixteen cantonments, there to be prepared to enter the war against Germany. To transport these men in the given time will tax the capacity of the railroad of the country. It will require the daily use of 6,000 or 8,000 coaches and sleeping cars, those farthest from the training camps to use the sleepers, those nearest the coaches.
