The Indians of California.

A Mr. Delano writes to the Ottawa (Ill) Free Trader as follows:

Near each rancho is generally a village of Indians. They are dark colored, nearly as dark as a negro, covered with dust, living upon acorns, wild fruit and fish. They have nothing of the noble bearing of the Indians east of the Rocky Mountains, they seem to be only a few degrees removed from brutes. Their dwellings resemble almost an exactly large coal pits where wood is charred; a pit is dug in the ground, a circular frame work is built, and this covered with dirt six or eight feet high, with a small hole at the base to creep in and out of, and another at the top to let out the smoke. You will always see numbers of men sitting on the tops of their hives, sunning themselves, while the squaws are generally engaged in preparing their acorn flour, or in weaving baskets and pans, in which they are very ingenious. They make them perfectly water tight. Their acorns are dried, then pounded fine and mixed with some kind of berries, making a kind of bread which is by no means unpalatable but it requires a man with the courage to eat a rattlesnake, to taste it. In fact a man must cross the Plains before he can summon resolution to eat it, especially after seeing them prepare it. The men are very expert in spearing salmon, of which there is the finest here I ever saw and very abundant. They are now frequently employed in the mines for a mere trifle and such usually contrive to get a shirt, and a few get rich enough to buy a coat and pantaloons, but since the rains have set in I have seen hundreds of them wading the streams for fish or traveling on the plains naked, and paying no more regard to the wet chilly storm than dumb beasts. In the valley they are now inoffensive as the number of whites overawe them, but in the mountains they sometimes give the miners trouble and some robberies had taken place. Those in the mountains are treacherous and unsafe and will be until they become acquainted with the power and strength of their Anglo Saxon neighbors.

DETROIT, April 15—11 A. M.

LOSS OF THE SCHOONER LAWRENCE.—The Keystone State, just down from the Upper Lakes, reports, that on Wednesday morning last, the schr. Lawrence, Captain Short, of Milwaukee, with 11,000 bushels of wheat, was sunk about a mile to the westward of St. Helena in 8 feet water, being cut through by the ice. She sunk in fifteen minutes after the leak was discovered giving the Captain and Crew barely time to lower the yawl and and save themselves.

FIRE IN WRENTHAM, MASS.—The stone mill belonging to Bacon & Hodges, and used as a jewelry manufactory, was destroyed by fire on the night of the 10th inst. together with all its contents. The upper story was occupied by the firm of Draper, Tifft & Bacon, for gold work, and the second story by Ebenezer Bacon, for the manufacture of gilt jewelry. Loss, including building, stock and tools, estimated at $4,000. No insurance.

CHOLERA AT DONALDSVILLE, LA.—A correspondent of the Southern Christian Advocate says, that thirteen deaths by Cholera has occurred among the negroes on Bruce's plantation at Donaldsville, La. in the two weeks prior to March 27. Many of the cases proved fatal within six hours after the attack. There had been occasional cases and deaths on two other plantations.

☞ When Judge Peters of Pennsylvania was Speaker of the House of Assembly, one of the members, in crossing the room, tripped on the carpet and fell. The house burst into laughter, while the judge, with the utmost gravity, cried, "Order, order, gentlemen—a member is on the floor!"

LEFT FOR EXECUTION.—It was rumored in Boston on Monday, that the Governor and Council had decided finally, in the case of Pierson, not to commute the punishment, and that the day for execution was fixed for the 17th of May next.

NAVAL.—The U. S. steam frigate Saranac, Commander Tattnall, from Portsmouth, N. H. arrived at Norfolk on Saturday last, and anchored off the Naval Hospital.

LIFE SKETCHES OF NEW-YORK PHYSICIANS.
HUMOROUS AND SATIRICAL.

THE SCALPEL, a journal of Health for the People, edited by EDWARD H. DIXON, M. D. The May number contains a series of admirable essays on Consumption, Flatulis, Fistula and Prolapsus of the Rectum, Ruptures, Piles, Rheumatism, Cholera, Diet of Nursing Mothers, the Impression of the mother's mind on the conformation of the child before birth, the effects of Tobacco on virility. Four numbers, 64 pages each, 25 cents each number.

The London Lancet, edited by Thos. Wakefe, M. D. remarks, in a notice of three columns in the last number:

"We have received from the publisher a copy of this journal, which we take to be a production of unquestionable merit, and there seem no limits to the extent of information which the Editor of the London Lancet would like to have from the New York. We would advise our home readers to subscribe."

A TREATISE
ON DISEASES OF THE SEXUAL SYSTEM—276 pages, eighth edition, price $1—From the New-York Journal of Medicine and Collateral Science and the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal:

"The Treatise is written with skill and a thorough knowledge of the subject, and we have no hesitation in saying that it may be perused with great profit by the married, or those about to be married, whom a knowledge of the diseases and disorders treated of in this work, may save from much misery and disease. The author's remarks are particularly well timed, and the advice he gives is valuable, and we feel assured that the work will be productive of much good, if it be perused by those for whom it is intended, and who are in need of such information."

Also, Woman and her Diseases from the Cradle to the Grave—576 pages, $1 25. For sale by CHAS. H. RING, corner of John-st and Broadway. All business communications relating to the Journal must be addressed to the Editor's office, 5 Mercer-st, N. Y. a17 3t*

A DISCERNING PUBLIC may see cards at my office, a list of the names and addresses of above 600 persons, to all of any of whom reference may be made, and who will all, speaking from experience, say that it is entirely true that any lady may, by using my plan, get through the washing of her family, however large, in one hour, at an expense of less than six cents, without employing help or any machine, or using camphene, turpentine or ammonia, or any material that will injure the clothes or the person using it. No rubbing is required. The clothes are made of a better color, and remain longer clean than when washed on the antiquated plan. In addition to testimonials from Gen. Taylor, numerous clergymen and citizens, also the laundress of Queen Victoria, I refer to the editors of the following papers: Christian Intelligencer, New-York Daily Ledger, New-York Path Finder, Norwalk Gazette, Railway Register, Fairfax News, Long Islander, Windham Telegraph, Shelby News, Webster Telegraph, Kinderhook Sentinel, Paterson Guardian, Northern News, Plainfield Union, Huntingdon Democrat, Lancaster Union, Cincinnati Times, Germantown Gazette, Bangor Advertiser, Maidstone Gazette, Manchester Constitutionalist, Professional Almanac, Frederick City Examiner, Fishkill Standard, Niagara Iris, Rhinebeck Gazette, Peekskill Republican, St. Mary's Beacon, Daily Standard, Republican Advocate, Zanesville Mirror, Home Journal, Baptist Memorial, Free Mountaineer, Sullivan County Whig, Port Tobacco Times, The Lily, Savannah Republican, Vineyard Gazette, Scioto Gazette, Mother's Magazine, Boston Saturday Rambler, The Examiner, New-York City, Burlington Gazette. My statement may be true, or I could not give such references. My plan is in a pamphlet of 32 pages, and is so simple a child can understand it. Price $1. Be sure to call or send to H. TWELVETREES, room 23, 39 Nassau-st, New-York, where specimens of washing and testimonials can be seen. N. B. Sent by post, in a sealed envelop, on receipt of $1, and a written warranty given if required. a17 1t*
