The Bones Found in the Wakulla Spring.

Some time ago we gave an account of the finding of some bones of an enormous animal in the Wakulla Spring, in Florida, by a Mr King. That gentleman has given, to the Wakulla Times, a description of the bones which, with assistance, he raised out of the spring. After describing the apparatus he employed, he says:

In ten minutes from the time the boat was properly stationed and made fast, we had one of the largest of these immense bones resting upon the gunwale of the boat. It was my first impression that these bones were in a state of petrifaction; but, upon examination, I find that they are not in the least degree petrified. To be in a state of petrifaction, it might have been supposed, was necessary in order to their being preserved for so great a length of time as must have elapsed since the death of the animal. The outlines and shape of some of them are, with some slight exceptions, perfectly retained—and from the absense of petrifaction, their texture and general formation may be seen now as distinctly as at any other time. Their outer formation is, for the most part, an enamel, (and which is, perhaps, a peculiarity,) of from ¼ to ¼ of an inch thick, generally of beautiful whiteness, and very hard, too hard to be cut with a knife. The upper or lower (we cannot tell which at present) bone of each fore leg, which were obtained, measures a little upward of 3 feet in length, 13 inches in diameter above joint, and 13¼ to 14 inches in diameter at what appears to be the knee joint.

A single joint only obtained of the vertebre, belonging either to the neck or small of the back, measures 17 inches (and was apparently from 1 to 3 inches more originally,) across one way, and 10 the other, and the aperture which admits the spinal cord measures 3 by 4½ inches. The principal part of each hip bone obtained, indicate a length of at least 4 feet or more. They are so much broken, however, as to render it difficult for us here to determine what were their real size in every particular. The socket alone where the hip and thigh bones joined measures nearly 23 inches in circumference, or nearly 8 inches in diameter. A part of one blade bone and several others were obtained. That which proved to be a part of a tusk, taken from the depth of 46 feet, which was spoken of in my last, when viewed lying upon the bottom, presented a length of not less than 4 feet, and I think it was nearer 5 than 3. The shape of the part of the tusk seen was, lengthwise, a little curved, and is nearly round. There was no perceptible diminution of size for the whole length of this part, and at each end it appeared to have been broken nearly square off. It is to be regretted that this piece of tusk could not have been secured entire. When we had raised it, perhaps 10 feet—not having strength enough to hold its own weight, it broke in two, and fell to the bottom again; and the largest piece then to be seen was but little over a foot.

This we raised, but misfortune still pursuing this piece of tusk it fell from the hooks into the boat, and broke again into many pieces. It measured, as I have before said, eight inches in diameter, and judging from the fact that there was no apparent diminution in size for the length of four feet or more, and from its enormous thickness it could not have been less than ten, and was probably near twelve, or even fifteen feet in length. The piece obtained proved the tusk or tusks to have been of pure ivory, encased by enamel of almost transparent whiteness. The weight of these tusks or tusk was, beyond a doubt, also enormous. The piece which we attempted to raise, and partly accomplished, was quite a heavy pull for both Mr. Brokenborough and myself. It must have weighed 150 pounds, and the whole weight of the entire tusk could not have been less than 300, and it is quite probable that it weighed as high as 400 pounds. One of the big bones which I have described weighs sixty pounds, and could not originally have weighed less than 75 or 80 pounds. They are more or less hollow, and there was a hollow in the part of the tusk secured, of 2½ to 3 inches. There were no thigh bones to be found. Their length, judging relatively, must have been near or quite five feet.

THE HUNGARIANS—GOV. UJHAZY'S FIRST LESSON IN FARMING.—The Burlington (Iowa) State Gazette tells an amusing story of a late adventure of Gov. Ujhazy and his companion, Capt. Takacz. After selecting their lands in Decatur Co. these gentlemen, being closer to the Missouri than the Mississippi River, and having a natural desire to see the whole country, concluded to continue on west to the first mentioned stream, and there take a boat for St. Louis, whither they were going to obtain supplies, agricultural implements, &c &c. They finally touched the river at a point some 60 or 70 miles above St. Joseph—probably at or near the vicinity of Council Bluffs—and learned that a boat had just passed down, and that another was not looked for up for a week or ten days. To wait for so long a period did not suit a man of Gov. Ujhazy's active and business-like habits; so he and his companion at once made up their minds to force their way down to St. Joseph on foot, if no other way could be found. They accordingly set out; but hearing, soon after starting, that a Frenchman in the neighborhood was getting ready to go to St. Joseph, they called to see him. He informed them that his wife was at St. Joseph, and that he was anxious to go for her, but, until he got through with certain work, he could not think of leaving. He then said that if Gov. U. and Capt. T. would turn in and assist him on his farm, he would take them down in his team. To this our Hungarian friends at once assented—turned to and worked hard for three days planting corn! But the Frenchman did not reappear; and finally, becoming convinced of his duplicity, Gov. U. and his companion took their departure, and resolved to carry out their original intention of making the trip on foot. And this they performed in the course of three days, sleeping out at night during the whole time. Gov. Ujhazy relates this adventure with much good humor; it is the first lesson in farming in America.

ROUSE'S POINT BRIDGE.—Our readers will remember that the Legislature of New-York, previously to its late adjournment, appointed a Joint Committee to examine the locality of Rouse's Point, and all matters bearing upon the expediency or inexpediency of a Bridge across the Lake at that place, in connection with the Ogdensburgh and Vermont and Canada Railroads. That Committee are now engaged in performing the duty assigned to them. A portion of them were on the steamboat United States, this morning, on their way to "the disputed territory,' accompanied by several prominent gentlemen from Troy and Albany. We noticed Senators Johnson and Geddes, of the Committee; Hon. George R. Davis, Hon. Mr. Olin, Hon. Geo. Leslie, Ald Mather and Capt. Pierce, of Troy, and others. H. B. Stacy and Charles D. Kasson, Esqrs. joined the Committee from Burlington.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN DENTISTRY.—DR. NAPOLEON PRETERRE, Surgeon Dentist, late from Paris, now at 553 Broadway, opposite the Theater, informs the public in general that persons who have had the misfortune of losing their teeth, can have them replaced, so as not to be distinguished from natural ones. His new sets of teeth, put in without pain, (with which one can grind the hardest almonds) are remarkable for their transparency and lightness; they serve, not only to perform mastication, and endow the voice with a distinct and easy articulation, but to bestow upon physiognomy that grace and regularity which are the most brilliant appendages of beauty. Gold used in all operations will be of the first quality. Terms very moderate.
