THE CASE OF DANIEL H. PEARSON.—The matter of the present status of the case of Daniel H. Pearson, who is sentenced for execution on Friday next, at East Cambridge, for the murder of his wife and child, was brought before the Committee of Pardons on Wednesday, but no action was had. The report of Dr. Luther V. Bell to his colleagues upon the Council Committee on Pardons, relative to the moral responsibility of the condemned at the time he committed the deed has been published. After recapitulating the facts in the case, the evidence of calculation before, reflection at and concealment subsequently to the commission of the murder, he comes to the following conclusion:

"That Pearson is not, in point of intellectual power, to be ranked high, is certain; and it is highly probable that he may fall below the average of the great mass of the species; but the undersigned has been unable to see anything in his history—his conversation, as given by these witnesses, or in the immediate act of crime, which under any possible employment of the word imbecility, would include him—nor any defect in understanding, or moral sensibility, which would not exonerate the great majority of wrong-doers as well as him. Even were the grade of inferiority so as to excite a momentary doubt, in the abstract, as to his fitness to meet the legal consequences of some of his acts, an inquiry into his capacity, as relates to the specific deed of homicide, would force itself upon our minds. We can conceive that a man of meage powers of mind may be led into acts of crime, in respect to which his power of judging may be feeble, and should, in the eye of God and man, qualify the extent of his responsibility. A man of very low capacity may offer a counterfeit note because somebody has passed it to him, and he cannot comprehend how it can be very faulty 'to do as he has been done by;' an imbecile man may steal because he has been robbed, and may have a vague idea that 'the world owes him a living;' in such cases mercy should not turn a deaf ear. But what grade of capacity is there, short of absolute dementy, which does not clearly understand the guilt of willful murder—which can possibly misunderstand that simplest of all precepts, "THOU SHALT DO NO MURDER!"

THE ALLEGED WIFE MURDER IN BOSTON.—The Coroner's Jury, in the case of Sarah Lynch, who died at her residence North Russell st. returned the following verdict, based upon the statements of the wife the day before her death, and the evidence of another woman, who saw the blows inflicted:

"That said Sarah Lynch, wife of Peter Lynch, died in a room in the rear of no. 30 North Russell-st on Thursday, July 18, at about 9 o'clock A. M.; that she had a stricture in her throat, and had, a short time previous to her death, been discharged from the Massachusetts General Hospital, and that her death was accelerated by violent treatment of said Peter Lynch."

The husband, Peter Lynch, upon motion of Coroner Smith, has been committed to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury in the matter.

☞ Geo. W. Wilson was committed to jail, at St. Louis, on the 12th inst on charge of having murdered a German, named Martin, who was employed by Wilson as a laborer on his farm, near St. Louis.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—We regret to learn that a very destructive fire broke out in Jeansville, on Saturday last, in the new Hotel, nearly completed, belonging to David Martz, Esq. formerly of this borough, which consumed the hotel, and ten other buildings, a large portion of which were among the best in the village. Esquire Martz lost everything, and part of his family barely escaped with their lives. Martin Williams, formerly of this borough also lost his dwelling house. Messrs. Francis Bedford, James and Thomas Courtney, Wm. Watkins, L. Fowler, Charles Hampshire, Dr. Leonard, and Robert Preston, were among the sufferers—some of whom have lost all their property.

FIRE AT BATH.—On Saturday morning of last week the steam sawmill owned by S. W. & H. Rogers, in the north part of Bath, Me. was consumed by fire, together with a large quantity of lumber. The loss cannot be less than $14,000, on which there was but $2,000 insured. The mill was erected about two years since, and was one of the best in that city.

COLORED SONS OF TEMPERANCE.—The Massachusetts Grand Division, at the quarterly meeting in Newburyport on Wednesday last, resolved, 87 to 10, to maintain the Subordinate Divisions to admit members to the order without regard to color. This is against the National Division in Boston, which voted, 76 to 6, that it is improper and illegal to admit colored men.

GARRISON AT KEY WEST.—A letter from an officer in the United States Army, states that a company of the 4th Artillery, under command of Major W. W. Morris, was to leave Tampa on the 28th ult. on board the steamer Colonel Clay, for Key West, to re-garrison that place, in consequence of the Cuban difficulties.

HEAVY ROBBERY.—Mr. Kendall, of the firm of Kendall & Dix, Charlestown, Mass. was robbed of $1,075 in bank bills the other day. Mr. K. left the money in the pocket of his coat, which was hanging up in his counting-room, and was absent about twenty minutes, and on his return discovered that some thief had taken his money.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—An Irishman was attacked by three robbers in Ann st. Boston, on Thursday night last, knocked down and robbed of his watch, $8 in cash, and his cap. The robbers escaped.
