Later from Mexico.

From the New-Orleans Picayune, Sept. 25

We have received files of papers from the City of Mexico to Aug. 31, being six days later.

We learn that on the 20th July the Governor of Chihuahua, Angel Trias, sent a communication to the Minister of Relations, advising him of the atrocities committed at the town of El Paso by three hundred Texan adventurers, who had arrived at that place on their way to California. He asked that a sufficient force should be sent to Chihuahua to protect the frontier. Complaints are made of Arista that he is too busy electioneering for the Presidency to attend to Chihuahua, and that he has sent troops needed there to a place where they were not wanted.

On the 30th ult. in the Chamber of Deputies the report of the Committee relative to the Representatives from Yucatan was read. The majority thought the elections null. A minority made a counter report.

The savages are committing great ravages in the State of New-Leon. More soldiers are to be sent to Monterey.

The cholera has disappeared from Morelia and great is the joy of the inhabitants thereat.

Gen. Marin has accepted the place of Comandant-General of the State of Vera Cruz.

D. Febrano Quijano has been appointed Military Commandant at Saltillo.

The Legislature of San Luis Potosi opened its session on the 15th ult.

The Liberals have been successful in almost all the elections. Even in Mexico the Conservatives experienced a complete defeat. They scarcely make a fight any longer. The Liberals are split up into a great many factions. The vote of the State of Coahuila, it is said, will be given to Pedraza.

The boundary question between the states of Tobasco and Chiapas is not yet settled. D. Manuel Buelta, appointed by the Government as a pacificating agent, has directed official communications to both states. Chiapas sent an answer, expressing a desire for an amicable settlement of the difficulty.

The Ayuntamiento of Tampico has sent a communication to the Supreme Government, setting forth the sad condition of affairs in that port, consequent on the extensive system of smuggling operations carried on there. Besides, the neighboring country has been desolated by a drouth, and the people are in daily fear of the cholera. Articles of prime necessity are not to be found in the market.

A new frontier custom house is to be established at Piedras Negras.

In the Chamber of Deputies, Senor Perdigon has preferred an accusation against the Minister of War.

The cholera is raging violently in Jalapa.

The Zempualteca publishes an interesting correspondence between Messrs. Sartorius and Soto, about the establishing of German colonies in the State of Vera Cruz. In consequence of the troubles in Europe the first plans of Mr Sartorius were frustrated, but he has now made arrangements to bring over some hundreds of industrious families.

The Legislature of the State of Queretaro opened its sessions on the 17th ult.

The Apaches have been committing more robberies and murders in the State of Chihuahua.

Don Rafael Espinosa has gone to Lower California, in order to establish military colonies there.

The Railroad Collision and Loss of Life at Seneca Falls

SYRACUSE, Thursday, Oct 3.

The emigrant train from the East came in collision with the mail train from the West last night at Seneca Falls, killing one man and seriously injuring several others. Four passenger cars and two emigrant cars were smashed to pieces.

The following is related by the conductor of one of the trains:

The emigrant train stood switched off at Seneca Falls to let the other pass. When the mail train from the West came up and was about to switch off on the same branch with the emigrant train, the express train from the East hove in sight. The engineers of express and mail trains, seeing there must be a collision, both reversed their engines and jumped off, this being done so quick that the mail train started backwards at a rapid rate, and came in collision with the emigrant train standing on the branch with such force as to throw one car upon the top of the other. The express train was not injured. The man who was killed was standing on the hindmost platform of the mail train. His name was Boots, boss carpenter on the Rochester and Syracuse Railroad.

The scene is reported to be awful beyond description. [Utica Observer.

LAW COURTS.

COURT CALENDAR—This Day.—Superior Court—Nos. 1 to 3, 10 to 21, 604, 23, 24, 25, 27.

Circuit Court—Nos. 513, 619, 678, 695, 744, 770, 771, 772, 974, 975, 977, 978, 983, 984.

Common Pleas—Part 1—Nos. 648, 645, 649, 651, 653, 661, 417, 539, 669, 671. Part II—Nos. 636, 640, 644, 646, 648, 650, 652, 660, 664, 372, 152.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—Decisions.—Claim for Damages or Return of Money by Passengers.—The Ship Pacific, her Tackle, &c. ads. Charles D. Cleveland—The Pacific, it will be recollected, was up for California in Dec. 1848, and Mr Cleveland and others took passage in her, paying $150 in advance for the passage, but on finding the accommodations and number of passengers to be taken, different from what had been agreed upon, several (among them Mr. C.) refused to go in the vessel, and filed libels against the ship and against the owners and master for the breach of a passenger contract, and to get back the money advanced, and costs. The case was heard before Judge Betts, and reported at the time. Judge B. gave judgment and a decree in favor of Mr. Cleveland, and the others applying, and the present decision is on an appeal to the Circuit Court from that decree.

Judge Nelson, of the Circuit, in giving his opinion, showed the agreement to have been that not more than 50 cabin passengers were to be received on board, and, in consequence, the price of passage, $300, instead of $250, the usual charge. State-rooms on each side between decks were to be fitted up, with proper ventilation and room for exercise between the two ranges of state-rooms. The vessel was to be disencumbered with freight, and to sail about the 5th of January, 1849. The $300 was paid on the 2d Jan. Mr. C. was a resident of Massachusetts, and prepared himself at considerable expense for the voyage, and came here at the appointed time, expecting forthwith to start, but found a much increased number of state rooms had been made, without ventilation or room between them for exercise, and that 72 had been engaged, several of them at $275, so that the vessel was overcrowded with passengers and cargo, and incommodious and dangerous to health. Mr C. refused to embark, and demanded a return of the passage-money, which was refused, and suit entered.

A demurrer was filed that the case was one in which the Court of Admiralty did not have jurisdiction, inasmuch as the vessel had not started on her voyage, but afterwards did so and performed it, and that the libellant, in refusing to go, could not claim a return of his money—that the agreement as to fitting up, &c. was to be carried out in this port, and therefore not coming within Admiralty jurisdiction, but a matter belonging to the local Courts. The demurrer was overruled, and decree given.

In the case of the ship Ambrosia, which came before this Court, on appeal, in 1848, it was held that ships engaged in carrying passengers on the high seas for hire, stood on the same footing of responsibility, as to maritime law, as those engaged in carrying merchandise, and that on a breach of the passengers' contract and damage resulting, the ship as well as the owners were bound to respond. We abide by that decision, having seen no reason to change or modify it. That was the case of an emigrant ship from Liverpool to New-York, where the passengers had been kept for many days on short allowance of bread and water, the master having omitted to lay in a proper supply of stores, and we considered the passengers were entitled to remedy against the ship the same as the owner of the cargo, in case of a breach of the contract of freightment.

As to the idea of jurisdiction in this case the stipulations were connected with the agreement for the voyage, and the libellant had a right to demand a strict compliance with every part, and in case of refusal to consider the contract as broken, and resort to the proper tribunal for redress—the parts can no more be divided than the stipulations for stowage and tonnage in a contract of freightment. The failure to comply with any part of the contract went to the whole. Maritime contracts bind the ship for the performance of the service, and this whether in the immediate employment of the owner or let by a charter party to a hirer who is to have the entire control of her. The owner is bound as soon as hired, the master settles the terms upon which the vessel is to enter upon the service, and that the vessel should be bound to enter upon the performance of contract at the port of shipment seems so immaterial as any time after the voyage had commenced. We think the ship was bound to the entire performance of the contract, and that it comes within the maritime law. Decree of the District Court affirmed.

Samuel C. J. Hicks vs. John B. Jacques and James M. Jacques—Leave to Copy-right of Music—This was a bill filed for injunction to restrain defendants from an infringement of the claimant's copy right in a musical composition known as the "Sections Gavotte Polka," danced gracefully with unbounded applause at Burton's Theatre, arranged by George Loder.

Various defences were set up—one that the piece published by defendants is different from that of Mr. Loder, that the copy-right claimed consists in the melody, which in both publications was taken from a German composition called the "Rosen Polka," which had been played by various bands in New-York, especially by Mignia's band, before the publication of Mr. L.—that Mr. Loder had made no change, in fact, from the Rosen Polka, but simply adapted it to the platform dances of the chardonet, to which the original was adapted, while in the piece published by defendants there is considerable difference and eight bars of original matter, &c. also that the copyright is defective.

Plaintiff claims that the copyright was assigned to him by Mr L.

The Court, in its decision, said three things are necessary in law, to perfect a copyright, the depositing a copy of the title page with the clerk—that the copyright be printed in each book or work, and that a copy of the work within three months be sent to the Secretary of State's office at Washington.

The law of 1846 requires authors and publishers to send two copies of the work on which copyright has been secured, to the Smithsonian Institute, &c. No penalty is stated in the law for their not doing so, no provision is made for the expense of sending them, and a penalty seems to have been intentionally omitted so as to leave it optional with the publishers to send them or not. It does not appear to have been an amendment of the copyright law, as it alludes to books where the copyrights have been secured. The Court does not consider that a part of the copyright law. A question may, however, arise and authors had better send them under the law of 1846.

As to music, it has been determined by the various decisions, in effect, that the mere arrangement and adaptation of a piece is not a ground for copyright. The originality of a piece of music requires genius, but a mere mechanic in music can make an adaptation. To be entitled to copyright, the musical composition must be substantially new—an original work.

As to the publication of defendant, an expert has shown that it varies from that of complainant in many particulars.

It is claimed that the fact of taking the same title is a subject for injunction. This claim is under the copyright law, and the question of title alone does not bring the case within it. On that point, as the matter stands, the judicatory belongs to the local authorities. Should there be a good title to protection as to the copyright, this Court would then feel called upon, probably, to protect also the title of the work.

Whether the publication of complainant is such as to entitle him to copyright, and the other an infringement, must be left to a Jury, and the question as to the title of the work must also abide the result.—Motion for injunction denied, and it is ordered.

Goodyear vs. Day—Residence of Suitors—Motion for injunction and account.—The complaint is founded on a specification of 1846, adjusting suits as to patents on manufactures of India rubber. The bill states that complainant is a citizen of Connecticut and the defendant a citizen of New-Jersey, and objection is taken to jurisdiction. The objection is well taken, as the suit must be between a citizen of the State in which suit is brought and the citizen of another (see U. S. Act 1789.)—Motion denied and bill dismissed, with costs.

Allen vs. Spencer and others—Bill for injunction as to patent.—The Court thinks the patent granted to Allen in 1844 is for some improvement, as that of 1837, and the objection taken, that Commissioner had no right to accept the surrender and issue the amended patent, is not well founded. Case sent to a Jury, and decision suspended.

Before Judge Nelson.—John Beardsley vs. Lewis Tappan.—Mr T. is proprietor of the information office as to the standing &c. of business men. The present is an action for slander in relation to Mr. S. speaking of auditing up his store &c. Demurrer was put in. Argument was heard, and decision reserved.

FIRST DISTRICT COURT.—Before Judge Green.—Tavern Keepers Liability.—Babcock vs. Gunter—The plaintiff occupied a room at defendant's house in Fulton-st, known as Gunter's Hotel. While he thus occupied the room, a trunk was either lost or stolen. The evidence showed that the defendant keeps rooms to let, and the lodgers get their meals at such places as they please. The plaintiff contends that the defendant is liable, as inn keeper, for the value of the trunk and contents.

The Judge non-suited plaintiff on the ground that defendant was not an inn keeper, and therefore not liable for trunks or articles lost.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term.—Before Judge Edwards.—The argument as to the application by the Roman Catholic Asylum Society of Brooklyn, for a mandamus against the Board of Education of that city to compel the latter to pay the Society a portion of the Public School money, referred to yesterday, was concluded, and decision reserved. The points in the case of the Brooklyn Orphan Society, argued last week, were the same as to the constitutional points, but did not comprehend that as to sectarian points, the S. O. S. being a Protestant institution, and a particular creed not adopted in the school. The main feature of defense, in regard to latter, as to the School Law was, that it had not reported in season (as the Catholic Orphan Society also had not), to be embraced or calculated upon in the apportionment. Decision in both cases reserved.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term.—Decision by Judge Edwards.—Mary Ann Putnam vs. Theo. E. Putnam—Motion by Mr. P. for the custody of a little boy, child of the parties, it now being in the custody of the Mother, and a suit for divorce pending brought by Mrs. Putnam against Mr. P. for alleged infidelity. The remarks said the conduct, alleged in the bill may be capable of explanation, but the present appearance is that it was at least imprudent, and such as is opposed to the general idea of good morals. The child is well off where it is, and the Court sees no good reason for its removal—Ordered that the child remain in the custody of the plaintiff (the mother) till the further order of the Court, and that the child be not taken out of the jurisdiction of this Court.

Sarah Tessier vs. John Tessier—Motion for allowance denied.

Jeanne Adele Devaismes vs. Jean F. Devaismes—Motion that the parts of the answer marked C D and E be stricken out as irrelevent—decided. The motion is also denied as to a portion of the answer marked A. In other respects motion granted, but without costs.

Mutual Security Insurance Company vs. Malanza J. Drummond—Motion for injunction denied, with $10 costs.

Harris Wilson vs. Nathan Young and others—Motion to dissolve injunction denied.

North American Fire Insurance Company vs. Nathan P. Ferris and others—Same.

Horace M. Dewey vs. John D. Sweet—Motion that the defendant be permitted to come in and defend is granted, the judgment to stand as security.

Benj. B. Brotherson vs. Wm. H. Brown and others—Motion sent back to enable defendant Falconer to complete his testimony, unless defendants Burrows and Fox consent each to pay his own costs and one-half the costs of the referee; and that in case they do not consent, the costs of plaintiff be paid out of the surplus fund, and the report of the referee be confirmed.

In the matter of Robert Leggett, a lunatic—Referred to P. T. Ruggles to take proof as to the material averments of the petition which are denied by the committee and particularly whether board and lodging were furnished and services rendered, and what reasonably worth, and what agreement was made between the petitioners and the referees in relation to such board and service.

BROOKLYN LAW COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT.—Before Justice Morse.—Jas. C. Johnson vs. James Cully—This cause being called in its regular order on the Calendar, and no one appearing for plaintiff, on motion of defendants counsel, ordered that it be dismissed with costs.

COUNTY COURT.—Present: Hon. Saml. E. Johnson, County Judge, and Justices Stryker and Cortelyou.—THE TAILORS RIOT IN EAST BROOKLYN.—The People, against Michael Gens, Louis Esthen, Ernest Baur, Henry Holzapful, Henry Schwartz, indicted for creating a riot in East Brooklyn in July last; and also against the same parties, severally, for assault and battery—The case was brought on yesterday, before this Court; the District Attorney assisted by Henry A. Moore, Esq. for the prosecution, and Col. Crooke for the defense. The parties, complainant and defendants, are German tailors, residing in East Brooklyn. The defendants undertook to compel the complainant to join the "strike" against the employers by force of arms. This attempt was resisted by the complainant, who stood on his received rights, and a grand dare up among the Dutchmen was the result of these proceedings. A number of warrants were issued against the rioters, who were held, on examination, for trial in the County Court. The complainant, Adolph Garlarg, whose fluency in English is not commensurate to his zeal, created some amusement in Court yesterday, by his testimony. The offence for which the defendants were on trial was, according to his phraseology, nothing short of a "revolutior." After the trial had proceeded for some time, two of the accused, Gans and Holzapful, were discharged on motion of their counsel, there being no evidence against them. And the Jury, after protracted deliberation, found only one of the other three guilty, of a misdemeanor, viz: Ernest Baur, and recommended him to the mercy of the Court. Judge Johnson said he would not pronounce sentence for the present, but would hold it over the defendant, to be enforced in case of future misconduct. Col. Crooke thanked the Court for this leniency, and the parties left the Court in great glee at the result.

COURT OF SESSIONS.—Before Judge Johnson and Justice Stillwell and Cortelyou.—The argument in the case of the People against Elisha Buckman, was set down for Wednesday next, after a protracted argument.

MRS. JERVISS COLD CANDY.—The Sage and Anodoie.

Hegh cough! hech! hegh-tchlam!—
A cough and a sneeze.
Who desires such a vile paroxysm
As these!
A sort of a mixture of spray, showers and thunder,
That seems to rend lungs, nose and larynx asunder.
Would you endure it?
Of course not—then cure it!
If you want a specific, just go and secure it:
Don't make your friends nervous,
But seek Mrs JERVIS!
Her Candy is always of infinite service;
It exhilarates bronchitis—
And then it so sweetis,
That instead of a med'cine, it really a treatise
Its sale is immense;
For who minds the expense,
When a cough can be banished for twenty-five cents.

Sold wholesale and retail by Mrs. W. JERVIS, 365 Broadway, one door above Franklin-st, and sold by Druggists generally. Agents—110 Broadway; 10 Astor House; Mrs Hayes, 158 Fulton-st, Brooklyn, and by Druggists generally. Each package is invariably signed Mrs. W. JERVIS. MEDICINE.

THE GENUINE COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA

THERE IS NOTHING more difficult than to procure a medicine upon which the purchaser may rely as genuine. The adulteration of drugs and medicines is practiced to an extent that would perfectly astonish any one who is not into the secrets of the trade. Physicians complain of it, and Congress has been petitioned to institute a commission for the prevention of those frauds. Patent medicines are of all others the most vitiated. They are often got up by men ignorant of chemistry, medicine, and the human system, and who, conscious of the worthlessness of their mixtures, care very little of what they are composed, so that they cost nothing. The public are but slightly aware of the extent to which this game is carried. The high character and scientific reputation of Dr. James R. Chilton of New-York, who superintends directly the preparation of Dr. S. P. Townsend's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, and whose certificate accompanies every bottle, will satisfy all will place this medicine far above suspicion, and leave no room to doubt its purity or genuineness.

THE NEW FACTORY.

A new and extensive establishment is now being completed in the City of Brooklyn, for the manufacture of Dr. S. P. Townsend's world-renowned Sarsaparilla—which has heretofore been prepared at Albany. But in consequence of the vast demand for the medicine, and the increasing interest manifested in it by the medical faculty, it has been found necessary to remove the seat of manufacture to the vicinity of the great American Metropolis, that the public may have a better opportunity of observing the extent and character of the operations. As soon as the arrangements are completed, and the various departments of labor properly organized, medical men in particular, and the public generally, will be invited to call and inspect for themselves the systematic and scientific methods adopted in this extensive business. The exclusive direction of the manufacturing department will continue to be in charge of the well known Chemist and Physician, James R. Chilton, of this city.

CAUTION.

To avoid impositions, it will be necessary to see that DR. JAMES R. CHILTON'S CERTIFICATE, as well as the signature of Dr. S. P. Townsend, is on the outside wrapper of each bottle.

KRAPP'S HEALTH RESTORATIVE BITTERS.

THIS PREPARATION IS NOT MERELY A TONIC, an alterative or a restorative but a Grand Combination of the three. It gently stimulates by its astringent properties the relaxed and torpid stomach—alters the condition of the secretions, and through them of the blood—renovates and revivifies the dormant energies of the physical system, and by sympathy improves the animal spirits. To all who suffer from Indigestion, Bilious Disorders, Nervous Debility, Sick Headache, Loss of Appetite, Faintings, Spasms of the Stomach, Pains between the Shoulders or across the Kidneys, Nightmare, Feverishness, Giddiness and Dimness of Sight, Sinking Pains in the Stomach, Oppression after Meals, Dryness of Spittle, Chronic Diarrhea, Irregularity of the Bowels, Dropsy, Jaundice, or any of the diseases traceable to indigestion, and a sensible conviction of the stomach, nerves, liver, bowels, or any of the secretive organs, this preparation is recommended as an efficacious specific. For hysterics, fainting fits, and a majority of the diseases to which Woman's fragile system is exposed, it peculiarly adapts itself, and by all invalids of either sex who desire to possess the greatest of temporal blessings—"a sound mind and a sound body"—it should be hailed as the sheet-anchor of hope and health.

The following is among the many evidences of the beneficial results of Krapp's Health Restorative Bitters.

To Dr. Krapp, 562 Hudson Street.

GENTLEMEN,

Having been deluded by the many "infallible remedies," I confess I had little expectation that your Bitters would relieve me from the distressing maladies with which I was afflicted. However, as a drowning man catches at straws, I was determined to give your preparation a trial, and am thankful that I was induced to do so. It was a fortunate resolution for me. I had been suffering, first from water brash, and loss of appetite and subsequently my digestion became impaired, and dyspepsia with its train of horrors, fastened upon me. All the usual resources of dyspepsia were vain, and I tried the HEALTH RESTORATIVE BITTERS as a last resort. The fact that I am completely cured should be immediately known, and you are at liberty to use this certificate as may seem to you best.
