LATE UNPLEASANTNESS IS NOW FORGOTTEN BY PEOPLE OF SPAIN

"Life in Spain" was the subject of a very interesting talk given by Rev. William H. Gulick at the fellowship supper of the Newcomer's Club in the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday night. For forty years Mr. Gulick has been engaged in missionary work in Spain, having been sent there by the American Board of Missions a few months after Queen Isabella had been forced to leave the throne on account of the revolution which was at that time sweeping over the country.

There are few men today who are as well versed in the conditions of Spain as is Mr. Gulick, and his talk was one of more than ordinary interest. He spoke, in part, as follows:

"When the world was created, Spain was left until the last, and then the Creator called the people, whom he wished to put there, together, and asked them what they wanted, and their answer was that they wanted bays and harbors, mountains and rich soil. What more could they have wished for? Products of all the climates of the world were given them, and they grew into a race of people who are among the fairest on the face of the earth. When they asked for good government, the Creator answered them 'no,' and told them that if, with what he had already given them they had good government, that their country would rival paradise.

"A century ago the plains of Castile produced the finest wheat in the European markets, and even now the supply does not equal the demand, as all the produce is practically consumed at home. Grapes and raisins are cultivated and exported by enterprising foreigners, together with other products such as olives, almonds, and oranges. It is possible to ride for eight or ten hours through orange groves on the railroads, and during the ripening season it is a sight worth traversing Europe to see. Exporters purchase the entire crops on the field, and the fruit crops in Spain are reasonably free from pests. Since the war the influence of Spain has been greatly renewed. The people of Spain have forgotten the trouble with the United States, and [illegible] I cannot [illegible] of ill [illegible]. The thoughtful Spaniards now [illegible] that the loss of Cuba and the Philippines was a great blessing, [illegible] [illegible] old all and a monarchy, and did not keep Spain out in the war. Money was all tied up in Spain during the war, and people thoughtfully invested in booming industries after it which has resulted in a period of great prosperity."

Mr. Gulick then gave some interesting details concerning the government of Spain, and spoke as follows:

"The government of Spain has been better in later years than it has been formerly. The present King's father was very sympathetic, and mingled with the people unafraid, riding during the maneuvers among the provinces and coming into very close contact with the populous. He was very much liked because of his good fellowship, but ill health undermined him and he died prematurely. The present king, Alphonso XIII, displaced the heir apparent, his sister, much to her disappointment. The little king was brought up with the utmost care by his mother overcoming inherited ills until today he is a keen sportsman, a daring horseman and a reckless auto driver. Once, when the prime minister remonstrated with him for continually imperiling his (the King's) life, he was forced to resign. His ambition is to be a great and just ruler. His doctors tell him that life depends upon living in the open, and now he stays in the mountains.

"The government of Spain oscillates with great regularity between regular and conservative parties despite the fact that some understanding is suspected among the two parties. A man who was, until recently, a great orator and statesman, and at first a conservative, later urged his followers to uphold the liberal monarchy, and his friends thought that he would soon lose his place through conflict with the vatican. His long tenure of office however, may be ascribed to his friendship with the king. His power of oration was marvelous. He would answer briskly and quickly, with polished speeches, opposition in the senate in the morning, and in the house in the afternoon, and at night would deliver a finer oration at his club. He combined grace and fire, was always on the right side of a public question, and was the only man who ever dared oppose the vatican on important questions. He is followed by a great man of great ability and wealth; a man coming of a liberal family.

"Our missionary work will develop throughout the kingdom. The [illegible] missions are established through the north and south of the kingdom and are largely following along in lines of educational work. We find that the surest and most successful way to reach adults is through their children, and our schools have become so much better that we have attracted attention of the interest of the Catholics, that is we are admitting Catholic children in our schools. On the other hand, [illegible] [illegible] the Catholics in our schools our main object is to teach the simple gospel [illegible] which is sufficient in itself."

ARREST DESERTER WHO QUIT CORPS FOR LOVE'S SAKE

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

HILO, Nov. 25.—Deputy Sheriff Henry Martin placed himself in line for a reward of fifty dollars last Friday through his discovery and capture of a deserter from the Honolulu naval station. The man caught was Lester M. Elliott, a private of the marine corps, who came to Hilo a week ago and very quickly found work, being employed in the construction gang on the new Hospital Iron Works branch which is being erected in this city. Elliott denied his identity until he was finally cornered by Martin through his mentioning the name of his aunt, Alice Gourdon, which was included in the description sent from Honolulu as the nearest relative of the man wanted.

Elliott's desertion may be laid to a "woman in the case." It appears that he had been rather intimate with a woman named [illegible], who left Honolulu to come to this city several weeks ago. As the result of her coming here he followed and it was through the finding of the woman that he was easily found when the usual notice of desertion was received here.

DR. PRATT PRESIDENT OF MEDICAL SOCIETY

The Hawaiian Medical Association yesterday chose Dr. J. S. B. Pratt, president of the territorial board of health, to serve as president of the Association for the coming year. Dr. W. C. Hobdy, the retiring president, joins Dr. J. L. Judd on the new executive committee. Dr. H. V. Murray is now vice-president and Dr. Frederick Morong is secretary-treasurer.

At yesterday's afternoon session of the society papers on scientific subjects were read by Dr. C. B. Wood, Dr. C. B. Cooper and Dr. Pratt. Thirty medicos gathered around the festal board at the Country Club last evening, where informal talks were the order.

At a meeting of Oceanic Lodge No. 371, F. & A. M., held last night, the following lodge officers were elected to serve during the coming year: W. H. Goetz, W. M.; G. C. Bechert, S.W.; Geo. S. Curry, J. W.; R. H. Bemrose, secretary; G. J. De Roo, treasurer. The date of installation will be announced later.

CRITICAL TIME OF WOMAN'S LIFE

From 40 to 50 Years of Age. How It May Be Passed in Safety.

Odd, Va.:—"I am enjoying better health than I have for 20 years, and I believe I can safely say now that I am a well woman. I was raised on a farm and had all kinds of heavy work to do which caused the troubles that came on me later. For five years during the Change of Life I was not able to lift a pail of water. I had hemorrhages which would last for weeks and I was not able to sit up in bed. I suffered a great deal with my back and was so nervous I could scarcely sleep at night, and I did not do any housework for three years.

"Now I can do as much work as any woman of my age in the county, thanks to the benefit I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I recommend your remedies to all suffering women."—Mrs. MARTHA L. HOLLOWAY, Odd, Va.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. We know of no other medicine which has such a record of success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for woman's ills.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.
