MONDAY, April 14—P. M.

There was some re-action in the Fancies today, and Erie, Harlem, Canton, &c., fell off. The sound stocks were firm and in fair demand. Government and State Stocks had also an upward tendency. The principal decline was in Canton, which went to 79½, a decline of 1½ ₱ cent. Erie fell off to 87, closing at 87½, a decline of ½ ₱ cent. Harlem declined ½ ₱ cent. The Erie Securities were also rather easier. Reading was firm. Norwich declined ½ ₱ cent. The other Fancies were without important change. At the Second Board the market was rather better than the sales between the Boards.

Exchange is firm for Sterling, but Continental bills are more plenty and heavy. Sterling is 10½@10¾; Francs, 5.11¼@5.10; Amsterdam, 41½@41¾; Hamburg, 36½@37; Bremen, 79@79½.

The New-York Gas Light Company have declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 ₱ cent., payable on the 1st of May.

The traffic on the Washington and Saratoga Road for the first three months of this year shows a very large increase when compared with the same months of the previous year. The increase is about the same on freight and on passengers. The earnings have been:

	Passengers.	Freight.	Total.
January	$3,677	$1,088	$4,765
February	3,646	1,182	4,829
March	5,192	2,172	7,365
Total			$16,960
Same time last year			10,760
Increase (57 per cent)			$6,128

The passenger receipts for the first week in April are 100 ₱ cent. more than in the corresponding week of 1850. The total increase in 1850 over 1849 was $34,360, being about 49 ₱ cent.

We cannot learn that any American Gold has yet been engaged for the steamer of Wednesday, and unless the demand for Exchange is large to-morrow at 10½ and upward, there will not be any considerable shipments.

We cut the following from The Express:

The Tribune of this morning says:

"We understand the new Bank does not intend to carry out its original plan of enforcing par redemption in the City by the country Banks."

We are authorised to state that the Metropolitan Bank has not abandoned its intention of giving to the citizens of this State a par currency. The original plan is strictly adhered to. The subscriptions are over $1,700,000.

We have only to say that one of the leading Directors of the Metropolitan is the authority for our statement.

Great Revolutionary Legend, ready This Day.
REBELS AND TORIES, Or THE BLOOD OF THE MOHAWK. By Lawrence Labree, Esq. Price 50 cents.
Few works are so popular or so deeply interesting to the reader as those exciting Revolutionary Legends, which, while they make the blood course more rapidly through our veins, also awaken a strong feeling of gratitude, and stir up all our inner natures when we reflect that the blessings we as individuals now enjoy and the lofty position we occupy as a nation were purchased by the hardships, toils, and very life-blood of our brave forefathers, whose heroic deeds are worthy subjects of the chronicler's pen.
The scene of this powerfully written Legend is laid principally in New-York city and in the northern part of this State, at a period when the British held possession of the city, and while the northern frontier was ravaged by hordes of blood-thirsty Indians under Brant, who committed hitherto unheard of cruelties.
The plot is somewhat novel in conception and graphic in construction. The principal character is "Wild Medicine," (a soubriquet fearfully earned,) who, maddened by the persecutions of a rapacious creditor, pursuing his victim so fiercely as not even to spare from desecration the grave of his beloved wife, vows to return a terrible yearly interest of retribution for the space of twenty years—a threat which he most signally fulfils. The career of his son is made forcibly "to point a moral," and well sustains the position that a crime, though committed in darkness and veiled from the ken of man, is still ever present, and that "Thus Conscience makes cowards of us all."
The character of the bold, fearless, simple-hearted Murphy, and the favor made by him among the Red men with what appeared to their superstitious fears as a charmed rifle, are well described. Moreover, this Murphy is not an imaginary character, mention being made of him in the first number of "The Pictorial Field Book of the Revolution."
There is drawn, in the course of the work, a fearful picture of the massacre of the inhabitants and destruction of Cherry Valley; and it is here more particularly that we are made acquainted with the female characters of the story—high-minded, self-sacrificing, courageous women, daring all and suffering all for the preservation of their lovers, husbands, and children, sustained through their many trials and privations by that unquenchable love of Liberty which nowhere burned more brightly than in the hearts of the Women of the Revolution.
The whole narrative is historically correct, and we must say that it is long since we read a work possessing more interest of detail or greater powers of description, and right glad are we to welcome back to the fields of literature a gentleman favorably known as editor of the "Illustrated Magazine," which took rank with our boasted "Monthlies."

A New Novel this day published—a Companion to "Rockingham."
LEONARD NORMANDALE. Or THE THREE BROTHERS.
NOTICES OF THE ENGLISH PRESS.
This work possesses all the attractive features of that highly popular novel, "Rockingham"—more intense in interest, more brilliant in diction, and altogether superior in its attractive elements. [Athenæum.
We know no work comparable to the among modern novels, except those universally admired ones, "Rockingham," and "Love and Ambition," which it not only assimilates, but in our opinion far surpasses. In truth the press has not given forth a more delightful volume for "many a day." [London Quarterly.
There is a freshness of conception and vigor of style about this work, which distinguishes it above most of the romances of the day, and renders it one of the most attractive novels which has attracted public attention of late years. [Spectator.
This is the work of a great mind—a giant intellect—which is destined to attain high literary preeminence. Every one who reads "Leonard Normandale," will enjoy a rich intellectual treat. [Dispatch.
