In General Committee of DEMOCRATIC WHIG YOUNG MEN, Friday evening, May 3, 1851. The following Resolutions presented by E. Delafield Smith, Chairman of the Executive Committee, were adopted, viz:

Resolved, That the revolutionary action of Senators in Albany, in disorganizing the Legislature, to defeat measures believed by a majority of that body necessary to the public good, forms a signal illustration of the destructive tendencies of a false and spurious democracy. That the issues can only be fully realized when we reflect upon the condition of our Government should it become the custom of sectional or of partisan minorities, in our State and national councils, to secede from and dissolve them, upon the passage of any act whose constitutionality may be doubted or denied.

Resolved, That while the Constitution requires the surplus revenues of the Canals to be sacredly devoted to their completion and enlargement, its injunctions would only be obeyed with that wisdom and foresight which legislators are bound to exercise, were the work decreed to be performed immediately, so long as capital and labor required to other pledge than that those surplus revenues shall be applied as the organic law directs, and so long as the very certificates upon which they will rely for their security, the State is expressly declared exempt from all debt and liability.

Resolved, That we believe the people place entire reliance upon their highest judicial tribunals, and that when their representatives doubt the constitutionality of any measure, our representatives do their whole duty, by opposing it with voice and vote, without resorting to a violent disruption of the Government.

Resolved, That the welfare and honor of the State of New-York, the prosperity of her people, and the glory of her name, are blended with the great principle of Internal Improvement, of which DeWitt Clinton was the father, and to which the Whig party has ever and unitedly been devoted. That, representing the known feelings of the Whig Young Men of New-York, we extend the right hand of fellowship and sympathy to our brethren in the interior—to the mass of patriotic Whigs, and to all who are struggling for the establishment of enlightened laws, whose political attachment is measured by their patriotism, and who would build up the public interests, though on the ruins of a party.

Ordered, that these resolutions be published.

To the Fire Department and the Public.—It is with feelings of deep regret that we are obliged, by the necessity of the case, to appear before you to correct the views taken by our Chief Engineer, in his Card to the Fire Department in relation to the election of an Assistant Engineer. Not approving of either of the candidates nominated at Firemen's Hall, we had no alternative left but to select such a man as was competent and worthy, and nominate him solely on these grounds, as an independent candidate, not having the remotest idea of opposition to the wishes of the Chief Engineer. It is a matter of surprise, as well as regret, that the Chief Engineer should so far forget his position as to charge any member of the Department, and especially one whose character stands as high as Mr. Venn's, accepting any place by which to oppose him in the discharge of his duties. What could have prompted him to attach to us the name of "Clique," we are utterly at a loss to know. The movement was no secret. Notices of the meeting were sent to every officer in the Department, twenty-eight of whom were present, representing every district in the city.

Although Mr. Venn's name had been mentioned, he stood to better chance than others who were named, among whom were several of Mr. Carson's warmest friends, one of whom would have received the nomination had he not declined accepting it; whereupon the nomination was unanimously tendered to Mr. Henry S. Venn, who very reluctantly assented to allow the use of his name. Our only motive in nominating him was to bring forward a man who is in every way competent to discharge the duties of Assistant Engineer with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of the Department.

The charge of having circulated false and malicious reports in reference to Mr. Jackson is wholly untrue, and beneath the notice of honorable men.

Carson and Anti-Carson.—Mr. Carson, in a published card to the Fire Department having stated that the election of Mr. Venn to the office of Assistant Engineer would embarrass him in the discharge of his duties in every possible way, I feel it my duty to state, that on the evening of the nomination of Mr. Venn, the inquiry was made of him as to the state of his feelings toward Mr. Carson, and he expressly disclaimed that any ill-feeling existed on his part, and that if elected he would not only consider it his duty, but in all cases would support him, when right, in the discharge of his duties as Chief Engineer.

"How many bright eyes grow dim—how many soft cheeks grow pale, * * * and none can tell the cause that blighteth their loveliness." Grief, in many instances, has been known to produce the greatest changes in the growth and color of the hair. Baldness and grey hair is often the consequence of severe and deep affliction, and while nature causes these results, art has invented successful and beneficial restoratives. The best of these are BOGERT'S Hyperion Fluid, for stimulating the growth and beauty, and BOGERT'S Premium Electric Hair Dye, for dyeing the hair a jet black or dark brown color. BOARDING.

A NEW SUMMER HOTEL.—The Hotel recently erected by R. F. Carman, Esq., upon the banks of the Hudson, at Carmansville, (eight miles from Chambers-st. depot) is now ready for the reception of boarders for the Summer or during the year. The facility with which this house may be reached (several times daily in half an hour per Railroad) will commend it to the business man while its attractive location offers a more decidedly rural retreat for his family than can be found within the same distance of the city. Application may be made upon the premises or by note addressed to the subscriber at 240 Broadway. ALBERT L. SMITH.
