Illustration Francaise.—Moniteur Americain.

THESE NEWSPAPERS, one of which, L'Illustration, published weekly at Paris, where it occupies the highest rank; and the other, le Moniteur Americain, published at New York, after the arrival of each Cunard steamer, offer to American families, at the same time the most valuable artistic, literary, political and scientific collection that exists in the French language, as well as the most charming album of the passing events of our epoch.

L'Illustration, executed by the best writers and artists of Paris, contains the most important facts of contemporary history illustrated, where the pencil displays to the eye what the pen says to the understanding. In adding to it as Supplement le Moniteur Americain, our object is to render it the most agreeable and complete weekly paper for the drawing-room, where it can be consulted with equal interest by the various members of the family circle—the mother, the daughter, the student, the artist, the merchant, the statesman, the naval or military officer, &c., &c.

By a special arrangement with the administration of L'Illustration at Paris, the printing is advanced so as to deliver the numbers for America at the latest moment before the departure of the mail, which enables us to distribute every week through the United States the numbers received by the steamers, leaving Liverpool every Saturday. These numbers will have the same date as those of the London Illustrated News, brought by the same steamer.

L'Illustration and le Moniteur Americain are sold separately or together. The subscription is payable in advance. Address, post paid, Messrs. MARCOU & LE CHEVALIER, 167 Broadway, New-York.
