NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NEW and VALUABLE BOOKS for FAMILIES and SCHOOLS—DR. BREWER'S GUIDE TO SCIENCE: Or, The Scientific Knowledge of Things Familiar. 150 pages—price 62½ cents. A liberal discount to the trade.

The object of "Dr. Brewer's Guide to Science" is to explain scientifically and in the most concise and intelligible manner, about 2,000 questions of the common phenomena of life, similar to these subjoined:

Why does lightning turn beer and milk sour?
Why do leaves turn brown in Autumn?
Why is mortar adhesive?
Why are coals black—snow white—leaves green—violets blue, and roses red?

It contains an amount of useful information never before collected in a shape so convenient for study, and so easy for reference.

1. For a School Class-Book. The questions are such as are familiar to every person, and should be understood by every child. Who has not been asked by a child some such questions as these which follow?

Why does a candle show light?
Why is ice cold and fire hot?
Why does water boil and freeze?
Why does the air dry damp linen?

Are how often is a child called "troublesome and foolish for asking such silly questions?" The object of Dr. Brewer's Guide to Science is to supply answers to above 1,000 such questions, in language so simple that every child may understand it, yet not so childish as to offend the scientific.

2. For a Reading and Lecture-Book. It would form a most excellent syllabus for private or school-room lectures.

3. For Private Families and Individuals.

"It will be difficult to over-rate the value of this very popular little volume. It is no ephemeral publication, but a really correct and instructive digest of the best scientific information extant upon all the most common phenomena with which we are familiar. It is a most charming family book, and cannot fail to interest all classes of people."

[Evangelical Magazine.

4. For Railway Travelers. Every question is an independent question, and every answer complete in itself. The book may be opened at any page, and laid aside at any line. It is not needful to read a previous page to understand a subsequent one, but the traveler may amuse himself by turning from one part of the book to another with entire freedom; and

5. For Evening Amusements, and the Social Fireside.—Every question would make a sort of conundrum or enigma, and much amusement might be mingled with instruction by those who would take the "Guide to Familiar Science" as a text-book to puzzle and to please.

G. P. PUTNAM has recently published, PARA; or, Scenes and Adventures on the Banks of the Amazon. By J. E. Warren, Esq. 12mo. Cloth 75 cents.

"We have in the volume before us, vivid descriptions of a territory unsubdued by the advances of civilization, where stand the gigantic forests in their native grandeur, inhabited by birds clothed with a glittering plumage, and by monsters of huge dimensions, that thrive only in the mildness of a tropical climate. The author relates his adventures in so pleasing and graceful a style, that the book would be attractive if the incidents and occurrences were in themselves of inferior interest. We would unhesitatingly commend it as one of the most readable books of the season." [Northern Budget.

"He saw that magnificent but little known country under favorable advantages, and he writes with such natural ease, that we feel as if we were reading the journal of a tourist." [Boston Transcript.

"It contains much valuable and entertaining information concerning this portion of South America." [Troy Post.

"The writer presents vivid pictures of the luxuriant country on the banks of the Amazon. In magnificence and beauty that province of Brazil surpasses almost every other section of the globe, yet it is so seldom explored that every description of it possesses the charm of novelty; and especial entertainment and delight may be derived from the admirable sketches contained in the volume before us." Peterson, member of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia. This work is well worth the attention of all who are interested in the instruction of youth.

From Professor V. H. Allen, President of Girard College for Orphans, Philadelphia.

GIRARD COLLEGE, May 6, 1851.

Robert E. Peterson—Dear Sir: I beg leave to tender my thanks for your courtesy in sending me a copy of "Familiar Science." I have read parts of each division of the work, and have been pleased with the precision of the questions, and the accuracy of the answers. The book is not merely a volume of familiar knowledge, but a volume in which such pure and profound knowledge is made familiar to the common mind and applied to common things. I consider the book a valuable contribution to our means of instruction in schools, and hope to see it generally introduced and used by teachers. Fathers of families also, who are now frequently puzzled by the questions of the young philosophers of their households, will do well to procure a copy and avoid saying so often, "I do not know."

I remain truly yours, &c., WM. H. ALLEN.

The work is also recommended by the Rev. Lyman Coleman, D. D., Principal of the Presbyterian Institute, Philadelphia; the Right Rev. Bishop Potter; Prof. N. C. Brooks, Principal of the Baltimore Female College; late principal of the Baltimore High School; the Hon. Joel Jones, Ex-President of Girard College for Orphans, Philadelphia; George H. Dorsey, Instructor in Chemistry, and Lecturer on Physiology at Burlington College.

It is also about being introduced into the principal Public Schools throughout the United States. The work is well got up, large type, fine white paper, well bound in sheep, 1 vol. 12mo., 336 pages. Price 75 cents. A deduction made to teachers. In ordering the work be careful to give the right author, "Familiar Science," Edited by R. E. Peterson.
