ALBAN: A TALE OF THE NEW WORLD. By the author of Lady Alice.

"Lady Alice is decidedly a work of genius. Indeed, we know of few romances where this first and highest excellence is more apparent. It is both peculiar and original. Nothing since Jane Eyre is more so. * * * Whoever wrote it is, or rather may be, a greater writer. He writes like a full grown man; master of his subject and himself. He has occasional passages of health, strength and beauty—he has pathos, delicacy and spirit—he is finished and elaborate to a fault. More than this, he is exceedingly ingenious in constructing his plot, and effective in bringing his incidents to bear." [Boston Post.

"This is an extraordinary book. * * That the author was animated by a deeper motive than that of the production of a clever and somewhat surprising novel, which should make a great sensation, we are perfectly satisfied. * * A graceful fancy, and even a high imaginative power, are unsparingly exercised throughout." [Douglas Jerrold's Weekly News.

REYNOLDS'S GREAT ROMANCE Complete. Published this morning,

THE GIPSY CHIEF, by G. W. Reynolds, author of "Life in London," &c. Illustrated. Price 50 cents. This splendid romance, which has been looked for with so much impatience, is now ready. The dramatic power throughout the whole story is strong and vivid. There is no straining after undue effect; the positions are striking, and the incidents faithful and true to nature. The author's power of characterization was never more fully exhibited than in the masterly portrayal of "Fairy," "the Hag," "Little Eliza" and "wicked Nell," whose life-like drawings, as well as original conceptions, would have done credit to a Scott or a Dickens. The numerous readers of this favorite writer will find this last production a work of extraordinary genius and ability.
