In a few days,
Sir Admiral Fisher's great Nautical Romance, RALPH RUTHERFORD, price 25 cts.

NOTICES OF THE ENGLISH PRESS:

We have no longer the same necessity to regret the loss of Marryat's genius on the sleep of Cooper, since a new aspirant has appeared in their peculiar field, who combines the excellences of both, and adds thereto a freshness of incident and style which imbues his works with vivid interest. The Sea Stories of Sir Admiral Fisher are, beyond question, the best of the day. [Morning Post.

As a writer of Nautical Romance, Sir Admiral Fisher has achieved an enviable reputation; and the present work vindicates his claims to even higher merit. [London News.

This is truly an astonishing book, and revives our interest in the Romance of the Ocean, which, since the decadence of Marryat and Cooper, had fallen into the hands of ignorant hacks. Sir Admiral Fisher has cast fresh glory on this branch of popular literature, and is winning imperishable renown as a writer. [London Times.

A dashing Sea Story, which carries us along most delightfully with "a fresh breeze and a flowing sheet." [United Service Gazette.

Orders solicited for the above, or for any other work published in the United States.

IMPORTANT SALE OF REAL ESTATE IN THE CITY OF WASHINGTON.—On MONDAY, August 11, at 5 o'clock, P. M., on the premises, we shall sell that range of three brick buildings known as the "Union Buildings," situated on E street north, between 13th and 14th streets west, fronting on Pennsylvania avenue, described on the city plat as lot No. 5, in square No. 254; 70 feet front on E street and 150 feet deep, containing 11,156 square feet.

These buildings contain five offices on the ground floor, large rooms on the second and third stories, back buildings and other improvements, which, together with the location, render them very desirable, and with a comparative trifling expense may be converted into a first-class hotel, for which a better site cannot be found in the city.

For an extensive printing and book-binding establishment, the Congressional printing having been executed there for a number of years, and the many facilities for manufacturing purposes, it affords an unusual opportunity for capitalists as a safe and profitable investment.

Immediately after the sale of the above described property, the following lots will be offered:

Square No. 127, lot 1, containing		28,982	square feet.
