The Whereabout of Nathaniel Greer.

QUERY.—Has any one yet ascertained what the Honorable NATHANIEL GREER is? We are really growing anxious to hear from what part of Iowa he hails. Come, Fond Pa!! can't you give us a little information on the subject?

[Burlington Telegraph.

It is said, General, that one "Honorable NATHANIEL GREER," late of Pennsylvania, formerly a railroad contractor and Free-Soil Democrat in that State, has recently located in Des Moines County, Iowa—three or four miles in preference, General? No doubt, however, "friend Paul" can render the honorable gentleman immaterial in that quarter.

[Iowa City Republican, Sept. 17.

GREER AND DONALDSON AGAIN.—The Herald, which now appears to be the organ of the National Democracy, publishes the following "official" call for a "National Democratic Convention:"

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION.

The democracy of the several States of the Union are hereby requested to choose their quota of delegates to the Democratic National Convention, to meet at Baltimore on the first Monday in June, 1852, to nominate candidates for President and Vice President of the United States, for the support of the Democratic Republican electors. Representation should be in accordance with the new Congressional basis, (with the addition of two Senatorial delegates.)

Democratic National Committee.

All Democratic papers throughout the country are requested to publish the above call.

James Sanborn, of New-Hampshire, who furnishes this call to The Herald, says:

"All the Delegates who have been elected to the National Convention, thus far, by Conventions in New-Hampshire, Massachusetts and Wisconsin, are, I assure you, utterly informal, and they can never take their seats. The men who have thus early chosen Delegates to Baltimore, have done so without the least authority from the central organization of the Democratic party. Every one knows that the Democracy of these States could not move in the choice of Delegates before the regularly authorized call was issued."

Hunkerism in New-Hampshire, Massachusetts and Wisconsin meets with no favor from the constituted authorities of the "National Democracy."

COL. BENTON AND THE MEXICAN WAR.—It may not be generally known that Col. BENTON is now at Washington, engaged in the production of a book which is to embody his thirty years' observations as a Senator. Col. B. is a close observer of passing events, a man of great industry and much more than ordinary ability, and could some discreet friend be allowed to prune his forthcoming volume of the pampous egotism which it is sure to contain, it would no doubt add something to the readableness of the book, if not to the author's reputation as a writer. At all events, the work will attract attention, and should the Senator write truly one-half of his 'observations' during the last thirty years, he will be very likely to tread on somebody's corns. We have the authority of The St. Louis Republican for stating that one passage in the book has been read to some one, or that some one has read it, who reports that it attributes to the late President Polk the design, during the War with Mexico, of withdrawing the troops from that country altogether. It seems, according to this authority, that the President became frightened in view of the probable expenses of the War, and hence he resolved on so singular and abrupt a termination of it. The order for that purpose is said to have been actually signed by Mr. Secretary Marcy. And, as the story runs, Col. Benton heard of the affair late at night, sought out the President, with whom he was closeted for hours, which resulted in the recall of the order and the further prosecution of the War. The story, if true, is hardly more remarkable than the fact that Mr. Polk could be induced to recommend the creation of the office of Lieut. General with the view of appointing a civilian to the chief command of the army over the heads of experienced Generals, who had spent their lives in the field where they had won unfading laurels. We look with interest for the forthcoming 'Observations.'

ALLEGED CUBAN EXPEDITION.—The trial of Mr. J. L. O'Sullivan and Capt. Lewis, indicted with Major Schleisinger some weeks since, in a charge of fitting out the steamboat Cleopatra with a view to an expedition to Cuba, has been set down for next month. Mr. O'Sullivan and Capt. Lewis are in New-York. Major S. was among the prisoners sent to old Spain from Cuba, he having been in the expedition under Gen. Lopez. Mr. O'Conor is his bail here in $5,000. A few days ago, in Court, we heard the District Attorney suggest to his assistant whether it would not be proper to call the parties, (they were all away then,) and the reply was, "you may call, but they won't come."—Major Schleisinger expected to have been back, no doubt, in time to have answered his bail. His pleasant smile, frequently exhibited while attending Court before leaving, will probably not be witnessed here again for a good while. Capt. Lewis, we is said, is a native, and is large, personal appearance and looks the counterpart of Napoleon in his younger days, look much thinner than he did at the Court-House a few months since, showing the care and anxiety, if not suffering, caused by his Pancho expedition. He says he had nothing to do with the fighting matters, he is glad to get back. Mr. O'Sullivan, who has been to Savannah, probably with a view to testimony, arrived a day or two since. The trial will probably proceed the second week of the month.

FIRE.—Yesterday morning, at 4½ o'clock, a fire broke out in the drug store of Mr. Brown, No. 102 Avenue C, which, with the contents, was destroyed. The firemen were soon on the ground, and in a short time succeeded in subduing the flames without further damage than to the store. Our informer was unable to ascertain the loss. Insured for $750.

Assistant Captain Hogan, of the Eleventh Patrol District, says, on his return to the Chief, that: "The officers report that as the door of the store was burst open the owner of the store went out of the back door."

REBUILDING OF ESSEX MARKET.—Wednesday evening the Board of Aldermen adopted a report in favor of rebuilding Essex Market. The Committee propose that $35,000 be appropriated, and that the building be sufficiently large to accommodate a dispensary and Police Court, as well as the market. It will be in length 200 feet, and in breadth 84 feet. It is also proposed to have an iron Bell Tower erected on the same.

HARLEM RAILROAD.—The 11 o'clock night train from New-York for Cordham, was stopped in its progress half a mile short of Harlem on Monday night, by coming in contact with an ox, which had strayed on to the rails. The engine and first car were thrown off the track, necessitating the passengers to walk to their respective destinations. No passenger was injured.

MARINE COURT.—Before Judge Lynch.—Criminal Recognizances agt. John Gunderson.—To recover the value of coin, &c., alleged to have been in a belt worn by husband of plaintiff previous to his death, and handed to defendant. Also $27 alleged to have been deposited by deceased with him, already referred to.—Verdict for plaintiff, $100 and costs, which is the largest amount of verdict that can be rendered in this Court.

MARINE COURT.—Before Judge Cowles.—Action against a Justice.—Andrew Le ry against Amos J. Ware.—The defendant is a Justice of one of the Justice's Courts in the city. An action was tried before him a few weeks since, in which the present plaintiff was defendant. Judgment was rendered for the plaintiff in that action, but the judgment was reversed on the ground that the said Justice did not render judgment within four days after the case was submitted to him, which is expressly required by the statute.

The present plaintiff brings this action to recover against the Justice the amount of his costs and expenses in reversing said judgment.

The Court in this action held that a Justice is not liable for errors of judgment—but this case partakes of a ministerial character. The statute expressly requires the Justice to render judgment within four days. It is an express statutory provision about which there can be no misunderstanding, and cannot admit of an error in judgment. It is a mere computation of the four days.

The Court is of opinion that the Justice is liable. Judgment for plaintiff, with costs.

Suit by a Clerk.—Wages.—Lawson agt. Frederick Feiger. The plaintiff is a designee of a claim of Harman Burns, the claim being for four months services as a clerk, in the store of Mr. Feiger.

Burns was the witness on the part of plaintiff, and proved his services. On his cross-examination he admitted that during his term of clerkship he was arrested for taking and secreting money from his employer; but it was shown that all the money that was found in his possession was restored to Mr. F., the defendant.

The Court held in this action that the plaintiff had no right to recover, that a clerk, when employed, agrees impliedly, if not expressly, to faithfully serve his employer, and that a clerk breaks his contract, being guilty of an improper and dishonest discharge of his duty. Judgment for defendant, with costs.

Before Judge Lynch.

Suit for Contents of Money Belt.—Catharine Brown agt. John Gunderson.—It is claimed that Charles B., husband of plaintiff, went to Providence in July, 1850, to pursue his calling as a troubadour musician—to bring a skillful performer on the reed pipe, accompanying it by the organ—that he put up at the house of Mr. Foster, in Broad-st., Providence, and being fatigued and unwell, went to a druggist for some cream of tartar, but they gave him by mistake tartar emetic, by which he became poisoned, and died in about a day and a half. By his request Mr. Gerouchie, a friend of his, was telegraphed to come on from New-York, which he did, and was present when Mr. B. died.

The deceased was an Italian, and his business, in fact, that of a street player. Mrs. B., the plaintiff, was not then in New-York, but came out, with her family, afterward, having been sent for by her husband previous to his death. She sues as administratrix, it is alleged, on her behalf, that her husband was in the habit of wearing round his person a money-belt, and that this belt, previous to his death, was taken off him, and given with its contents, by the acquaintance of deceased, to Mr. G. That it contained metal money, believed to be gold, and weighed, at the time, it was said, three-quarters of a pound or a pound. Action is brought to recover. Amount laid at $100.

For defense it was contended that the belt contained but six dollars, and that Mr. G. has fully accounted to the administratrix.

It was stated that on his way to Providence deceased stopped at Fall River, and, while playing opposite the hotel called the Nott House, was invited in, and remained there playing two days. It was shown he got there, or was seen to have, between $40 and $50, mostly in gold. His fare was paid to Providence.

It is said in defense that B. was so poor here that Mr. G. advanced him $3 with which to go to Fall River and Providence, and that as to the money seen with him at Fall River, he had been exposed to being robbed by persons in the two days subsequent before Mr. G. got the belt. It was denied that the belt contained any more than the $6. It was shown that defendant had acknowledged that deceased left $27 in deposit with him when he went to Providence—and this is also implied in the suit.—The Court charged that it is a question, from all the circumstances, for the jury to decide. The druggist at Providence selling him the wrong medicine which caused his death, paid his funeral expenses. Verdict this forenoon. For plaintiff, Messrs. H. F. Clark and Rapalje; for defendant, Messrs. Newhouse and Gerardus Clark.
