☞ Caution to the Deaf.—Dr LUTENER considers it his duty to caution the deaf against applying to a set of "pretended aurists," whose only object and highest ambition is gain, their only recommendation a glaring advertisement, a compound of ignorance, presumption and perversion of truth. Of the 43 patients consulting Dr. Lutener within the present month, 27 have been victimized by these "impostors," not only losing their money, but almost invariably been deprived of the little hearing they had possessed. The law of heel alone prevents Dr Lutener from making a personal exposition of the facts particularly connected with the above statement. Dr. Lutener is the only recognized Aurist in the United States, and his Ear Infirmary, No. 189 Broadway, N. Y., is the only institution in the world where the Ear and its diseases are exclusively attended to. Open from 8 until 3. Testimonials from upward of 200 persons cured by Dr. L. of Deafness, of from five to forty years' standing, may be seen at any time during office hours. o31 2t TuF&S

WOMAN AND HER NEEDS: By Mrs. E. OAKES SMITH, author of "Sinless Child," "Lost Angel," &c. &c. 12mo. 120 pages—price 25 cents. New-York: FOWLERS & WELLS, Publishers.

"The object of the work is to raise woman to her proper sphere in life, and to show how necessary is true womanly influence to the happiness and well-being of man. The author discourses eloquently of the wrongs under which her sex labors—of the degradation to which they are subjected by the social laws that prevail, and of the means by which she may shake off her fetters." [Eclectic.

"It is rarely that the rights and wrongs of woman have been set forth with so much clearness, good temper, and good sense as by the present writer. She has evidently mastered the subject by dint of reflection and experience. She has gained too deep an insight into the true position and destiny of her sex to need the aid of exaggeration or sentimentality for the support of her appeals. Her language is marked by argument rather than by declamation. With the same rare beauty of style which marks the former productions of the author, and has given her such an elevated rank among living American writers, this volume exhibits an earnestness, a business-like vigor, and a practical wisdom, which will insure it a hospitable reception among genial thinkers." [New-York Tribune.

"Mrs. Smith has treated the subject with great ability, and made a large number of suggestions worthy of the serious consideration of all lovers of the race." [Christian Ambassador.

"Her remarks on marriage are often suggestive of painful thoughts, and they should be attentively considered by all who would rightly view that great institution." [Portland Transcript.
