BILLY NOLAN IS A MAKER OF CHAMPS

Brought Nelson and Wolgast to Front, and Now Has Interests of McFarland in Charge.

MAKES FORTUNE IN RING

Michigan "Wildcat" Credited With Earning $300,000 Since Entering Squared Circle—Former Pugilists in Movie Dramas.

Billy Nolan, successor to the late Billy Delany, as the "maker of ring champions," is with us once more. The one-time mentor of Jim Jeffries had the enviable reputation of developing more title holders than any man in the game; while Nolan has piloted more pugilists in the championship harbor than any manager in captivity.

Nolan's success lies in the fact that by uncanny shrewdness he matched two of his charges for battles that netted them world's championships, and the attendant glory and remuneration. Nolan's first noteworthy manoeuvre was to inveigle Joe Gans into a match with Battling Nelson, that enabled the Durable Dane to wrest the lightweight championship from the colored wizard.

A few years later, when Nelson decided to become his own manager, press agent, author and various other things that Nolan attended to in time of Nelson's prosperity—Nolan having been cast aside by Nelson—Billy took a lad out of the obscurity of Cadillac, Michigan, and in a few months had him matched to fight Nelson for the world's title at 133 pounds.

Ad Wolgast was that unknown, and the "Michigan Wildcat" vindicated Nolan's confidence in him, when he humbled the marvellous Dane in forty rounds of the fiercest fighting ever witnessed in any prize arena.

Now Nolan has Pack McFarland in tow. The wonderful Packey has been fighting more than ten years, but in that time has never been engaged in a championship battle, although, at times he was considered quite superior to the reigning king in his class. Always, when Packey was on the verge of being matched with the champion, some unforseen obstacle cropped up and the opportunity was lost to him.

Nolan's latest lamentation is: "I managed a Dane and a German in championships; now I am going to pilot an Irishman into a world's title."

Strange as it may seem, it is the lightweight championship that Packey McFarland is after. It has been a half dozen years since Packey was supposed to have graduated out of the lightweight class; and now the Chicagoan insists that he can make 135 pounds at 3 o'clock as readily and with as little exertion as can the champion Freddie Welsh.

McFarland's weight has been one of the mysteries of the ring for many years. Packey's pet aversion, when he was taking on opponents at the rate of one a week was to scale in. It was this unwillingness on Packey's part that prompted the experts to class him in any division but that of the lightweights. It was even experted that McFarland really belonged in the middleweight class, and that Mike Gibbons should have been the object of his challenges.

But Nolan assures us now that McFarland is still a legitimate lightweight, and that Patrick can make the poundage if there is enough incentive. Sufficient incentive, according to Packey, would be a match with Freddie Welsh, and the curley-haired wonder from Chicago stands ready to post a forfeit for weight.

Strange things have happened in ringdom—such as discredited boxers fighting their way to the championship, but if McFarland gets a match with Welsh and shows us that he can come anywhere within range of the lightweight mark, then all will be willing to admit that wonders will never cease.

Ad Wolgast, who strove so valiantly to regain his title from Freddie Welsh a week ago Monday, has earned more money in the ring than any lightweight in the history of the game. Adolph, who for several years, struggled along under the appellation of the "Cheese Champion" (inflicted upon him by Battling Nelson) has poured a mite over $300,000 into his coffers since he adopted boxing as a profession seven years ago.

Of this vast sum, Promoter Tom McCarey chipped in over $80,000 in the form of purses. The other coast promoter, Jim Coffroth contributed somewhat over $80,000 in purses.

The largest lump sum Wolgast ever received for one battle was $47,000 for his fight with Joss Rivers at Vernon, Cal., on July 4, two years ago. Rivers was knocked out in thirteen rounds. Wolgast received $20,097 as his end of the receipts and $27,000 for his moving picture rights. The receipts totaled $43,000.

Wolgast has engaged in less than eleven fights, in which the receipts aggregated over $25,000. Little Ad has never suffered the ignomony of a knockout, and has been floored but twice in his ring career—once when he won the title from Nelson, and the other time when he lost the premier honors to Ritchie.

Adolphus has the betting fever in the most aggravated form. He never fails to back himself heavily for a fight, as he says that is the inspiration he needs to battle in his best form. In his championship battle with Nelson, Wolgast backed himself to the extent of $5,400, which he won, and he lost $7,000 in wagers when he passed over the title to Ritchie.

And all this despite the fact that Wolgast's hands are brittle, the diminutive Michigander is the unluckiest first rank fighter in the game, and he has lost close to $100,000 through injuries sustained just prior to big battles.

Pugilists who have seen their best days in the ring are turning to another field of endeavor to gather in the shekels. The motion picture game has countless former ringmen in its midst, but as yet not one has ascended to stardom. Generally they are to be found in the mob scene at $2.50 per diem.

Sailor Burke tried his hand at posing for the "movies" several weeks ago and quit in a huff after one day's work. He toted a spear around for a performance, and upon being presented with the regulation $2.50 quit on the spot. The sailor considered his efforts more valuable, and thus a star was lost to the moving picture world.

NATIONAL COMMISSION STAGGERS PORTSMOUTH

Truckers Compelled to Pay Tannehill $500 Covering Balance of Term as Manager. Elliotts' Standing Puzzles Fans.

Jesse Tannehill, the old major leaguer who learned the art of ball tossing with Jake Wells' old Blue Birds, in the Atlantic League in Richmond, from which the pitcher went to the National League, gets $500 from the Portsmouth club by reason of a decision of the National Board, which opinion has been sustained by the National Commission.

Tannehill took up the management of the Truckers during the practice season last April and held on until some time in June, after he had put a few of the gate receipts in his pockets to pay himself for services rendered. It is understood that Tannehill, manager, paid Tannehill, private citizen, about all the club owed him and then the club fired him.

Aparently, the backers of the Portsmouth team dismissed the matter, and looked upon it as closed, but in this they had an awakening coming. Tannehill had been in baseball long enough to know a thing or two, and one of these things led him to appeal for the balance of his salary until the end of the playing season. That is the $500 Tannehill wants about this time, if he already isn't enjoying it.

The decision of the board, and it looks as though it was about the only thing the board could do in light of the evidence, comes as a blow to Portsmouth, for funds have not been deep in the coffers of the team for, in these many seasons. The career of baseball in Truckertown has been a long and mighty struggle to keep both ends even. The backers passed the hat around frequently last season, and at one time they had the "movies" helping out with a "percentage" of patronage.

No one thought the club could go through the season, but it did and had already started out to gather the ducats for next season, and now some of these must go to pay Tannehill's back salary, which will duplicate, doubtless, what has already been paid the manager who succeeded in charge.

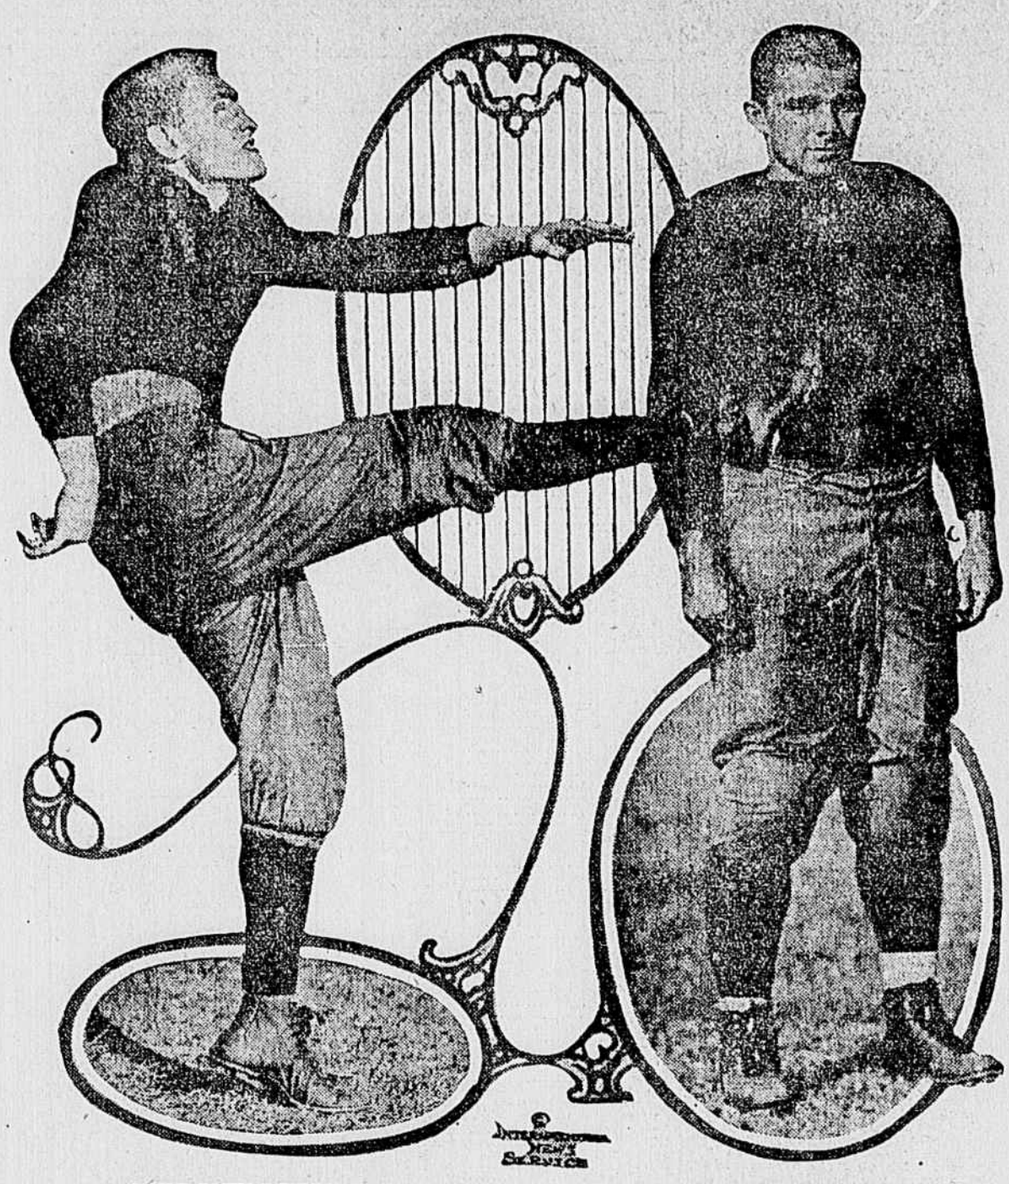
While Portsmouth has not had an opportunity to be heard since the decision came to the attention of the fans, but no surprise need be expressed if it develops that the decision has staggered the backers of the team.

The ownership of the Norfolk franchise, since it was reported to be sold by H. C. Elliott, the Roanoke owner, has been questioned by some fans in Norfolk, a condition probably brought about by the fact that Elliott was elected vice-president of the circuit, even after he had retired from interest in the league. It is claimed that Elliott has sold out lock, stock and barrel, and that he has absolutely no interest in the Norfolk team now.

The fact that the title to the ball park, which was owned by Elliott, has been recorded, would seem to put an end to further discussion. The land is now in the name of F. B. Walker, the new president of the team. An application is to be made at once for a charter for the backers of the team, and when an organization is perfected under this the grounds will be leased by Walker to the corporation.

Pitcher Markle, who was the king pin of Virginia League pitchers this year, has written the new owners of the Norfolk team that he will be delighted to return to the Tars next season. One more year in the minors ought to make this slabman ripe for much faster company, if not fit for the major leagues.

Two Yale Football-Baseball Stars Coveted by New York Giants



LONG JOHN REILLY. HARRY LE GORE.

Although for obvious reasons all parties concerned refuse to admit it, there is good reason to believe that the New York Giants are hot-foot after Long John Reilly, the Yale third baseman, and Harry Le Gore, the Yale shortstop. Both are on the football team this fall, and Le Gore is a possible All-American.

Harry Hempstead, president and John B. Foster, secretary of the Giants, visited New Haven recently, ostensibly to look over the new Yale bowl, but really, it is reported, to urge the two college stars to enter the professional game.

Le Gore comes from the prominent family for which Le Gore, Md., was named. Reilly is a member of the family of Brockton athletes, three of whom have worn Yale and Andover Academy uniforms. All the boys have partially worked their way through college.

These two young athletes clearly prize the chance to wear a Yale uniform above that of donning the toga of the New York Giants. Both have had liberal offers from several big league nines, including Connie Mack's.

WITH FIVE MINUTES TO PLAY, DARKNESS ENDS THE GAME

Davidson College Defeats South Carolina on Muddy Field and With Rain Falling Constantly.

COLUMBIA, S. C., November 14.—Davidson College defeated the University of South Carolina, 13 to 7, here this afternoon. Although the game was played on a muddy field and with the rain falling throughout, it was spectacular from start to finish.

The contest ended with five minutes yet to play, when it was too dark for the players to recognize their own team. Carolina's touchdown followed a forward pass in the second quarter. Davidson gained a touchdown by a forward pass, following a penalty, and the other touchdown also came after a penalty.

McKinnon carried the ball over after a series of bucks. White's clever blocking of a Carolina punt paved the way for Davidson's first count. McKinnon, C. Walker, R. Walker and Howell were the Davidson stars. For Carolina, Stoney and Hill played great ball, while Heyward's punting was an outstanding feature. Line-up:

Davidson.	Position.	S. Carolina.
R. Walker	left end	Plaxico
Howell (Captain)	left tackle	McMillan
Gleer	left guard	J. Porter
White	centre	Girabeau
Van Devanter	right guard	Hampton
Anderson	right tackle	Johnson
Crayton	right end	O. Going
Keesler	quarter back	Stoney
C. Walker	left half	Heyward
Black	right half	Brooker
McKinnon	full back	Perry

Time of quarters, 15 minutes; last quarter was called after ten minutes of play because of darkness. Touchdowns—Plaxico, R. Walker, McKinnon. Goals from touchdowns—Heyward, McKinnon. Substitutions: Davidson—Bullock for Van Devanter, Van Devanter for Bullock, Ansley for Crayton, Laird for Black, Black for Laird. Carolina—Hill for Plaxico (at end), Plaxico for O. Going, O. Going for Johnson, Lamotte for Hill (at end), Hill for R. Going (at full back), LaMotte for Hill (at end), Hill for LaMotte (at end), Edmunds for LaMotte, Fant for Edmunds, Langston for Fant, LaMotte for Langston, Edmunds for LaMotte, LaMotte for J. Porter, English for Hampton, Johnson for English, Geer for Brooker, R. Going for Perry. Officials—Pedon (Pennsylvania), referee. Henderson (Ohio Weslyn), umpire. Holland (Clemson), head linesman.

VANDERBILT DEFEATED IN LESS THAN EIGHT MINUTES

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., November 14.—In a little less than eight minutes of play, Auburn had deafeated Vanderbilt here this afternoon and had further strengthened her claim to championship honors in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

The game, played in dreary, vapory weather, ended with a score of 6 to 0, and Auburn's goal line remained uncrossed.

A series of desperate line plays, mixed up with several fake kick and fake forward pass formations, enabled Auburn to score the only touchdown of the game. Vanderbilt seemed unable to cope with the plunging Auburn machinery in the first few minutes of play, but after her goal line had been crossed there was a complete transformation. During the last three quarters Vanderbilt played desperately and brilliantly, forcing Auburn constantly to the defensive.

The lineup and summary:

Auburn. (Lindsay)	Position.	Vanderbilt (Reams)
Steed (Culpepper)	left tackle	Cody
Kyler	left guard	Lipscomb
Pitts	centre	Brown
Thighpen (Sample)	right guard	Putman (Phillips)
Louiselle	right tackle	Warren
Robinson	right end	Cohen (Burke)
Hairston (Arnold)	quarter back	Curry
Hart	right half	Turner
Harris (Bidez)	full back	N. Chester

Blood Destruction Stopped and Rebuilt

Worries Overcome, Evidence Brushed Away. The Skin Cleared.

S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, is man's architect. It contemplates the damage done and repairs the damage. It also looks after the possible damage and corrects all tendency to blood eruptions, decay of bones, clogging of joints and any and all of those myriad of destructive effects such as rheumatism, catarrh, swollen glands, sore throat, bronchial affections and the host of infirmities so well known as being caused by impure blood. And now, why should S. S. S. do all this? Simply because it is Nature's antidote, a remedy of searching influence. It contains a powerful, natural ingredient, that sweeps its way to the skin. And in doing this it not only annihilates destructive germs but causes them to be so converted that they are easily and harmlessly voided, expelled or destroyed and then driven out through the natural outlets of the body. Thus let S. S. S. be your safeguard in all blood troubles no matter what they are. It won't fail you. Get a bottle today of any druggist but refuse any and all substitutes.

Relief for Catarrh Sufferers Now FREE

You Can Now Treat This Trouble in Your Own Home and Get Relief at Once.

How the Remedy for Catarrh Was Discovered.

By the new method the nose and throat are treated by an effective local remedy applied directly to the afflicted membranes.

THIS terrible disease has raged unchecked for years simply because symptoms have been treated while the cause of the trouble has been left to circulate in the blood, and bring the disease back as fast as local treatments could relieve it.

C. E. Gauss, who experimented for years on a treatment for Catarrh, found that after perfecting a balm that relieved the nose and throat troubles quickly, he could not prevent the trouble beginning all over again.

The Elixir, taken into the stomach, has a direct influence upon the mucous membranes of the body and cures the disease by removing the cause.

On test cases, he could completely remove all signs of Catarrh from nose and throat, but in a few weeks they were back.

Careful experiments and investigations have shown that as the troubles were expelled from the nose and throat, the real cause of the disease was overlooked and in a short time the Catarrh would return stronger than ever. Mr. Gauss has gone way ahead of the ordinary methods of treatment and has provided a remedy that

Removes the Cause

and Immediately Gives Relief to the Nose and Throat

Reese Jones, of Scranton, Penn., says that after trying many other treatments, he used this new method and—"My nose is now entirely clear and free and I am not bothered by the disease any more. The New Combined Treatment is worth its weight in gold."

Temporary relief from catarrh may be obtained in other ways, but the New Combined Treatment must inevitably be accepted for permanent results.

Sarah J. Cape, Mount Pelia, Tenn., says, "I suffered the pains and distress of catarrh for thirteen years and needless to state, tried nearly every method. But by your new method I was completely cured and you cannot imagine the joy that has come over me."

Goes to the Root of

Stopped-up noses
Constant "frog-in-the-throat"
Nasal discharges
Hawking and spitting
Snoring at night
Bad breath
Frequent colds
Difficult breathing
Smothering sensation in dreams
Sudden fits of sneezing
