SUPREME COURT—Special Term—NOTICE—On Monday, Dec. 29, the Clerk at Chambers, will commence receiving notes of motion for the Saturday motion calendar, which will be taken up Jan. 3, and continued through the month. The undisposed motions on the December Saturday Calendar will not be placed on the new calendar without a new note of motion being made.

SUPERIOR COURT—General Term.—The Ferrett Case.—Ordered that the present trial term of this Court, held by the Chief Justice, be continued until Saturday next, and so much longer as he shall direct.

Decisions.—Esther V. Weisser et. al. Administrators, &c. against North River Bank.—Judgment at special term modified so that the plaintiffs recover as damages only $1,380 50, with interest from October 26, 1849, without costs to either party, on the appeal. Unless plaintiff consent to the deduction, new trial granted, costs to abide the event.

Davis & Brooks at suit of F. & M. Reynolds.—Verdict modified so as to be in favor of plaintiffs for the balance of the net proceeds of the cargo of the Christina, and in favor of the defendant in respect of the claim for the proceeds of the cargo of the Bohemia.

Mortimer De Motte agt. Robert McKinstry.—New trial granted, costs to abide the event.

James Kent agt. John Hart—Same.

MARINE COURT.—Before Judge Cowles.—James Wood vs. Jefferson Sofield.—The plaintiff commenced this action to recover the amount of an account he held against the defendant. The claim was for butter and cash lent. On the part of the defendant it appeared that subsequent to the date of this claim, the plaintiff and defendant had an accounting and settlement of their respective claims, and the plaintiff gave his promissory note for $150 to the defendant. The plaintiff not paying the said note at its maturity, the defendant commenced an action. The plaintiff recovered the amount of the said note, without costs, and the same was collected by execution. The defendant also claimed, by way of set-off, the amount of a bill of oysters, $29 25, which were sold and delivered, by the defendant to the plaintiff, since the above judgment and execution. The Court held that if the plaintiff had a valid claim against the defendant, that he was bound to off-set the same, on the trial of the former action, and that his neglect to do so was a bar to a subsequent action. The claim of the defendant for his new account is a proper defense in the action. Ordered judgment for the defendant for $29 25 and costs.

Disasters, &c.

SHIP GENEVA, at Boston, from Calcutta, on the 26th Sept., while lying to in a severe gale off Cape Good Hope, shipped a heavy sea, which carried away larboard bulwarks and broke several stanchions, washed one man overboard, and did much other damage. Put into St. Helena to repair rudder, and sailed thence Oct. 23. On 25th inst. struck and passed over the wreck of a brig or schr., which lifted the rudder up six inches and did other damage.

BRIG H. R. HYLER, (of Thomaston, Me.,) Montgomery, from Neuvitas for this port, (before reported ashore,) with a cargo of cedar and mahogany, went ashore at New Inlet, L. I., 20 miles West of Fire Island, between 1 and 2 o'clock, morning of 25th inst. She is badly on, and it is doubted as to her being got off. Ass stance was sent to her on Friday afternoon. The H. R. H. is consigned to J. W. Elwell; cargo to Thos. Owen & Son.

BRIG TRITON, Holmes, from Bath, at Havana, on the passage experienced severe weather, and shortly after leaving port, lost her deck load.

PORT MIFFLIN, Dec. 26—2 P. M.—The brig SHAMROCK, from Philadelphia, with a cargo of coal, bound to Portland, is lying at our piers considerably out by ice in her bows, which caused her to leak so badly that she certainly would have sunk were it not that about 10 tuns of her cargo were thrown overboard. Her starboard side is also badly stove by coming in collision with the pier, occasioned by large fields of ice striking her. Her situation is a perilous one.

SCHR. ALMEDIA, Hayes, from Galveston for New York, put into Key West 10th inst. with mainsail, foresail and jib unseaworthy, lanyards gone fore and aft, and badly chafed, fore peak halyards badly chafed, waterway seams and quick walk much open and require caulking, vessel leaking badly, mast wedges started. Ordered to be discharged for repairs. Would send to Charleston for a new suit of sails.

SCHR. LIGHTFOOT, before reported ashore at Chatham, has since filled with water, and damaged her cargo of flour and shorts, and has discharged into lighters. The tide ebbs and flows into her, but it is supposed she will be got off.

THE CAPT. OF SCHR. MALINDA, at Newport from Pictou, reports that on the 8th inst., 40 miles S. W. from Nantucket Shoals, fell in with and boarded the Br. brig Hope, of St. John, N. B., full of water and no person on board. She had a deck load of pine boards, and has been stripped of sails, rigging and anchors; jolly boat alongside full of water.

SHIP LUCAS, Smith, before reported as sailing from Valparaiso 3d Oct. for Rio Janeiro, returned to port again to repair windlass.

SCHR. PENAQUID, Mitchell, from Philadelphia for Boston, put into Portland, 24th inst., with loss of boat, deck load, &c.

PARTICULARS OF THE LOSS OF THE WHALESHIP HOUQUA.—The following is an extract from a letter from Mr. Wm. H. Luce, of New-Bedford, late first officer of ship Houqua, of that port, giving an account of the loss of that vessel in the Ochotsk Sea. Mr. Luce says: "On the morning of the 12th of July, while cruising for whales in the Ochotsk Sea, the Houqua was stranded upon the rocks about 2 miles east of Cape Oliver. She had 2,700 bbls. oil on board, and was boiling at the time, and in all probability would have filled up in a fortnight, as there were plenty of whales. We were cruising close in with the land where we had taken a number of whales, when the accident happened. The morning was foggy, and myself with the third mate lowered our boats, and pulled in for the shore, to see if we could get a whale, as we could whale in shore in the fog with comparative safety. Soon after we left the ship, (4 A. M.) the weather became worse, and the ship was headed towards the land, in order to take us on board again, supposing the land to be five or six miles distant. The weather becoming rainy, we landed upon the beach, and hauled our boats up and turned them over for a shelter. Scarcely had we done so when the sound of a ship's guns, as if firing for her boats in the fog, was heard over a point of land near by. I dispatched some men over the hill to ascertain the cause of the alarm, who, returning, informed me that the Houqua was hard and fast upon the rocks, I immediate y ordered the boat launched, and proceeded to the spot with all possible dispatch. It seems that the ship had stood in search of the boats, and not seeing them, had clewed down and reefed topsails, and, while in the act of hoisting them up, the land was discovered by the boat-steerer before the tryworks. The helm was immediately put hard up to wear, but before the ship came round she struck the rocks. We stove all the oil on deck and hove everything on board that we could to lighten the ship, and made all sail to endeavor to press her off, but of no avail, for the tide was falling faster than we could lighten her; and at half-tide she hilged. All hope being now gone, we commenced getting out provisions and landing them at the nearest place, about two miles distant. We then unbent the sails, with which to make tents, and, after saving everything movable, abandoned the wreck and took up our quarters on the beach. Here we were compelled to remain for two weeks, when we were fortunately discovered by the Canton, Capt. Allen, and taken on board. The Canton took about 1,100 bbls. of our oil, paying at the rate of $1 per bbl., which filled her. The ship then broke up, and the remainder of the cargo was lost. We arrived at Honolulu on the 1st October, having experienced the utmost kindness and attention to our wants from Capt. Allen and his officers, for which we shall ever feel truly grateful. Mr. Luce had joined the City of New-Bedford, as first officer.
