☞ Rev. E. Leahey, D. D., a converted monk, will preach in our church next SABBATH, and will address gentlemen only, on TUESDAY EVENING, Feb. 3, at 7 o'clock, in Hope Chapel, No. 720 Broadway. He submits the following testimonials of his character and the useful ness of his Lectures from clergymen in America occupying a high place in the different Christian denominations with which they are connected:

Rev R. Emerson, D. D., Professor and Rev. Dr. Leonard Woods and Justices Edwards of Andover, Mass.; Rev. E. N. Kirk, of Boston; Drs. Wyle and Ramsey, of Philadelphia; Rev. Dr. Worcester, of Salem; Rev. Dr. Parsons Cooke, of Lynn; Rev. L. Whiting, of Lawrence; Rev. Dr. Cannon, Professor at New-Brunswick; and Rev. Dr. Herron, of Pittsburgh.

From a large number of similar testimonials in relation to the character of these Lectures, we select the following from Rev. Dr Potts of St Louis, a clergyman whose standing is inferior to none in America:

ST LOUIS, March 4, 1850.

Rev. E. Leahey having requested me to certify the facts of the acknowledgment of certain books used by him in his Lectures on Romanism by Archbishop Kenrick, of this city, as genuine works published with the approbation of the Roman Catholic Church, I very cheerfully give the following statement:

In consequence of certain acts of violence offered to Mr. Leahey when lecturing at Concert hall, in this city, a meeting of the citizens was held in the Court House, on the evening of the 6th of February, 1850, to take measures to prevent any infringement on the "freedom of speech" in this community. At this meeting a Committee, consisting of Maj. William Stewart, A. W. Shurp, Esq., and Dr. Jas. N. McDowell, was appointed to procure Bishop Kenrick's Moral Theology, and the Gardens of the Soul, published under the sanction of Bishop Hughes, of New York, which Mr. Leahey has used as the foundation of his Lectures, and present them to Archbishop Kenrick for his verification.

The Committee subsequently reported that they procured the identical books used by Mr. Leahey in his Lectures, and presented them to the Archbishop at his residence; that he frankly and cheerfully acknowledged the works to be authentic, and assured them that they met with his approval; that he also "adduced some cogent arguments in favor of their pure morality, and of their great utility in a thorough examination of the conscience."

This report was published over the signatures of two of the Committee soon after the interview, in all the city papers with the exception of The Union, and its correctness has not, up to the present date, been questioned.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The editorial department continues to evince the same ability and research that have previously been commended, and is pervaded by a high moral tone that is very pleasing. The remarks on the Pulpit and the Press are eminently wise and forcible, and in fine contrast with the usual literary cant of the semi infidel press of the day. [Richmond Watchman and Observer.

The feast at the Editor's Table is substantial and appetizing, the gossip from his "Easy Chair" spicy and agreeable, and the contents of his "Drawer" in the very cleverest vein. Following these is a capital humorous sketch, entitled "Mr. Pott's New Year's Adventures," with nine illustrations, worthy of Cruikshank. [Southern Literary Gazette.

Steadily improving. Under the heads of the Editor's Drawer and the Editor's Easy Chair, we find a variety of pleasant gossip on literary, social, and other matters seasoned with many a spicy anecdote. The memoir of Napoleon, by Abbott, is perfectly fascinating. [Evangelical Review.

 Articles of permanent historical value. Abbott's "Napoleon" progresses, and the interest of the narrative is sustained. An unusual number of entertaining stories, two or three good, humorous articles, "Maurice Tiernay" and "My Novel," a rich editorial batch of notices, anecdotes, facts, and fancies in literature, with some good criticisms, and a fine taste of Punch at the end, make up a charming variety. [Home Journal.

Harper's Magazine is one of the books that we take time to read that we must read. [Boston Christian Observer.

Our estimate is unabated of its substantial literary merits. [N. O. Christian Advocate.

Mr. Abbott has produced the best memoir of Napoleon that has been written. Thus far he has thrown all competitors in the shade. The chapters of this work that have already appeared in Harper's Magazine are worth ten times the cost of the work. They are splendidly illustrated, at considerable expense; but they show how determined the Harpers are to place their Magazine beyond any possible chance of competition. [Louisville Evening Bulletin.

The illustrated Life of Franklin will be eagerly read by thousands, and Napoleon Bonaparte is intensely interesting. [Methodist Protestant.

The "Monthly Record of Current Events" alone is worth 25 cents. We are free to say that if just such a monthly record were published at $3, we would readily subscribe. In every intelligent family it ought to be carefully read. We study it. [Southern Methodist Pulpit.
