Madeline Cure, a minor, by A. E. Cure, her guardian ad litem, plaintiff and respondent, vs. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway company, a corporation, defendant and appellant.

Syllabus:

Five actions were brought and tried together to recover damages against defendant railroad company for alleged negligence resulting in a collision upon a crossing, known as McCarty's crossing, four miles south of Detroit, Minnesota. Those injured in the collision were riding in a one-seated Buick roadster. As it was going over the crossing it was struck by an engine pulling a freight train. It is held:

(1) For reasons stated in the opinions, the judgments as to the remaining plaintiffs, who were passengers in the car, are affirmed.

Appeals from judgments of the district court of Cass county, Hon. A. T. Cole, judge.

Reversed as to Plaintiffs A. E. Cure and Amenia & Sharon Land company; affirmed as to remaining plaintiffs.

Opinions by Robinson, J., Grace, C. J., and Birdzell and Christianson, J.J.

Young, Conmy & Young, attorneys for appellant.

Fowler & Green, attorneys for respondent.
