WEDNESDAY, April 20—P. M.

There is a continuance of activity in the fancy stocks, without much change in prices. There is, however, less buoyancy than has previously marked the movement, and at the close the quotations were in some cases lower. Long Island was heavy, but Erie and Reading were well sustained, as were Norwich and Stonington. Canton was also firm and in good demand. The Coal Shares were rather heavy, and the sales not extensive. Jersey Zinc and Morris are steady, but not active. The premiums railroads are firm, with a few exceptions. The bids for the Consolidated Stocks do not vary much from yesterday. Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana advanced to 128; Sixth-av 118; Michigan Central 118. Erie Bonds continue to improve. Convertibles of 1862 sold at par, and 1871 at 79. Second Mortgage 107¼, First Mortgage 119. Hudson River new 93¼. Government Stocks are not firm. A sale of 21,000 6s 1856 was made at 107¼, and 13,000 1862 at 113¼.

In Exchange there was a moderate business doing at previous rates. Sterling 9 to 9¼. Francs 5.15 to 5.13¾.

B., to Bristol Channel, 110s.@115s.; another to Dublin, 120s.; and a schooner of 900 bbls. to a Windward Island and back, $1,000. To California, Freights continue dull, and except for clippers just closing off, rates tend downward; with lower rates, however, there is more Coal and Lumber offering.

The State loan has at last been awarded as follows:

R. H. King	$175,000 00	C. S. Wilson	$10,000 00
W. Watson	15,000 00	B. F. Brancroft	10,000 00
A. Ericlson	50,000 00	Geo. W. Cuyler	142,961 05
J. Goulet	30,000 00

The aggregate of these awards is $432,961 05, which, together with the premiums received, viz.: $34,038 95, makes up the amount of the debt to be paid—$467,000—and leaves the actual debt $432,961 05. The average premium on the loan, as awarded, is very near 8 ⅌ cent. for a 5 ⅌ cent. stock.

The steamer brings advices of a very important financial measure contemplated by the English Government. In relation to this plan, The London Times of the 8th has the annexed remarks:

The rise of prices this morning affords no proof that the plan of the Chancellor of the Exchequer is approved on its intrinsic merits, since such an event, when carried beyond a certain point, would simply denote any given proposition to be needlessly favorable to the fundholder and proportionably less advantageous for the country. An opinion that this is the case in the present instance has in fact been almost universally expressed in the city to-day, and when it is recollected that the idea of an issue of Exchequer Bonds for 20 years, bearing no higher interest than 2½ ⅌ cent., was yesterday welcomed by all parties as a measure alike calculated to be convenient to the capitalist and beneficial for the nation, it will be understood that disappointment must have been felt at a proposal which, while it will effect a far less annual saving, will involve the contingency of adding 10 ⅌ cent. to the greater portion of the National Debt. It appears from the resolutions now published that the first part of the scheme provides for paying off the following stocks, which unnecessarily at present form distinct features of the public liabilities, namely:

Debt due to the South Sea Company at 3 per cent £3,662,784
Old South Sea Annuities, at do..... 3,010,378
New South Sea do., at do..... 2,137,984
South Sea do., 1751, at do..... 480,200
Bank Annuities, 1726, at do..... 709,292
Total..... £10,000,638

And that the holders of these are to have the option of £100 in money for every £100 stock, or of taking instead—£82 10s. New 3½ Per Cent. Stock guaranteed against reduction for 40 years—namely, till the 5th January, 1894, and which will yield an annual interest of £2 17s. 9d.; or,

£110 Two-and-a-half Per Cents., guaranteed till 5th January, 1894, and yielding annually £2 15s.; or,

£100 Exchequer Bond, bearing 2½ per cent. for 10 years—namely, till 1st September, 1864, and 2½ per cent. for an additional 30 years—namely, till September, 1894.

It will therefore be observed that while the annual saving to the country from this conversion, supposing Exchequer Bonds of 2½ ⅌ cent. to have been successfully offered, would have been £50,000, it will, if £110 of 2½ ⅌ cent. stock should be claimed for the whole £10,000,000, only amount to £25,000, and at the cost of adding £1,000,000 to the principal of the debt. Beyond this, however, it appears that all holders of Consols or Reduced (the aggregate amount of which is £494,098,474,) are to have the power, by giving notice any time before the 10th of October next, to commute those stocks for either of the three descriptions of new securities now to be created, so that supposing the whole to be converted under this plan and the Two and a-Half ⅌ Cent. Stock to be the one chosen, the saving of interest effected would be but a quarter ⅌ cent. (since £110 Two-and a Half ⅌ Cents. would yield the holder £2 15s.) and a further load of £49,400,000 would be added to the permanent obligations of the country. So strong has been the feeling on this point throughout the day that it has prevented the advance in quotations from being at all equal to what would otherwise have been witnessed, since a general impression has prevailed that its final adoption is out of the question.

For a long time there has been little doubt that a period was approaching when a stock at 2½ per cent. guaranteed for 40 years would be accepted by the parties interested in place of Consols or Reduced, and in finding that these terms are offered with the unnecessary possibility of an addition of £50,000,000 to the nominal capital of the national debt, the public, apart from their universal and instinctive aversion to such an increase, feel that they must condemn it as an act of great improvidence. At the same time, it is to be assumed that the three classes of securities can be shown to have been calculated as equivalents; and hence, although no explanation is likely to cause the proposition for the Two and a half per cent Stock to be tolerated, sufficient will probably be urged, when the Chancellor shall make his statement, to show that it has not been put forth without consideration. The first of the three alternatives—namely, £82 10 of a Three and a Half per Cent. Stock for every £100 of Consols, is wholly in accordance with the tendency of public opinion; and the same may be also said with regard to the transferable Exchequer Bonds. Even in these cases, however, it is believed that the terms are unnecessarily favorable, and especially that it is impolitic to give the holders of Consols and Reduced the unlimited power of making the conversion before any partial experiment has been tried to ascertain that point.

It is true, the tenth paragraph of the proposed resolutions provides that no amount of Exchequer Bonds shall be issued exceeding in the whole the sum of thirty millions; but as the seventh paragraph states that every holder of Consols and Reduced may commute his stock either for the New Three-and-a Half per Cents., the New Two-and-a Half per Cents., or Exchequer Bonds, it is to be assumed the limitation is to Parliament will be necessary, if the proposals for them should exceed the sum named. Finally, however, it may be remarked, that although for the reasons described a strong feeling of disappointment has been manifested, it is within the power of removal by the simple omission of the offer to grant the £110 Two-and-a Half per Cents. The other two proposals are still regarded with warm satisfaction, and it must also be added that whatever changes may be deemed desirable on a full discussion of the question, the mercantile community are too much gratified to find a Chancellor of the Exchequer departing from routine, and boldly venturing, on original but perfectly sound experiments, to criticise them on the whole with any other than a favorable feeling.

The arrivals of Silver in England were not so large as anticipated by the packets, and the price is consequently without alteration; both Dollars and Bar Silver are done at former quotations, although by no means brisk. Some fresh orders from India have aided the market, which is partially cleared of the recent imports. Gold keeps coming in freely, and the export has diminished the past week.

The quantity of Copper ore sold from the mines in Cornwall and Devon in the quarter ending the 31st March was 47,712 tuns, at an average produce of ⅞ per cent., giving 3,036 tuns fine copper, and realizing £346,799 18s. 6d., at an average price of £7 5s. 4½d. per tun. Compared with the previous quarter there is an increase of 2,552 tuns of ore, £72,911 3s. in money, and £1 4s. 1d. in the average price per tun, while the average produce is the same.

The following are the corresponding quarterly returns for three years, and show, in a striking point of view, the remarkable rise which has taken place in the price of copper ore:

A printed letter received by the Arabia states that the £30,000,000 Exchequer Bonds at 2½@2½ ⅌ cent. interest have already all been applied for. The letter also says that there is an improving feeling in regard to American securities, which will be stimulated by the action of the English Government in regard to the public debt.

We understand some English holders of Erie Convertibles have sent out to the Erie Company a remonstrance against the new ten million loan.

Our statement made a week or two since that Prof. Mitchell had succeeded in negotiating his loan for the Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad is confirmed by this arrival. Messrs. George Peabody & Co. took up the loan for $2,050,000 at 92½ for 1st Mtg. 7 ⅌ cent. bonds, and disposed of the whole in two days.

There is a fair demand for first-class Railroad Bonds both for remittance to Europe and home consumption.

Money continues in large supply on call at 6@7 per cent.

The Cotton movements this week are as follows:

	1853. Bales.	1852. Bales.
Receipts at all ports from 1st. Sept	2,884,303	2,521,268
Exports	1,737,509	1,621,209

Stock at all ports	679,104	536,909
Stock in New-York	88,199	96,848

The excess of receipts are now 363,000 bales.

The exports of Breadstuffs from all parts to Great Britain, since 11th Sept., are as follows:

	1853.	1852.
Flour, bbls	990,040	807,808
Meal, bbls	180	1,695
Wheat, bush	3,429,347	1,651,545
Corn, bush	822,755	905,315

The increase in the export of Flour and Wheat is very large.

The Copper Stock speculation which was proceeding so furiously in Boston has received a healthy check. The advices from the mines are quite favorable.

Later advices state that the Cliff continues to turn out about 100 tuns Copper per month. It is expected that this mine will turn out 1,500 tuns this year, which will enable it to pay about $300,000 to the stockholders.

Minnesota Mine makes good its average, which pays to the shareholders about $12,000 per month.

Norwich, National and Toltec Mines have improved very much. Masses of several tuns pure Copper are not unfrequent. In fact, it is believed they are now worked at a profit, and all the capital that may be called in hereafter will be for the purpose of erecting machinery and extending their mining operations.

Copper Falls, North American, North-west and Northwestern are looking well. The Waterbury Mine has lately exposed a mass about 17 feet in length, which is the cause of the sudden rise of $2 50 per share in the stock.

The great bulk of mass copper shipped from Lake Superior mines produces about 90 bbls. ore, from 60 to 75 stamp ore, from 45 to 95 per cent. pure copper.

Robert R. Livingston, the agent of the Forest, writes under date of 15th March, as follows: "The mine is looking finely. West shaft No. 1 is connected with the second level, and copper is sticking out both ends of it for over 30 feet; this ground will repay handsomely when stoped. I am 'stulling' up and getting ready to take out the copper. Our stamps are working to admiration, and the returns will be good. We struck a sheet of copper in west drift, in new west shaft No. 2, and this ends looks highly promising. The stopes are turning out a great deal of fine stamp and barrel work, with occasional masses." Other letters from the Lake speak in the highest terms of the Forest mine as showing great value, not only in the mine but in their territory, which has veins sufficient for a number of large companies to work.
