THE BOOKS of the SEASON.—Just Published.
THE OLD FOREST RANGER; Or, WILD STORIES of INDIA, by Major Walter Campbell. With the original Illustrations, finely engraved on steel. Edited by Frank Forester. In one elegant octavo volume, gilt muslin. Price $1 50.
"A reprint of a fascinating sporting volume by an old Scotch ranger. His adventures cannot be read with not deep interest." [The Tribune.
"Amidst the multitude of books that are issued from the press, this last volume eclipses them all. It is truly the book of the season." [National Democrat.
"This elegant, illustrated volume possesses rare interest. It is, what the very competent editor pronounces it to be, one of the most delightful books on the subject of sporting that has ever issued from the English press. A more fascinating volume can scarcely be conceived." [Commercial Adv.
"This is a fascinating book, and will be sure to entertain the reader. It is full of romantic interest." [Springfield Post.
"A book which has rapidly reached a third edition, as this has, is beyond criticism, for the public has already put the stamp of approval upon it." [London Art Journal.
"So fascinating a work of the kind we have not seen this many a day. Appended to the volume are several pages of explanatory notes which contain a great deal of valuable information. Deer stalking, Tiger hunting, Bear hunting, Bison or Buffalo hunting, Elk hunting, Bear slaying, and Elephant stalking, all have a place." [Gloucester Telegraph.
"There are luxuries in everything,—this work is one of the luxuries which make their appearance once or twice in every generation in the world of literature. It is brimful of interest and excitement." [Saints's Rough Notes.
"There's fascination in these pages. The thrilling and deeply interesting incidents of the chase where elephants, bisons, tigers, and wild bears make up the quarry, are here presented in a style which rivets the attention to the end." [Cayuga Chief.
"Frank Forester, the Prince of American Sportsmen, edits the book from real love of the subject 'generally,' and from admiration of the manner in which Major Campbell treats it, particularly." [Worcester Palladium.
Third Edition Now Ready.
AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF AN ENGLISH SOLDIER IN THE U. S. ARMY. Bound in cloth, with 12 illustrations. Price $1.
"It is one of the most interesting publications of the season. Nowhere do we have so lively and life-like a picture of the American soldier in active service. It is one of the books which it is much harder to lay down than to take up." [Courier & Enquirer.
"If the old soldier uses the sword as well as he does the pen, he ought to be in the direct line of military promotion." [The Tribune.
"Any one who wishes to know what camp life truly is—what the daily and nightly routine of a soldier's life is, cannot do better than procure this work." [Louisville Journal.
"It may fairly class in many respects with Dana's admirable 'Two Years before the Mast.'" [Louisville Courier.
"It is a desideratum in the supply of our martial literature." [Auburn Cayuga Chief.
"It is written in a clear and simple style, giving evident proof in every page of its authenticity." [Montreal Com. Advertiser.

MY HOME IN TASMANIA: OR, NINE YEARS IN AUSTRALIA. By Mrs. Charles Meredith. Complete in one volume of 300 pages. Illustrated. Price $1 25.
From Godey's Lady's Book.
"It is not often that we meet with a book of this character that will bear to be praised. We feel, when they undertake to give details of their disappointment and struggles in a new and partially civilized country, tell the story of their domestic trials in a language so melancholy and distressful, that the generality of readers are glad to escape the infection which attends the perusal of their books. But here is a volume, written by a woman, too, in which we may find many things recorded that would sorely try the patience and the tempers; and even such misfortunes described as would destroy the hopes of ordinary persons, but yet set down with that Christian and philosophic cheerfulness of mind which at once interests us in the author, and secures for her our warm sympathies." From The Family Friend.
"An unusual fund of common sense, acute powers of observation, and a style of more than ordinary ease and beauty, combine to render this lady one of the superior female authors of books of travel. In her hands a subject could be common-place. It may be imagined then with what power she describes the adventures, hardships, and perils of a new country. * * * It possesses absorbing interest, and is one of the greatest books of the season." From The Athenæum.
"Her losses and crosses in settling seem to have been almost as numerous as those of another lady colonist, whose "Roughing it in the Bush" was so sad and delightful a book—but she touches on them with a lighter pen than the one held by Mrs. Moodie." From The Illustrated News.
"It is replete with information, novelty and humor, and as being written with all an easy, gossiping style, which wins the reader's heart, and makes him intimate with the authoress from the beginning. All the curious and eccentric features of Australian life are in this book full of the indomitable energy and spirit." Published and for sale by BUNCE & BROTHER, No. 191 Nassau-st.

AMERICA'S OWN of this week contains a splendid story of real life, entitled Feelings and Fortune; Northern Africa: How He Cured Him; Human Progress; The Amazons; The Enchanted Mountain; Philosophical Courage; A Leaf from the Portfolio of a Man of the World; Origin of the English Language; Home, a beautiful sketch; The Death of Angel, a sublime translation from the German; The Great Speech, by a distinguished Western gentleman, which was to be delivered at the Woman's Indignation Meeting; The Voice of the Slop Shirt; A Perfect Wife; together with Poetry, Choice Miscellany, Anecdotes, &c. &c. Also the conclusion of The Peasant Patriots. This is a first class Weekly for the Home Circle. For sale at all the News Depôts. OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.
"It is no exaggeration to say that the Scientific American is superior to any other journal of the kind in the United States and is conducted with a degree of talent and tact that places it beyond the reach of successful rivalry." [Farmer, Bridgeport, Conn.
"The Scientific American has become so necessary a companion for every mechanic who is desirous of being posted up in the rapid changes and improvements yearly accomplished, both at home and abroad, that it is quite superfluous to add a word in its favor." [Daily Forest City, Cleveland, O.
"The Scientific American is very extensively circulated, and maintains a high character, at home and abroad, as the best journal of the kind now issued." [News, Savannah, Ga.
"The Scientific American is as neat a printed paper as any in America. Its illustrations are of the first artistic perfection, and its reading is of the highest order of scientific knowledge." [Sentinel Barnwell, S. C.

"CURRENTE CALAMO"—"THE BEST SYSTEM of WRITING EXTANT."—Published this day—MACLAURIN'S SYSTEM OF WRITING. Complete in Twelve Parts. $1 50 for the set.
The Publisher has the pleasure of announcing to Teachers, Heads of Families, Boot-keepers, Lawyers, Clerks, and all others interested in Writing, that he is now ready to supply MacLaurin's Writing Books at retail by the single number. A liberal discount made to Teachers and the Trade.
Flattering testimonials have been received from the first Teachers in the country, two of which are subjoined. Mad. Chesney, who has kindly invested the following, has been known to the public for many years, as being the head of the largest and most celebrated school for young ladies in the country.
"NEW-YORK, April 7, 1853.
"Having some months since introduced in my school the novel and very original system of teaching penmanship, invented by Mr. W. S. MacLaurin, its results have been such as to leave no question in my mind as to its intrinsic merit. The short space of time required for the attainment of the superior advantages offered, myself, appears almost incredible. From the results produced in my school, I am satisfied that pupils commencing to write at the usual period—the age of six or seven—may acquire a perfectly formed and extremely rapid hand before leaving my preparatory department, and that the union of correct form and great celerity is a necessary consequence of the course of practice. This immense saving of time must render this system invaluable to those interested in school education, inasmuch as much is to be done in so short a time. Its perfect originality and the scientific principles upon which it is based, must, I think, insure its general adoption in the schools. H. D. CHEGARAY."
The following is from James N. M'Elligott, LL.D., whose ability and zeal in the cause of education are attested by the many lectures so ably he has delivered in various parts of the country, as well as by his numerous published works:
"That the system of penmanship invented by W. S. MacLaurin, Esq., is one of extraordinary merit—far superior, in fact, to anything of the kind with which I am acquainted—is a conclusion which I have reached after a somewhat lengthy and thorough trial. Through all the principle underlying every exercise one may, I think, find, upon inspection, the all-sufficient pledge of the success of the plan, that it will most certainly and satisfactorily appear in the experience of the self-educated pupil. Here, if the plan be duly adhered to, the mind is compelled to unite, in his practice, correctness of form with rapidity of execution. These, as is well known, are the capital requisites in the formation of a good penman; and it is the crowning feature of Mr. MacLaurin's system that they come out of the practice involved in his course of exercises, by a sort of natural necessity. "JAMES N. M'ELLIGOTT."
On receipt of $1 50 the complete set will be forwarded, postage free, to any part of the country. Published by CHARLES B. NORTON, No. 71 Chambers-st., New-York.
