☞ Card.—In consequence of the various articles which have recently appeared in the public prints, the DIRECTORS of the PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY deem it incumbent on them to announce that they have not authorized any combination with any party for the purpose of establishing higher rates of freight and passage money between the Atlantic ports and California—nor do they contemplate any such combination—their purpose being to confine their attention solely to their own business, and to the transportation of passengers and specie in the safest and cheapest manner practicable.

The time consumed by land carriage across the Isthmus of Panama has been lengthened by the greatly increased bulk of the mails and the measures necessary for the safeguard of the specie. A remedy for this will be provided by the early completion of the Panama Railroad, and with this consequent saving of time the Directors have always anticipated a reduction in cost of freight and passage between California and Atlantic ports. By order of the Board of Directors,

New-York, July 1, 1853. WM. H. DAVIDGE, Secretary.

Resolved, That in this dispensation of an all-wise Providence, by which we are deprived of a brother endeared to us by the ties of long association and true Christian regard, our hearts are filled with grief and a deep sense of the magnitude of the loss we sustain.

THIRD EDITION NOW READY.
HARRY COVERDALE'S COURTSHIP, AND WHAT CAME OF IT.
By the author of "Frank Farleigh," "Lewis Arundel," &c. &c.
BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

Paper, 50 cents. Handsomely bound in cloth, 75 cents.

This beautiful romance, by the new, popular author of the present day, has received, unsolicited, numerous highly flattering notices from the Press, a few of which we give below.

To secure a certain supply from the third edition, the Trade are advised to send in their orders immediately.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS:

HARRY COVERDALE'S COURTSHIP AND WHAT CAME OF IT.—This new work by the author of "Frank Farleigh," &c., is decidedly one of the best written novels of the age. It is full of the most exquisite drawings of the human character, and the vein of quiet humor which pervades the work shows that the author is a close observer of the fellow men—and women. Every person who desires a book to laugh or to moralize over, will be suited with this." [Poughkeepsie Eagle.

"We have been favored by Messrs. Long & Brother, No. 43 Ann-st., with a copy of a new work, entitled "Harry Coverdale's Courtship," and "Lewis Arundel," we actually expect something far above mediocrity, and we find in the volume all we anticipated. It shows at once the author's deep knowledge of, and power of portraying human characters. The incidents being varied in their character, and truthful by strict conformity to real life. The author of Harry Coverdale's Courtship is a man of true genius." [Picayune.

"Harry Coverdale's Courtship, and What Came of It," is the "taking" title of a new work by the author of "Frank Farleigh" and "Lewis Arundel," two of the most popular novels which have been issued in years. We have perused but hastily over this book, but we think we have discovered in it traces of the genial, humorous style, which has gained for the former efforts of the author such a deservedly wide spread reputation. No writer of the present day possesses a more graceful and sparkling style in his humorous sketches, nor one who possesses in a more eminent degree the faculty of enlisting the sympathy of his readers. [Utica Evening Telegraph.

HARRY COVERDALE'S COURTSHIP, AND WHAT CAME OF IT.—This is the name of a new work by the author of "Lewis Arundel," &c., and is replete with scenes of wit, pathos and intense interest, and in many respects equal to the best efforts of Dickens. It is from the press of Long & Brother. [Albany Express.

The admirers of the author of "Frank Farleigh"—and they are many, for he is a writer of unquestionable merit—will be glad to get hold of a new product from his graceful and sparkling pen. [Spirit field Dail Republican.

HARRY COVERDALE'S COURTSHIP, AND WHAT CAME OF IT.—H. Long & Brother, New-York, have just published this work, by the author of "Frank Farleigh," &c. This book will be found worthy a more careful perusal than the ordinary fiction of the day. It is full of stirring incidents, and abounds in striking descriptions, and a rich vein of quiet, quaint humor, which, if we mistake not, will make it a decided favorite with the public. The author is not only well and favorably known, and the present work must add to his popularity. [Baltimore Republican & Argus.

"Harry Coverdale's Courtship, and What Came of It," By the author of "Frank Farleigh," "Lewis Arundel," &c., &c. The productions of this author have been well received by the public, and his writings are held in high estimation. The present work is said to be fully equal to any which has preceded it from the same author. It is published with illustrations by H. Long & Bro., N. Y. [Balt. Clipper.

NEW WORK.—"Harry Coverdale's Courtship, and What Came of It," is the title of a work recently issued from the house of H. Long & Brother, New-York, for a copy of which we are indebted to the publishers. We like its style and pervading spirit much. We like it as its wholesome and kindly teaching is. It is a "family story," full of incident, and abounding in graphic description of quaint humor, and cannot fail to interest and amuse the large class of persons who are predisposed to light reading. [Erie Weekly Gazette.

H. Long & Brother, No. 43 Ann-st., New-York, have just published an unabridged edition of "Harry Coverdale's Courtship," the last new work of the talented author of "Frank Farleigh" and "Lewis Arundel." In our opinion, this is the best work of an author who has risen more rapidly in public estimation than any writer of fiction of the present day. Possessing as he does an insight into the motives which govern men's actions, and as much wit and humor as Dickens, the author of "Coverdale's Courtship" has even a greater power of stirring the gentler emotions through the depth and intensity of pathos. [Great West.
