Needham's Breast Pumps.— TO PHYSICIANS MOTHER and NURSES.—Who that has witnessed the excruciating pain endured by mothers afflicted with sore breasts and sore nipples, can for one moment withhold from this simple little instrument the highest meed of praise? Following the plan of nature, it performs its work without pain, and in so doing, affords relief that cannot be obtained by the natural process of child nursing. It has frequently been the exclamation of mothers who have used it, "It beats the baby!" All other measures now in use for extracting milk from the breast, afford but little or no relief, and during the operation the pain produced is greater than that inflicted by the child itself, while Needham's Breast Pump regulates by the feeling and intelligence of the mother, instead of producing pain, affords relief and nothing but relief, during the whole operation. A lady in this city who obtained one one hundred dollars by using it, that she would not part with it for one hundred dollars, and a gentleman, whose wife died from the effects of a broken breast, declared that three years ago he would have given one thousand dollars for one of them, if he could not have obtained it for less. These Breast Pumps are pronounced by every physician who has examined and tested them, to be the best thing that could possibly be devised. And we earnestly exhort all mothers needing a Breast Pump, and especially those afflicted with inflamed breasts and sore nipples, to purchase them. Those physicians who have not yet seen them are respectfully invited to examine them.
E. R. LUKEE, Sole Agent for the United States.
Office No. 120 Water-st. Sold by the Druggists generally.

PUBLISHED THIS DAY—THE COUNTESS OF ARDRIEIM; OR, MASTER TIMOTHY'S BOOK-CASE. By G. M. M. Reynolds, author of "Angela Wildon," "Mysteries of Old London," etc. Illustrated. Price 50 cts.
THE COUNTESS OF ARDRIEIM.—This is the title of one of the most remarkable and effective romances of the period. It is written by the author of the famous "Mysteries of the Court of London," in his very happiest vein. The plot is most artfully designed, and worked out with consummate skill. The reader's attention is secured at the very outset by the mysterious incidents occurring at the birth of an heir to an ancient family, and the interest thus awakened never flags until the last page of the entertaining tale is reached.
There is not a heavy page in the whole work—every sentence is sparkling with genius, and full of the most intense interest. The characters live in life, are admirably discussed and promptly conceived. The various striking scenes and pointed descriptions of the mind of the reader with emotions of thrilling delight.
The romance of Ardrieim is very handsomely printed, and is illustrated by several engravings of picturesque spots and scenes.
