JOHN BUNYAN STILL LIVES!—The Great American Picture. The entire and intuitive allegory of THE PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, in one picture. Most lively, more elegantly engraved on steel, by Ashby, by common and home journeyings of the scenes through which Christian passed in his journey from the City of Destruction to the Celestial City, as allegorically portrayed by Bunyan. Every Christian family should have this exquisite production of the graver.
Testimonials of the strongest nature, too numerous to publish, have been received by the publishers, from the most distinguished men of England and America.

JEWETT, PROCTOR & WORTHINGTON, Cleveland, Ohio.

FACT versus FICTION.
Will be ready in a few days—
THE OLD BREWERY AND THE MISSION HOUSE AT THE FIVE POINTS. By the Ladies of the Mission.
The publishers take pleasure in inviting the attention of the most world to this charming production as one of the most remarkable ever offered to the public; and they confidently present it as one of the most touching and impressed volumes which have fallen from the press since the first issue of Mr. Warren's "Diary of a Physician." The papers composing this work are not mere fancy sketches, written for the purpose of a simple commercial speculation, but the written histories of fallen ones who have been raised; of lost ones who have been saved; of strayed ones who have been reclaimed; of Idleness which has been led to Industry; of Drunkenness which has thrown away the Cup; of Poverty which has put on the garb of Comfort; of Despair which has begun again to Hope; of Ignorance which has crept out of Darkness up to Light; and of Sinful Weakness which has thrown off Falsehood, Crime and Shame, and now walks firmly forth in all a Christian's strength. The volume overflows with incidents which are real; with pictures drawn not from fancy, but from life—the whole invested with a freshness which can only come from the vivid fount of Truth. As a whole, the publishers present it as one of the truthfulest mirrors of human weakness, infirmity and suffering, and of the most sublime and self-sacrificing Christian faithfulness and heroism ever offered to the public.
The following from the editorial columns of The Commercial Advertiser, of this city, will give the reader some idea of the importance of the work:
From The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.
"A CHARMING BOOK IN PRESS.—We depart from our almost uniform practice in announcing and commenting upon a book before publication, for reasons which our readers will readily comprehend. The work referred to is to be published in a day or two by Messrs. Stringer & Townsend, and is entitled 'The Old Brewery, and the new Mission House at the Five Points,' and has been prepared by the ladies of the Mission. The Rev. Thos. E. Bond M. D., contributes a preface, and the contents of the volume embrace, in addition to the historical account of the reformation wrought in that locality by the agency of the Ladies' Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, some of the most intensely interesting narratives ever issued from the press. The real charm, the true value of the book will consist in the literal truthfulness of every story it contains. No touching fictions will be found in its pages. We know both the contributors and contributions, and can assure our readers that however tragic or romantic the story, and however startling to those who are unfamiliar with these phases of life exhibited in such localities, not a fact is exaggerated, not a color lightened. And yet we venture to say that no reader who takes up the volume can lay it down without thorough perusal, or without acknowledging the soundness of the trite saying that 'truth is stranger than fiction.' The naked facts of some constitutionally dressed-up published stories are also given.
"The volume, which will be a 16mo, will be elegantly got up as a gift-book, and whatever profits arise from the large sale it is sure to command will be devoted exclusively and sacredly to the Mission. Many admirable gift-books have been and will yet be published, but we know of none, and can conceive of none, that will be more acceptable than this to your people. Even those whose sympathies have not been directed to benevolent or reformatory movements will be deeply interested by its thrilling narratives, while those whose sympathies have already gone out after the distressed and desolate and degraded will find in its pages records of those struggles by which, when benevolently aided, the lost are saved and the degraded redeemed. Its truthfulness, its benevolent aims and the deep interest of its contents, and its revelations of a phase of human life so little known to those who have happy homes, loving parents and affectionate friends, will make it a volume of rare merit as a book for all to read."
The work will be elegantly illustrated, beautifully printed and neatly bound in muslin. Price 75 cents.
