Hud. River market boats	250
Browning's	615	Total	4,728

This is 537 more than the receipts of the previous week.

In consequence of the large number in market to-day, the price current this day week gave way on first quality of beeves about 50c. ⅌ cwt., and as the number was nearly 900 more than last Monday, and the average weight of all considerably higher, there was more difficulty in making sales at sellers' estimates of weights. We have only quoted extra beef at 10@10½c., though a few cattle were sold at 11c., yet at the same time, some of the best in the yards were sold at 10@10½@10½c.

The weather to-day is just as fine as one could wish—cool, clear, balmy, from the shower of last evening, and the market well attended; and if there had not been more than 2,500 head of beeves in the pens, the sales would have been brisk. The average quality of the stock is better than it has been for many weeks. We think the average weight is 6½ cwt., which would give 1,976,550 lbs. of beef, which at an average of 9½c. is $187 725. This gives an average of $61 75 ⅌ head, which is not far out of the way, notwithstanding some cattle sold as low as $27@$30 each. The number of such was small, while on the other hand, a good many sold from $50 to $125 a head.

The following are a few of our brief notes of some of the brokers' sales, which we make in the yards:

JOHN A. MERRITT—68 head of Chester County beeves, superior quality, a portion of them Kentucky Durhams, Pennsylvania fed; estimated to weigh an average of 7½ cwt. fair. They will sell for $78 a head, and would have sold for more, but did not arrive in the yards till late. It is the best drove in market, as there is no tail end—all are good. One lot of 20 head, average weight 9 cwt.—a part of them very fat—were in price at $90 a head. This drove was bought by Mr. M. of Jos. H. Williams, on private terms, on the road from Philadelphia.

JOS H. WILLIAMS—10 head of Chester County, part of the same lot noted as selling by Murray. The average of this lot will be about $72, which is full 10c. Some of them are small, but none poor.

Mr W. started with some 400 head from Philadelphia. He sold 9 at Bergen to be butchered in this city, and another lot to Jersey butchers. The market is not equal to last Monday by $3 to $5 on this quality.

C. G. COGER & GEO. TOFFEY—180 head, mostly 3 year steers, from Logan County, Ill., by D. F. Wright, who sold them wholesale, at Bergen Hill, for $56 50 a head. They are retailing to-day at about 9½c. a pound, ranging from $54 to $67 a head. The drove left home Sept. 1, and came to La Porte on foot, 200 miles, at an expense of $1 a head. From La Porte, by cars and boat, the expense was $11 a head. They are good fair quality of grass beef, but Mr. W. thinks the former owner would not know them now.

R. MURRAY—70 head of nice smooth grass beeves from Pennsylvania, more than half of which are handsome red color; average weight, 7¼ cwt., and average price, 9c. The best are selling for 10½c., and $90@$96 a head. This is part of Williams's lot. There are 840 Pennsylvania cattle in market to-day, and not one of them such poor, mean dog-beef as some we see from this State. As cattle are not allowed to walk in New-Jersey on Sunday, and the railroad won't bring them, they are injured by being too hard driven to reach our Monday market from that of Philadelphia. It is a pity that a State so much in the way of civilization could not be kicked out of the road.

DANIEL BARNES—154 head of small common breed Ohio Steers, from Pickaway Co., O., by John Reber; by cars all the way, at $11 50 a head expense. The lot of Cattle were designed for fall feeding, but were obliged to be sold on account of failure of pasture from drouth. The drove will average only about $35 a head. They are mostly three year old Steers, and of course not fat. There are a few grade Durhams, that are good. It is a pity that such as most of that lot should be butchered.

E. WHEATON—155 head of Chester Co. Steers that average about 6¾ cwt., and sell for $63 a head. They are fair average quality, but not quite as good as some other yards. The best sold for 10½c. One lot of 25 to Isaac Valentine, at $78, were estimated by a buyer and seller at 7½ cwt. each. A few others sold for $80. Some of the poorest at 9@9½c. There were none but fair quality for retailing in this lot, and some as good as any in market.

CULVER, HURD & CO.—300 head from Ohio, Virginia and Pennsylvania; nearly all from the first State. One drove, owned by Newsham & Co., did not arrive in market till near noon, and no sales had been made when we were in the yard. 10c. was the asking price for the best of them. Some of the others sold at 10½c.; one lot of 30 at over $80 each. They were very good, and were estimated by the buyer at 10½c. and by seller at not much over 9½c. The drove sold by Mr. Hurd he averages at 9½c. for common stock, not fat.

THOMAS WHITE—92 head of Pennsylvania cattle, that averaged 7¼ cwt. in Philadelphia and are estimated to average about $70 or $72—not quite 10c. a pound at Philadelphia count upon live weight, though full that by butchers' estimate here. Cattle that are driven from there to New-York in four days lose weight enough to pay transportation on the railroad.

Messrs. GURNEY—50 head Illinois cattle, owned by Dr. Darrah & Co., 50 head owned by Polk of Ohio, and 40 head owned by William A. Mills of Livingston County, New-York. The last are a mixed lot of medium sized, good and common beeves, which will sell for 8½c. @10c. Dr. Darrah thinks his cattle do not sell for as much by $1 a cwt. as some grades sold for last week. The sales of all range from 8½c. to 10c., and not very brisk.

S. ROBBINS, sold 45 head from Chemung and Yates Counties, this State, of two and three-year old grass hoppers. One lot sold for $26 and the other for $31 a head, which is less than 8c. a pound average. What are such steers sent here for? They certainly can be got through the winter, and would be worth all they sell for and cost of keeping, and 25 ⅌ cent. profit. It is not only folly to send poor young cattle like these to this market, but it is wicked to destroy the raw material of human food.

CHARLES TEED & L. RENNICK—133 head from Illinois on foot, owned by Linson and Jones of Pickaway County. They were bought to feed in that county, but as pastures all failed there, they were driven ahead to market, at a loss to owners probably of six or eight dollars a head. They are common, coarse Illinois native breed, large frames, slabsided and slab fat. If fed, they would weigh an average of 8 cwt. As they are, they will average perhaps 6 cwt., not of beef, but bones and sinews. The drove will not average $34 a head, or over 8½c. a pound, and dear at that.

J. C. HOAG—68 head of Dutchess County grass fed beeves, a mixed lot, the best very good, and sold for 10½c., and the poorest 8½c.

There were several other lots in market from Dutchess and Putnam, by Mr. Sherman, Mr. Drew, &c., of about the same character and price. Drovers complain of us for quoting beef so high that farmers will not sell to them at prices which will give them any profit. Glad of it. If farmers are not fools they will not sell as long as they have anything to feed with, and not then at home, but bring them here and sell direct to the butcher. We can dispense with middle men.

GEO AYRAULT—94 head—15 this State cattle, owned by W. F. Baker, Monroe County, that will average 8½ cwt. One pair of rindle oxen fatted by G. A. Clark, weighed 4,090 lbs. live weight, and sold for $250. This is 11c. The others average 10½c.

The balance are from Ohio, common stock, fair quality steers selling for about 9½c. average. The best sold for 10c.; sales at full weight are not as easy as last week.

SIMON ULREY—132 head of good Chester County, Penn., 3 and 4 year old steers and oxen, some of them very good, and very few poor ones. The average sale will not exceed 10c. The owner thanks he does not get 10½c. for the best, though butchers talk of 11c. The price certainly is not as good as last week; the quality not to be found fault with. We wish all stock was as good as that from Pennsylvania.

PHILLIPS & CASEY—41 Ohio, 12 Pennsylvania, and 3 Orange County fat oxen. The latter sold at 10c., and some of the poorest of the others sold at 7c.

SHERMAN & WHEELER—140 head common Ohio stock, that are selling at 8c @10c., with report of brokers that sales are much more dull than last week at 50c. ⅌ cwt. less price, and worse estimate of weight.

The above sales comprise a small part only of the business, but show about the range of all classes. The Connecticut cattle were the ordinary breed of that State, the common native Devons, good smooth handsome steers and work oxen that worked till after the spring work is over, and then run on grass till they become good wholesome beef, just fat enough. Such will always command 10c. The Virginia cattle are probably on an average not over three-quarters the weight of those from Connecticut.

With one-sixth of the number out, we should have had a market to day that we need not be ashamed of, if it should be seen, as it was, by a good many strangers who have come to the State Fair.

SHEEP AND LAMBS—As we predicted last Monday, so it has turned out—the price has fallen off in one broker's sales from ⅌ 61 to ⅌ 75, and in another's from ⅌ 77 to ⅌ 83, and the quality of the stock of the latter considerably better than the first.

There were not as many in the pens this morning as this day week, but there was a good supply—at Browning's over 2,000—and some of them very good. In fact, the proportion of good sheep this year is better than last, notwithstanding the failure of the pastures. Many of the Ohio sheep are coarse, heavy animals, weighing from 60 to 80 lb of meat. The receipts last week at the several market-places were as follows:

Allerton's, 1,622; Browning's, 6,337; the market-boats, 1,551; Chamberlin's, 4,128 sheep and 2,915 lambs.

The price as it runs on an average of lots, will be seen by the following accounts of several brokers' sales.

JAMES MCCARTY reports the following sales, and market daily:

Total, Sheep and Lambs 1,061			$3,463 99

Average per head $3 46

The above were sold at Browning's, and embrace stock from this state, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

The following report of John Mortimore, Sheep Broker at Chamberlin's, will give a fair view of transactions at that market.

Sales of Sheep at Chamberlin's by JOHN MORTIMORE:

Sheep 222, av. price	⅌ head $2 75	about 9c.	⅌ lb for mutton
Sheep 85, av. price	⅌ head 3 75	about 9½c	⅌ lb for mutton

Lambs 39, av. price	⅌ head 2 75	about 9½c	⅌ lb for meat
Lambs 170, av. price	⅌ head 2 50	about 10c	⅌ lb for meat
Lambs 91, av. price	⅌ head 3 25	about 10½c	⅌ lb for meat
Lambs 50, av. price	⅌ head 2 62½	about 10c	⅌ lb for meat
Lambs 52, av. price	⅌ head 3 12½	about 10c.	⅌ lb for meat
Lambs 29, av. price	⅌ head 4 75	about 11c.	⅌ lb for meat

The markets this week have been unusually dull; owing probably in part to the warm weather in the early part of the week, which had a tendency to put down the price of dead meats. If the weather is cool, the prices will advance, but not much as long as the present liberal supply and warm weather continues. Mutton is selling by the carcass in Washington Market from 2½ to 3½c. ⅌ lb; Lamb from 5 to 10½c. ⅌ lb, and some of it gets pretty near fit to feed Hottentots before it is sold.

VEALS—It will be seen that the number of these animals is a little lower this week than it has been before but once since last February. Then it was 651 for the last week of that month, and only once since Sept. 4 has it been as low as 750. The receipts last week were: Allerton's 261, Brownins's 124, the balance with the cows. The quality and price remain unchangeable.

MILK COWS—There seems to be a little more inquiry for fresh cows for family use for the winter. It is a pity that the small breed of cows from the Isle of Jersey were not more common in this country for city use, as they give very rich milk, are easily kept on slops of the kitchen, and are healthy and long lived.

Good, nice, smooth milk cows, if they do not give a large quantity of milk, will always find favor among city buyers.

SWINE—The prices at which swine are selling now seem to give drovers satisfaction, except those who bring shoulders and expect pay for subsistence. The following

Report of G. W. Dorman, salesman at Union Drove Yard, for the week ending Oct. 2, will show the state of the market:

Received by Erie Railroad, 1,967; this State corn-fed, 915. Ohio corn-fed, by Hudson River Railroad 118—making in all 2,900 corn-fed, by Hudson River Railroad 118—making in all offered for sale 3,014. Some have sold at the following prices, viz:

W. L. Clark & Co.	196 this State corn-fed, live wt. 4 5-16
J. W. Tubbs	150 Ohio corn-fed, live wt. 4
B. Durant	341 this State corn fed 5
F. Lesley	112 still-fed 4

The balance have been retailed at from 4½ to 5½c., and are worth now the following prices, viz:

This State, corn fed and fat, weighing from 100 to 200 lbs., live wt.	5 @5½
Ohio corn-fed, fat, live wt.	4½@5
Ohio trash, live wt.	4 @4½
Ohio still-fed, live wt.	4 @4½
This State corn-fed, dead wt.	5½@7
Ohio corn-fed, dead wt.	5 @5½
Ohio trash, dead wt.	4 @4½
Ohio still fed, dead wt.	3 @4½

By the appearances of some of the State Hogs drovers are fetching up, we should think they were trying to see which could get the meanest Hogs for market, as some of this State Hogs arriving now do not weigh 40 lbs apiece. Such stock are not wanted. No Hogs that weigh less than 60 lbs, and fat at that, need be sent here. Keep your trash at home, and boil them up to feed the big ones, if you can't do anything else with them.

The average of the first quarter of the year was 15,797. The average of the second quarter was 15,419. So that the average of the last quarter has been about 7,500 greater than the first half of the year.

The following table shows the number of Sheep and Lambs, Veals and Swine received each week for slaughter, and also the number of Milk Cows. These totals however, as large as they may appear, do not show the full number received, owing to the large quantity that comes "scattering."

H. D. Hull's Hide Circular.

NEW YORK, Saturday, Sept. 30, 1854.

HIDES—With moderate arrivals and an increased demand from the trade, prices have ruled very firm, and transactions for the week have been quite extensive. As the sales have greatly exceeded the receipts, the stock on hand has considerably diminished. Importers are firm, and most of the late arrivals that have been landed have been sold at my quotations. Buyers for home consumption, however, pay present sales with great reluctance, and purchase only for their immediate wants. The stock will probably be still further reduced by shipments to Europe, as Hides can be purchased in this market at less rates than at any port there.

Receipts of the week are 22,088 Hides, as follows: ⅌ Robert Wing, from Buenos Ayres, 4,170 dry and 2,000 salted; ⅌ H. Nesen, Rio Grande, 5,600; ⅌ Lauretta, Para, 1,561; ⅌ Isla de Cuba, Africa 687; ⅌ Conquest, Barcelona, 4,000; Minnetonka, Mozambique, 3,250 salted hides, ⅌ Wave, St. Domingo, 397.

The present stock of Ox and Cow comprises 220,568, of the following denominations: 52,000 Dry Buenos Ayres; 28,400 Dry Rio Grande; 5,300 Dry Monte Video; 55,300 Dry Orinoco; 6,000 Dry Porto Cabello; 30,500 Dry African; 850 Dry Savanilla; 508 Dry Maracaibo; 2,000 Dry Rio Hache; 2,000 Dry Southern, Western, &c.; 6,300 Dry Matamoras; 2,200 Dry Vera Cruz; 1,200 Dry St. Domingo; 1,400 Dry Sandwich Islands; 2,654 Dry Central America; 1,200 Dry Trujillo; 1,264 Dry Para; 4,000 Dry Barcelona; 8,000 salted Buenos Ayres; 3,325 salted African.

SKINS—Goat—There is a fair demand for Curacoa Skins from the manufacturers, and the stock is much reduced as there have been no arrivals for some time. Sales 50 bales No. 1 Curacoa at 50c. each. Deer—The market has been very inactive, without sales or receipts of importance. My quotations are nominal.

LEATHER—The market has been very quiet, with but little animation and a moderate demand. The receipts and stock on hand continue light, and in view of the high comparative rates ruling for the raw material, most holders are firm in their prices. Light weights hemlock, of the common descriptions, are most abundant, while heavy still continue scarce. Sales amount to 48 756 sides, and the stock comprises 64,055 sides. Oak tanned remains without change in price, with a fair demand and sales of the week foot up 7,577 sides, and 3,965 dp on hand.

CORNCITIBUS BANK to-day is held above the views of buyers. COTTON very firm with small sales at full rates. FLOUR continues limited in demand to retailers within the range from $8 to $8 50 for good standards. Nothing doing in shipping brands which are held at ⅌. CORN MEAL stationery; sales 300 bbls. old stock country at ⅌ 75. RYE FLOUR scarce, and sales at ⅌ 75. WHEAT comes in slowly, but the demand is limited and prices favor the buyer—about 5,000 bush. found buyers at ⅌ 50 to ⅌ 60 for fair to prime Southern red, and ⅌ 75 to ⅌ 65 for white. CORN is steady, and 3,000 to 4,000 bush. prime Southern yellow brought 82c., inferior lots at 2c. to 4c. less. OATS lower, and 4,000 bush. sold at 52c. GROCERIES still in active demand. SUGAR and COFFEE scarce, and higher full prices. PROVISIONS quiet, some inquiry for Bacon to go South but no sales reported. LARD continues dull. BUTTER and CHEESE unchanged. CLOVER SEED inactive.
