The several railroads centering in New-Haven will bring stock and articles for exhibition free of charge.

Prof. McClintock's Pectoral Syrup.—The great peculiarity of Dr. McCLINTOCK'S Pectoral Syrup is that in all chronic diseases of the Throat and Lungs, as in Bronchitis and Consumption in all their forms and stages, it may be taken by the most delicate patient with perfect safety. It contains no morphine or opium in any shape, or tartar emetic; one or both of which injurious drugs enter the composition of nearly all the common remedies for pectoral complaints. It is pleasant to the palate, produces no nausea or debility, but may be taken freely and constantly, with the certain result of strengthening the stomach and renovating the entire system, while healing and soothing the irritated organs and producing gradually a perfect cure. As the tried prescription of an eminent physician, it is rapidly coming into use in place of the injurious nostrums with which the country is flooded.
Price in pints, $1. Sold by all Druggists, and by the proprietors, A. CUSHMAN & Co., No. 122 Fulton-st., N. Y.

Emigrant Intelligence Office and Labor Exchange is Removed from No. 27 Canal-st. to the corner of Centre and Canal-sts., New-York. The Office is established by the Commissioners of Emigration where can always be found large numbers of LABORERS and SERVANTS at very low rates of wages, and persons can have their orders filled by writing to the Superintendent and sending the amount necessary to pay the passage of the parties required. No fees charged to employers. JAS. F. FAGAN, Superintendent.

New-York Young Men's Christian Association.—The third of the series of Free Popular Lectures before this Association will be delivered by the Rev. WM. ADAMS, D.D., of this city, on FRIDAY EVENING, the 6th inst, in the Lecture Room of Clinton Hall, Astor-place. The public are invited to attend.
Owing to the indisposition of Dr Adams, which has occurred since the above notice was given, Professor HOWARD CROSBY has consented to lecture in his place. Subject: EGYPT. BENJ. LORD, Chn. Lecture Com.

Kidder's Gas Regulator.—A better light with one-quarter less Gas. We have examined and tested with some care KIDDER'S GAS REGULATOR, an invention designed to regulate the pressure at which Gas shall be burned by each consumer. Kidder's Regulator is a simple mechanical contrivance, by which each consumer may regulate the pressure at which he desires to burn the Gas, so as to give precisely the amount he wishes to burn and no more. And when it is once thus adjusted, it preserves the same pressure without any further attention.
The invention seems to us one of the greatest utility. From various trials we have made with it, we are convinced that it saves fully twenty-five per cent of the Gas consumed, and that it gives also a better, softer and more equable light. Professors TORREY, GIBBS, ELLETT and others, have certified to its excellence, and a number of persons who have used it, have also testified to the economy and other advantages which they have derived from it. We are thoroughly convinced it is an invention worthy of general attention, and calculated to prove universally and decidedly useful.
Orders received at the GAS REGULATOR Co.'s OFFICE, No. 262 Broadway.

South Williamsburgh.—The members of this Association are hereby informed that there will be a meeting held at No. 185 Bowery, on TUESDAY EVENING, Oct. 10, at which time all the Lots that have not been paid for in full will be sold at Auction to pay the amount due thereon. It is expected that several of the most eligible Building Lots in the village will be offered, affording to members or others an unusually good opportunity to make a profitable investment.
MARK A. WILKES, Vice-President.
B. W. WILSON, Secretary.

Human Hair.—HYPERION FLUID.—This is a composition admirably adapted to the diseases of the hair, and has the particular merit of being prepared purely from Vegetable Ingredients, so that its application is perfectly safe. How often do we perceive young persons with hair nearly gray, or afflicted with baldness, all arising from inflammation of the skin of the head, caused by severe study, violent grief and other mental afflictions. By a liberal use of the Hyperion in a short time they will find, to their delight, a complete change will have taken place in the action of the skin and a rich and luxuriant growth of hair, of its original color, will shortly follow. Its effects in cleansing the hair from scurf and dandruff are also truly wonderful. The Hyperion should be one of the principal appendages to every Lady's and Gentleman's toilet.
May be had in New-York of A. B. & D. SANDS, Fulton-st.; CHAS. RING & Co., Broadway; RUSHTON, CLARKE & Co., Broadway; CLICKENER & CO. No. 81 Barclay-st., and Chemists and Perfumers throughout the world. (3)

QUACKENBOS'S ADVANCED PROSE COMPOSITION
D. APPLETON & Co., Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway, WILL PUBLISH ON FRIDAY:
ADVANCED COURSE OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC:
A SERIES OF PRACTICAL LESSONS
On the origin, history, and peculiarities of the English language, punctuation, taste, the pleasures of the imagination, figures, style and its essential properties, criticism, and the various departments of prose and poetical composition; illustrated with copious exercises.
Adapted to self-instruction, and the use of schools and colleges.
"Free grace in writing comes from art, not chance." [Pope.
By G. P. QUACKENBOS, A. M., Associate Principal of the Cole grove School, New-York, author of "First Lessons in Composition," &c. 1 vol., 12mo. Price $1.
"The favor with which the public have kindly received the author's "First Lessons in Composition," and the frequent calls made by Colleges and higher Academies for a more advanced work on the same plan, with which to follow it, have led to the preparation of the present volume. The elementary book to which reference has just been made, was intended to initiate the beginner by easy steps into the art of composition; the work now offered to the public has a wider scope, embracing a variety of subjects worthy of the attention of advanced pupils, and presenting much important matter therefore scattered through a number of different text-books. Claiming to give a comprehensive and practical view of our language in all its relations, this "Advanced Course" views it as a whole, no less than with reference to the individual words composing it; shows how it compares with other tongues, modern and ancient; points out its beauties; indicates how they may best be made available; and, in a word, teaches the pupil the most philosophical method of digesting and arranging his thoughts as well as the most correct and effective mode of expressing them." [Extract from the Preface.

WOOD'S PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF THE STAGE—Now ready, the third thousand.
PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF THE STAGE embracing notices of Actors, Authors and Auditors, during a period of forty years. By William B. Wood, late Director of the Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Alexandria theaters. In 1 vol. 12mo., illustrated by a portrait. Paper covers $0 25.
"Take it altogether, its historical accuracy, perfect familiarity with all that concerns the stage, with its decided literary merit, and we may safely pronounce this the great book of the theatrical age, the best work that has ever appeared on the subject, and one that all will read and be delighted with." [American Courier.
"We have read other theatrical histories and biographies—Cibber's and Bellamy's, in England, and Dunlap's and others here—but none of them have a genial, gentle spirit like this." [North American.
"Any narrative of his life would be sure to find numerous readers. They will not be disappointed in any expectations they may have formed of its merit as a dramatic history or literary work." [Evening Bulletin.
"The author is now in his 76th year. In closing his long professional career by the preparation of this volume, he has performed an acceptable public service, and made a valuable addition to the dramatic history of the country." [N. Y. Journal.
"We sincerely congratulate the lovers of the legitimate old-fashioned drama, on the rich treat that awaits them in the volume now before us, for which we owe our thanks to the enterprising publisher. There is no man living better qualified than Mr. Wood to give interest and zest to such a work.
"We are certain that the most fastidious critic will find as much to admire in the style of his narrative as in the richness of his anecdote and the wisdom of his reflections." [National Intelligencer.
"A most valuable and interesting work." [Saturday Post.
"A most curious and interesting historical record of his times." [Daily News.
"The debut of Cooper; the peculiar talents of Jefferson or Matthews; the success of Cooke, and Kean, and Booth; the sensation produced by the Kembles, Power, Forrest and Fanny Elsler—the book before us tells us something of them all." [City Item.
"It is exceedingly interesting." [Sunday Dispatch.
"We without hesitation pronounce it the most interesting, entertaining and instructive book of the kind that has ever come under our notice." [Sunday Press.
"He revives, in his lively and graceful sketches, reminiscences which must please every frequenter of the drama in its best days, and brings vividly back to mind persons and things grateful to the memory, though time has almost obliterated them." [Ledger.
"Destined from its piquancy and inexhaustible field of information, to attain a world-wide reputation." [Argus.
"The work is an epitome of an actor's life—a life indeed, for it identifies the author with the drama for fifty years." [Pennsylvanian.

"Enough to make ossified hearts quiver."
THE GREAT TEMPERANCE NOVEL.—EASY NAT; OR, BOSTON AND NEW-YORK BOYS.
A Tale of City Life. Elegant 12mo., illustrated. Price, $1 25.
"Some of the scenes painted are enough to make ossified hearts quiver. There are tempters and temptations; and almost every variety of character is introduced and made to play its part, and the description is of the most thrilling nature imaginable. John Hard is a true representative of the Yankee character; the parson's anecdote of the Hay family, of South Carolina, the wealthy, dissipated young men who were burned in the barn because they were too much intoxicated to escape, will do more wherever read to prevent rum drinking than the 'Maine Law' and 'an act to amend an act.' It is seldom that we find in a novel so many notable characters and so many good points to be made in this." [Hingham (Mass.) Gazette.
"We take pleasure in recommending this work to young men. It points in a most powerful manner the road to vice and waste, most emphatically those who are in it of the fate they may expect if they do not change their tactics. The author is very justly severe on that in the idle and the vicious—the six degrees of crime—wine, women, gambling, theft, murder, and the gallows—are all attached. The evils of intemperance are most powerfully depicted and the dangers to which that class of young men who are known as good natured, jovial fellows are exposed, fully portrayed. The author has also shown the dangers of relying on circumstantial proof in the conviction of crime. His book should be read by all young men who really desire to escape the way that leads to ignominy and death." [N. Y. Times.
"A Temperance book, and is well adapted to impress the lessons of the great reform upon every thoughtful mind. It is written with much graphic force, its moral is excellent and obvious and its descriptions of character life-like. We hope it will obtain a wide circulation, for its influence must be good." [Albany Prohibitionist.

IS IT WASHINGTON IRVING'S new BOOK? The N. Y. Observer says: "The writer has no reason for concealing his name which we trust will come out with his next venture before the public."
Second Thousand Now Ready.
HERMIT'S DELL; FROM THE DIARY OF A PENCILLER.
One elegant 12mo. Illustrated. Price $1.
"We are really unable to name the author of this delightful book, which we intend some day to take into the woods with us—some of those glorious autumn days that are fast approaching,—and choosing a seat upon a moss-grown stone, drink all its contents without a witness to our solitary delight. We feel just as though we should like to shake him heartily by the hand." [N. Y. Atlas.
"We know of no book in the whole range of modern literature we would more select for a delightful and instructive companion." [N. Y. Christian Intelligencer.
"In its odors of flowers, sweet country sits, childvoices, and mingling with them, human love, and sorrow and passions." [Hartford Republican.
"Beautiful landscapes, family scenes and conversations, rural sketches of wonderful value, of the beauties of verdant fields and fragrant flowers, of the music of birds and running brooks, all described in an original and unstudied manner, which cannot fail to delight every one whose character is imbued with a love of nature." [Poughkeepsie Eagle.
"It is full of heart, and is written in a beautiful style. It relates the incidents of two young families, picturing their glowing happiness with a shading of a cross around them. The simple description of their own happy homes is beautiful, and the moral relation of their good deeds among those who were suffering is touching." [Hartford Times.
"It is just the book to read at twilight, when memories of bygone times crowd thick and fast upon the mind, or in some lonely retreat, far from the jarring noises of the world, where no sound breaks the stillness but the chirp of a bird or the murmur of a waterfall." [Yankee Blade.
"As we read the last page of Hermit Dell, we come to the conclusion that we have had a pleasant visit there; its only wishing it might have been longer. It is a charming volume, full of fact, fancy, elegance and beauty." [Worcester Palladium.
"As a companion in a wooden cottage or by a winter's hearth, this collection of home-like pictures can hardly be surpassed by any of the current works of a similar character." [N. Y. Tribune.
"A genial spirit pervades this neat volume, shining warmly and pleasantly in the picture of rural life and home scenes. It refreshes the soul to read them, and does one good as a medicine." [New-York Observer.
"It is a book of food as well as sad memories, such as enter into the existence of many a scholar, a journeyer through many lands, and at last a roster in a quiet dell, where the past is lived over again and the present truly enjoyed. As honey to the taste, so is this book to the intellectual and soul appetite of the lover of nature, and of the sweet commingling of kindred spirits." [Albany Spectator.
