Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.—ABSTRACT OF MONTHLY REPORT FOR JANUARY.—This season of distress invents reports of relief with more than ordinary interest. The returns from each of the 301 stations are minute and comprehensive, detailing the case of every family assisted, with the aggregate results. The labor performed by the visitors, if unattested by reports, would appear incredible. If acknowledgments are due the benevolent for means of relieving the distressed, gratitude not less sincere is merited by the visitors, for their gratuitous, self-sacrificing labors.

The most obvious fact in the returns, is the sudden increase of the dependent list. In January nearly three times as many persons were aided, as in the corresponding month of any preceding year. This result, obtained through the rigid discriminations and exact returns of this system, affords no unfair indication of the fearful increase of destitution by the revulsions of the times.

The next striking development is the classes of persons relieved. Most of the needy usually consist of unskilled male and female laborers, chiefly of foreign birth. The commercial depression, and decrease of employment among mechanical and manufacturing branches of industry, have conspired to produce—not a new class of the indigent—for our records always show such—but to augment their number greatly beyond the aggregate of former years. Hence, 1,186 mechanic families, &c., numbering 3,957 persons; 782 sewing women, mostly with families, and about 900 families of humbler occupation, but of sober, moral, and in some instances of religious character—in all more than 5,000 families of these interesting classes, who had been overtaken by poverty, were aided during the month, which all the secrecy and delicacy which sympathy, for manliest pride inspires, such facts afford another practical refutation of the falsacy, that train charity did not and could not reach the respectable classes of the poor.

Another, and not less interesting feature of the operations, consists in the efforts of the visitors, for the social and moral improvement of the relieved. In no previous Winter has there been greater success in this direction. Adversity, the only school in which some will learn wisdom, is now giving point and force to many salutary lessons, not only of social thrift, but of higher import, which there is reason to believe, will not soon be forgotten.

The visitors uniformly attest that this long-tried and well-adjusted system of relief is adequate to any emergency likely to arise, if supported and allowed unmolestedly to maintain an unswerving adherence to its own principles. Their chief embarrassments and difficulties, they say, have been occasioned by the outside committees. These movements, by stirring up the pauperism of the city from its foundations, and exciting expectations of relief, which could not in the nature of things, and should not in the majority of cases be realized, have directly tended to defeat all judicious charity. Thousands of persons have thus been thrown upon this Association, and on the community, irrespective of their deserts or actual need. The visitors, in numerous sections, have consequently been overwhelmed with unappeasable applicants—many of whom did not know until told that they were poor enough to need aid and probably would not have sought it unless stimulated to do so—while others, who were able to struggle on without assistance, roused their exertions for self-support, and thus within themselves on gratuitous relief. Nothing, certainly, was further from the design or anticipation of the excellent persons engaged in these movements than such results; and they are kindly referred to, not for criticism, but to guard against a recurrence of measures which all experience shows will be productive of greater evil than good. The charity of a great city cannot be safely trusted to efforts born of excitement, and managed by impulse. The fear is that the seeds of pauperism will thus be broadcast, and, finding all that is congenial to their growth among the foreign poor which here abound, incorrigible in poverty—such as is the curse of European cities—will take too deep root for after years to eradicate.

The following is a summary of the labors of the past month:

Number of families relieved	11,198
Number of persons relieved	49,986
Number of visits	16,771
Expended and appropriated since Jan. 1	$39,589 17

With due allowance for exaggerated statements of poverty which may have appeared, it is still a painful fact that the destitution among us is beyond precedent, and probably without a parallel in the country. Its increase is indicated by the following figures: In November this Association relieved 903 families; in December 4,170; in January, 11,198, against 4,106 in January, 1854. The number of the dependent now, without repetition, on the books of the Association, is nearly four times greater than in all the charitable and criminal institutions in charge of the Ten Governors, and in those of the Emigrant Department, combined.

By order of the Board, R. M. HARTLEY, Sec'y.

In connection with the foregoing facts, the undersigned, Finance Committee of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, would respectfully state:

That voluntary contributions, without appeal, have thus far enabled the Association to meet the importunity for relief which the present distress has thrown upon it. It was hoped the stream of charity would have uninterruptedly flowed on until the wide-spread calamity was overpast. But they are constrained to report a sudden diminution of receipts, while destitution augments. As the poor exhaust the reserved funds, without the means of renewing them, poverty-stricken dependents must correspondingly increase. Gaunt want appears not yet to have done its worst. Its subjects are now more numerous than in any former part of the winter; and there is redness in the certainty of their steady increase, day by day, until some adequate cause brings permanent relief.

On this brief statement of facts the undersigned rest their appeal. In former years the relief did not fall off more than ten per cent in March, nor more than twenty-five per cent. in April. The Treasury is now so nearly exhausted that another appropriation cannot be made. Meanwhile, the Alms-House monthly cash expenditures for outdoor relief do not exceed one thousand dollars—less than half the outlay in the same time by this charity in some Wards. It is too late for remedial schemes. Deter aid and thousands suffer. Their necessities evidently stand first in order, and first in urgency and obligation: and there is no escape from responsibility. All must give, though they have given before, even more than they can spare—or suffering and starvation appear inevitable.

JAMES BROWN, GEO. GRISWOLD, R. B. MINTURN, A. R. WETMORE, THOMAS DENNY, } Finance Committee.

The illustrations are well done, and set off the incidents in Willie's life charmingly." (Newburgh Mercury. PRETTY POLL'S OWN HISTORY. WIKOFF'S COURTSHIP AND ITS CONSEQUENCES. A Voice from the Religious Press. "Avaunt, ye works of romantic fiction! Ye will hereafter be tame! Here is an episode in real life which will make you hide yourselves with conscious inferiority! But seriously, this is one of the most remarkable books which we ever read. * * * There is not a word in it which can give offense to the most refined mind. The author's account of his courtship with its tragical termination, restores forever the idea that fiction can exaggerate the romance of real life. He passed through a series of the fallest kind of romantic adventures, which he is obliged to relate here, in order that his vindication (a triumphant one) may be complete." (Christian Freeman. THE MOST SUCCESSFUL AMERICAN BOOK. RUTH HALL: A DOMESTIC TALE OF THE PRESENT TIME. BY FANNY FERN. 400 pp., 12mo. Cloth. Price, $1 25. It has been reserved to this distinguished authoress to achieve what may, under the circumstances, be regarded as the most brilliant success ever obtained by an American writer of fiction. "RUTH HALL," her first continuous story, though deriving no interest or popularity from connection with any of those vexed questions which agitate the public mind, has, in the two months since its first appearance, reached a greatly larger sale than any other American work of fiction whatever within the same period. This extraordinary fact is, of itself, abundant evidence of the absorbing interest and graphic power of this remarkable work. We have in our possession several hundred reviews of "RUTH HALL," which have already appeared in the principal newspapers and periodicals. Nearly all of these pronounce it emphatically a work of genius, many predicting for it the largest sale of any American book, and devoting whole columns to its eulogism, while we have yet seen but a very few (not twelve in all) which deny its singular fascination. "RUTH HALL" is for sale by Booksellers generally. Published by MASON BROTHERS, No. 23 Park-row, New-York.
