debt, which has been entirely liquidated. The road requires $30 000 to put it in complete working order. Both the above roads are worked as one line.

The Evening Post says:

"We have to remind our moneyed readers who are seeking for investments, that Anthony J. Bleecker's sale of the Bonds of the Milwaukee and Horicon Railroad Company, will take place on this day week, the first September proximo. Mr. Bleecker is now in Wisconsin examining the property, and his report will be forthcoming in a few days; meanwhile he writes home in confident terms of the character of the property, and its value as an adequate basis of security for the bonds emitted. The bonds for sale are Eight per Cent first mortgage Bonds, dated 1st May, 1858, for twenty five years, and are convertible into stock within five years, a valuable privilege, considering the rate at which the few Wisconsin roads are advancing in receipts and divicends. The mortgage is on forty-two miles of road, between Berlin and the La Crosse Railroad, which it joins at Horicon, and the mortgage includes real estate, rolling property, and all other property on the forty-two miles of the road. A sinking-fund is provided to secure the repayment of the bonds within the time appointed for their repayment."

One of our exchange papers contains the following paragraph. It is without credit, and therefore we cannot say how much reliance should be placed on it:

"The people of Texas appear to be doomed never to get rid of controversy about that debt. The debt is now paid, past recal for State or creditor, but a resulting question has risen, which is producing great excitement. It is the question how the Debt bill was passed, and whether all was fair and honest, upon which points there are some damaging suspicions abroad. On the 5th inst., these were formally brought before the Texas House of Representatives, by a member from Smith County, who introduced a preamble and resolutions setting forth the existence of rumors that the passage of the public debt act of last Legislature was procured by fraud and bribery, and asking a Committee of Inquiry to be raised. It was opposed with some vehemence—one member talked in the following heated strain:

"He warned the House that if this investigation proceeded, whether it should result in the acquittal of the parties charged, as he trusted it would, or in the proof of their guilt, the direct, fiercest passions of the human heart would be roused in their utmost fury—that the end of all would not be in discussions on this floor—that the satisfaction required by the code of honor would be demanded—that no man could foresee where or how it would end—and that as one consequence, all legislative business would be suspended.

"Notwithstanding this, the Committee was raised. After the adjournment an altercation on the subject took place in the lobby, and a pistol was drawn, but the parties separated without damage to either. A protracted investigation, and a great deal of controversy and crimination is looked for. But the bill passed, and under it the money has been all paid, and the State has extinguished the debt, so that these investigations are purely for the moral effect—and we hope they will have a good time of it."

Of the Money Market The Boston Post says:

"Rates for money are undeniably higher in New-York than in Boston, but, as yet, this market has not been greatly affected thereby. Money is in good supply in State street, at an advance of one half of one per cent to one per cent above the prices given last week. The lowest rate for A No. 1 paper, except in very rare instances, is 8 per cent, and on Saturday 8½ was asked on a first class loan by a house that is usually up to the market. With this moderate rise of rates, however, there is yet a lack of prime paper, and a stagnant condition of monetary affairs in general. Our views of the future are unchanged, and with the remark that money is likely to be tighter and higher, as the Autumn goes on, we may dismiss this part of the subject. On Friday and Saturday, New-York funds were easy, with a more active demand. The banks are strong, and it is not probable that to-morrow's return will show much change in coin or loans. They are discounting about all the acceptable paper offered at 6@8 per cent, according as the notes are payable in Boston or elsewhere."

OILS—Linseed is steady and in good request; sales 6,000 gal. lots from crusher's hands at yesterday's prices. Crude Whale has been in active request at the East, the market at New-Bedford is very stiff and a further rise in prices must inevitably be soon at hand; we notice sales of 400 bbls handsome at Fairhaven at 90c., refined; 500 bbls. at New-Bedford (nearly a week since not previously reported) at the same price; 1,500 bbls., being the cargo of the Hobomock (noticed yesterday), sold at 90c. delivered at Falmouth; and 2,000 bbls (probably at the same price) sold to a Boston house at 90c. Holders are firm; demand for select oil, and there is a fair prospect for an advance. Refined Winter has been quite active, and prices are firmer. We notice further sales of 150 bbls. at 90c., 4 mos., now generally held at 95c. Crude and Manufactured Sperm remain quiet. Lard Oil is held with great firmness; the transactions are therefore limited. Olive is in good request; sales 800 pckts. at $5 25@$4 37½ for quarts and pints. There is a good demand for Crude Whale, but the views of holders being above those of purchasers, the sales have been limited. The only transactions for the week is a sale of 500 bbls. (reported above) upon strictly private terms. We are informed that 81c. was offered for a cargo, (that of the Reindeer), but refused. Holders are very firm."
