ROBERTS'S HOLY LAND
LIBRARY EDITION.
ROBERTS'S SKETCHES IN THE HOLY LAND, SYRIA, IDUMEA, ARABIA, EGYPT AND NUBIA.
EACH PLATE SIZE 12 INCHES BY 8½ INCHES.
Reduced from the Lithographs by Louis Haghe; with Historical and Descriptive Notices, and an Introductory View of Jewish History, by the Rev George Croly, LL. D. Illustrated with 250 plates, beautifully tinted. 3 vols., royal 8vo.
Morocco antique.....$60
Morocco extra.....60
Half morocco extra, gilt edges.....50
To guarantee perfect identity with the Folio Edition, the whole of the plates have been carefully reduced by Photography, and retain all the beauty and exquisite finish of the originals.
"This work is a noble monument of skill and industry of both artists and publishers. The plates are all faithful minitures of the originals, reduced by photography, and are perfect gems, both for correctness of drawing, even in the minuter parts, and for skilful coloring. No work has recently appeared so generally attractive both to Bible readers and admirers of art." [Clerical Journal.
"The wonders of the Nile, the natural features and monuments of the Desert, the scenery towns and cities of Palestine, all move before you as in a living panorama. Of the 250 scenes here represented, we have looked upon 190 of them with our own eyes, and can identify any one of these as a faithful representation of the original. We know of no work of art that would be such a permanent treasure in a family as this." N. Y. Independent.
THE FOLIO EDITION.
A superb copy of the original edition, bound in 4 vols. folio, half morocco, gilt edges. Price $125.
This is generally considered to be the finest specimen of lithography ever executed in Europe. It was published in parts, and is now getting exceedingly scarce, as the stones from which the prints were taken have been destroyed.
Imported and for sale by WILEY & HALSTED, No. 351 Broadway.

A BEAUTIFUL GIFT-BOOK.
RECORDS OF THE HEART, AND OTHER POEMS.
BY ESTELLE ANNA LEWIS.
"This truly elegant volume is very appropriately dedicated 'To Artists,' for American painters and engravers have exerted themselves worthily in the eleven illustrations by which it is embellished. The liberality of the publishers in this respect is most commendable. Elliott, Cheney, Huntington, Richards, Chappel, Brown, and Darley, among our painters, and J. Cheney, Halpin, Smillie, Phillibrown, and O'Neil, among our engravers have been employed to add to the attractions of the volume, and their productions will increase the reputation of American artists. 'Ugo's Castle,' 'Adalina's Revery,' and 'The Reaper' are surpassingly beautiful, both as designs and as engravings, and may be specially mentioned where all are meritorious. The 'Portrait of the Author' is perhaps in some degree an exception, for though a likeness, and retaining the intellectuality of the author's features, it lacks somewhat that refinement and spiritually which true poetic genius ever stamps upon the countenance of its possessor.
"But these 'Records of the Heart, and other Poems' needed no other attractions than their own intrinsic merit. A volume of Mrs. Lewis's poems would have found readers innumerable though other aids had not lent their aid. Her verse charms by its mellifluousness, arrests attention by its vigor, and wins our sympathies by the depth and truth of its own heart utterings. Some of the longer poems in this volume, indeed, display a happy combination of all the elements of true poesy, not without the occasional fault of the compression of thought at the expense of rhythm—a fault, however, so unusual at the present day, that it may well be pardoned because of its novelty. Indeed, perhaps, force—the energy of earnest thought and the fea less utterance of the poet's sentiment—are characteristics of Mrs. Lewis's poetry. Some of her 'Sonnets,' both original and translated, have great strength of expression. The following affords an illustration of the traits we have mentioned:
"'TO SIDNEY.
"'Whilom I closed the portal of my heart,
And said "no guest shall ever enter more,"
But late thou comest a-rapping to the door
So heavily, it jarring, swung apart,
And in thou sallied'st like a conqueror.
With manner that bespoke the realm thine own,
Did'st take thy seat on its deserted throne,
And straightway, with no tremor born of fear,
Began a inaugural discourse on love.
Thine eloquence thrilled me like a barbed dart,
I caught my breath and strove to say "Depart;"
But lip and tongue alike refused to move,
And though thy usurpation then did grieve me,
'T would well nigh kill me now if thou should'st leave me.'
"We congratulate the lovers of true poetry on the publication of this volume, in a style so truly elegant that it is equalled by few gift-books of this season. It is a pure diamond in a beautiful casket." [Commercial Advertiser.
"These poems are long and ambitious compositions; and, judging them from the point where they should be judged, they are decided successes. There is certainly no other woman in America who could have written them. Their rhythm has a strength almost masculine—often reminding one of Byron's vigorous stanza. Nor is Mr. Lewis lacking in 'honey-linked words.' Her verse at times is as soft as an Italian sunset." [Home Journal.
"The volume is richly bound and superbly illustrated, and one of the finest pictures in it is the charming portrait, by Elliott, of the fair author. Mrs. Lewis has been called 'the American Sappho,' and Edgar A. Poe, who was so much more lavish of his censure than his praise, placed her at the head of the lady poets of America." [N. Y. Daily Times.

THE MOST SUPERB ILLUSTRATED GIFT BOOK EVER ISSUED IN AMERICA:
LIFE of MARTIN LUTHER in FORTY-EIGHT HISTORICAL ENGRAVINGS, finely executed on steel. By Gustav Kœnig. With Explanations by Archdeacon Hare. One royal quarto volume, in cloth, beveled edges and full gilt, $9; in Turkey morocco extra, $12.
The elegant drawings from which the artistic engravings of this work were taken created a great sensation in Germany, and found so many ardent admirers, that their publication was immediately called for. The figures are grouped together with delicate propriety and historical accuracy, and the accompanying embellishments are illustrative of the period, and in exquisite taste. The name of Archdeacon Hare is a sufficient guaranty for the text.

THE NEW-YORK ALMANAC AND WEATHER-BOOK FOR 1857.
A neat pocket volume, bound in cloth, price only 25 cents, though containing as much matter as an ordinary $1 25 volume. Price in sacks, gilt, 50 cents.
From The New-York Times, Dec. 17.
"A WEATHER ALMANAC—Mr. MERIAM OUT AGAIN.—Mr. E. MERIAM has turned up again in print—and this time actually and truly in a book, full of sound, sensible matter, and not open to the criticism that has been visited upon his daily weather squibs. The New-York Almanac and Weather-Book for 1857 is published by Mason Brothers, in a neatly bound pocket volume, which sells for 25 cents. It combines all the tables and calculations that properly belong to the Almanac, superadded to which is a meteorological record for every hour in the year past up to the 1st inst. prepared by the indefatigable Meriam. Certain prognostications of weather are food for the curious, and Mr Meriam describes his places of observation, to show the facilities he enjoys for making his calculations.
"The careful compiler of the statistical matter of this little volume has displayed great judgment in the selection. Tables of latitude and longitude, city information, lists of Banks and Insurance Companies in the leading cities, lists of newspapers in the Union, and tables of weights and measures, are combined with chronological indices. What with Mr Meriam's figures, and the compiler's arrangement, and the publishers' good sense, the Almanac is altogether the best of its kind that has yet appeared." Published by MASON BROTHERS, Nos. 108 and 110 Dunne-st., New-York.
