Special Notices.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 29, 1857.

Edward Falconer, esq.—SIR: It has become our pleasing duty to inform you that at a meeting of the Reformers of the Fifth Aldermanic District of this city, held on the 28th instant, you were unanimously nominated for the office of Alderman, to be elected at the ensuing election; and that by a resolution of the same meeting we were appointed and directed, as a Committee, to inform you of your said nomination, and to ask your acceptance thereof. This duty we hereby perform.

In tendering to you this nomination permit us to say, for ourselves, that well knowing and appreciating your many qualifications for the office of Alderman, and the honest and unflinching zeal which you have ever displayed in the cause of ALL reform, and also knowing the confidence reposed in you by your fellow-citizens, arising from a knowledge of your ability, energy and uprightness—which knowledge has been obtained from their constant and intimate intercourse with you during your residence in this District for the long period of thirty-five years—we feel entirely confident that, should you accept this nomination, you will receive the suffrages of all that portion of the community, without distinction of party, who desire moral, social or political reform, and therefore your election will be certain.

Hoping that you will early signify to us your acceptance of the nomination hereby tendered you, we subscribe ourselves

Most respectfully your fellow-citizens,

GEORGE ROBERTS, ANDREW ECKART, JAMES CONKLIN, W. D. MOLD, } Committee.

NEW-YORK, September 8, 1857.

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 29th August, informing me that I had been nominated to the office of Alderman of the VIIth Aldermanic District of this city at a meeting of the Reformers of that District.

Having serious doubts as to the course most proper for me to pursue, and desiring to consult with my friends who hold the peculiar views entertained by your organization, for the purpose of learning their opinions as to the propriety of my accepting the nomination for Alderman at this juncture, I have delayed answering your communication tendering me that nomination until the present time.

There has never been a period in the municipal history of this city when the moral qualifications of those who are to administer its affairs have been of so great consequence, or when it has been of such vital importance to scrutinize those qualifications as the present.

What is our present condition? We are possessed of unbounded wealth, and blessed with the greatest prosperity. Over $8,000,000 have been raised by tax the present year for the purpose of guarding our property, cleaning and repairing our streets, preserving our health, administering the laws and ordinances, and protecting our persons. Yet let me ask, Is any one of these purposes accomplished? Look at the daily reports of the thefts, the robberies, the arsons, the burglaries; witness the daily and nightly assaults, murders and assassinations, notwithstanding that the new police are doing all that is possible, with their numbers greatly reduced, and having to encounter obstructions thrown in their way by the chief Executive officer. Go into the streets and wade through the mud, swallow the dust, and suffocate with the stench that arises from the accumulated filth; and, finally, tumble into some hole left open through the negligence of the authorities. Then say if our property is guarded, our streets repaired or cleaned, our health preserved or our lives protected? Go to the City Hall and behold the Chief Executive officer of the city fortified within its walls, and its avenues crowded with seven hundred policemen, marshaled by his orders, to aid him in defying and resisting the administration of the law, and with force, accompanied by assault and bloodshed, preventing its officers from executing its mandates, and tell me if the laws are administered!

More than $3,000,000 are we compelled to pay, and yet this is our condition. But who is it that pays all this money into the City Treasury? I assert that at least $90 in every hundred comes from the mechanic and the working man. It is not the capitalist, it is not the landlord, who bears the bulk of this burden. This tax is raised from the sweat of the artisan, from the bones and sinews of the toiling daily laborer, the cartman, the longshoreman and it is wrung from the midnight toils, aye, the blood and the tears of the widow and the orphan—the seamstress and the sewing-girl!

It is contended that the remedy is to be found in the supremacy of this or that political party. I do not think so. I believe that the remedy will have to be sought for in the selection of honest men—those whose private and public characters and actions have sustained the critical observation of their fellow-citizens for a long period of time, unfurnished and unblemished—men who do have a real, direct, personal interest in the welfare of the city and its government, and who are sympathize with the mechanic and the laborer as having the greatest interest in the reduction of the taxes. In my opinion, the evils under which we are suffering have their origin in the incompetent, dishonest, and unscrupulous demagogues who have been allowed, through the negligence and indifference of the representatives of Ichabod, to foist themselves into almost every Municipal office. And only a change in the moral characters of our public functionaries will save us from the ruin with which we are now threatened.

Since receiving your communication, I have been honored by receiving the nomination for the same office to which you tender me the nomination from the Temperance organization of this District, which fact, together with the advice of Peter Cooper, esq., and of many of the most respectable and responsible citizens of this District, have determined me to accept the nomination tendered me by the Reformers, and thus allow my name to be placed before the people as a candidate for an office sought for not for profit, and, at present, without honor, unless that is obtained by a faithful performance of the duties attached to it. In assuming this position, I will only say which it imposes. In all my official action will be in entire accordance with the principles which I have always entertained, and which are well known, and with the public and private actions of my past life.

Thanking you for the very flattering manner in which you have been pleased to make known to me the action of the organization which you represent, I have the honor to subscribe myself,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
EDWARD FALCONER.

To Messrs. George Roberts, Andrew Eckart, James Conklin and W. D. Mold.

THE EDUCATIONAL WORLD AND LITERARY MONTHLY, ILLUSTRATED.

The undersigned are preparing to publish a Monthly Journal of 24 pages, Royal Quarto, price 50 cents per year, divoted to Education, Literature, Science and Art, designed to be a permanent, first-class Periodical, exhibiting the highest Literary and Educational talent of our whole country, which the interest and importance of the subject, or the most liberal compensation ever paid contributors to American Periodicals can attract. It will include the whole circle of topics belonging to Education, practical and theoretical, with incidental consideration of Literature, Science, and the interests of the Household, treating them with a direct, earnest purpose, to enlarge the views, elevate the principles, purify the taste, quicken the interest and facilitate the labors of those engaged in the instruction of the young.

Its contents will embrace articles on Educational topics; Biographical Sketches of eminent Educators, with finely engraved portraits; Sketches of Educational and Literary Institutions, with views and drawings; Construction of School-Houses, with original designs; Educational Intelligence, including the progress of legislation, the election of school officers, movements of eminent teachers, establishment of colleges, or other institutions, proceedings of teachers' institutes throughout the Union, &c. Essays on Literary Topics; Literary Intelligence; complete Lists of new Books, American, English and Continental, Reviews of choice Books and advance sheets of forthcoming works; Contents of leading Reviews, &c. Summary of Scientific Discovery, Invention and Research, &c. Entertaining articles for general reading, incidents, and humor, for the enlivening the school-room or family circle; Music and Musical Essays and Intelligence, &c.

The services of a most experienced and able Editor, and the cooperation of a large number of distinguished and competent Authors and Teachers, have been secured—the list of which will be increased till the public confidence in the proposed Journal shall rest upon the broadest union of talent, experience and practical ability.

The first, or immediately succeeding numbers, will contain articles from the pens of Hon. Horace Mann, Prof. Lewis of Union College, Prof. Andrews of Marietta College, David A. Wells, Editor of Annual Scientific Discovery; Hon. C. H. Wiley, Supt. Public Instruction of North Carolina; Prof. Huntington, Harvard University; Dr. W. A. Alcott, Boston; Prof. Webster, Virginia; Hon. V. M. Rice, late Supt. Pub. Instruction, State of New-York; Hon. W. H. Wells, Supt. Pub. Instruction, Chicago, and late Pres. Normal School, Mass.; Hon. S. S. Randall, Supt. Pub. Instruction, New-York City; Prof. C. S. Henry, late of University of New-York; Pres. Hitchcock, Amherst College. In Music, Prof. Wm. B. Bradbury, New-York; and in the Ladies' Column, Miss Fennimore Cooper, and others; etc., etc.

Copious ILLUSTRATIONS of classic designs in Art, views of public edifices, portraits of eminent men, &c., &c., engraved in the finest manner, will form a constant feature. The arrangements for European contributions and illustrations will be completed in a few weeks.

THE EDUCATIONAL WORLD will commence with a circulation of 25,000 copies, which are in progress for rapidly increasing, it is hoped, to 100,000, and thus reaching half a million of readers.

To Educators, School Officers, Clergymen and Literary men, interested in the Cause of Education, it is hoped the proposed Journal will furnish a medium of intelligence and suggestion as may secure their confidence and patronage.

The few columns of ADVERTISEMENTS will be strictly limited to Books (chiefly educational), Periodicals, Literary Institutions, Philosophical and Educational Apparatus and Furniture, Music and Musical Instruments, Engravings and Works of Art, and other matters of especial interest to the Teachers, Clergymen, Students and Literary men. It will be readily seen that these pages will offer an unequaled medium for advertising in this department, the Publishers' list of Teachers, Literary Institutions, etc., being the result of years of discriminating and expensive labor, corrected to the present time, and outnumbering the subscribers to all the Educational Journals in the Union combined. And whereas, in general journals, one advertisement in a thousand, or a hundred only, as the case may be, reaches the interested reader, every copy of THE EDUCATIONAL WORLD goes directly to the parties daily using the articles admitted in these columns.

Fifty cents a year is only the prime cost of producing and circulating this Journal and its profit, if any, will arise from the advertisements just named.

The date of the first number, a further list of distinguished contributors, and other particulars will be duly announced. A full Prospectus will be sent on application.

DR. BARTH'S TRAVELS in AFRICA—A NEW ENGLISH NOVEL.

HARPER & BROTHERS, FRANKLIN SQUARE, N. Y., Publish this Day:

I.
BARTH'S TRAVELS IN AFRICA.
TRAVELS AND DISCOVERIES IN NORTH AND CENTRAL AFRICA.

Being a Journal of an Expedition undertaken under the auspices of H. B. M.'s Government, in the years 1849-1855. By HENRY BARTH, Ph. D., D. C. L., &c. Profusely illustrated. 5 vols. 8vo. Muslin, $2 50 a volume (Vols. I. and II. now ready). Vol. III., completing the work, is in the press and will be published shortly.

Dr. Barth's wonderful Travels approach the Equator from the North as nearly as Dr. Livingstone's from the South, and thus show to future travelers the field which still remains open for exploration and research. Starting from Tripoli in the North, Dr. Barth proceeded from the settlements of the Arab and the Berber, which present the somber remains of the vast empires of the Middle Ages, into a country dotted with splendid ruins from the period of the Roman dominions, through the wild roving hordes of the Tawareck, and the negro and half negro tribes, to the very border of the South African nation.

II.
A NEW NOVEL
GUY LIVINGSTONE;
OR, "THOROUGH."
12mo., muslin, 75c.

A new English novel, remarkable for the brilliant intensity of its character-drawing. The materials are drawn from exceptional phases of human life, and are wrought up into a narrative of uncommon power and interest.

On Tuesday, Sept. 22, we propose to publish

THE GREAT BOOK OF THE YEAR—The new Tale, by the authoress of THE LAMPLIGHTER. Miss Cummins has chosen for the title of her new book the name of the principal heroine the beautiful and accomplished MABEL VAUGHAN, and has written a story which, for elegance of diction and thrilling interest, has rarely been equaled by any American lady. The question has been repeatedly asked, can Miss Cummins write another book equal to "The Lamplighter?" We can answer this question now with perfect assurance, not only from our own personal knowledge, but from the unqualified testimony of two literary gentlemen of Boston, who have read the work with great care and with absorbing interest, both of whom pronounce it a superior book to the first, and assure us that the authoress of "The Lamplighter," instead of losing position, will add immensely to her previously well-earned and world-wide reputation. Many writers, flushed with the success of their first efforts, resume authorship in such haste as to leave no time for the recreation and recuperation required by both body and mind. Not so with the authoress of "The Lamplighter." She has shown her good judgment in waiting two years and a half, and, by so doing, will undoubtedly take a position in advance of the one she now occupies.

MABEL VAUGHAN, like "The Lamplighter," will soon become a familiar household name, and her charming character a model for imitation. We are printing TWENTY THOUSAND COPIES for the first edition. It will make a handsome 12mo volume of about 500 pages, to sell for $1, with our usual discount to the trade. Special terms made for 1,000 copies. Early orders from the trade are most respectfully solicited. We hope to publish it about the middle of September.

Also, THE CONFESSIONS OF A MINISTER; A Letter to Cora Lee; Shall Children be Whipped; What the Ladies think of Tobacco; Pride in School Teachers, &c., in LIFE ILLUSTRATED. Only 4 cents.

WALL-ST. BUBBLES.—"Bulls, Bears and Brokers," Thimble-riggers and Panic-makers. Read a paragraph on this subject in this week's LIFE ILLUSTRATED. Also, on Mercantile Failures; Brandy in the Hospitals; Philadelphia Jokers; Concentrated Milk; Female Dress; Clean Teeth; and a Poem, LIGHTS IN THE VILLAGE WINDOWS; Notes and Queries; Patent Office Department, &c., in LIFE ILLUSTRATED, for 4 cents.

CRIME and CRIMINALS.—"What is to be done with Crime and Criminals?" "Crime of all kinds is fearfully on the increase among us." "The victims are found in all conditions of society." "Frauds, robberies, and murders not only keep pace with but outrun the intelligence of the age." Such are the prominent and concurrent expressions of the leading newspapers. "Well, gentlemen, what are you going to do about it?" "Abolish hanging," says one. "Make punishment less severe and more certain." "Give us more hanging" says another. "Make the penalties more terrible," &c. This week's LIFE ILLUSTRATED presents the causes and a remedy.

The New Book by the author of "Alone" and "The Hidden Path."

MRS. ANNA CORA RITCHIE,
in The Richmond Enquirer of Sept. 3, reviews MARION HARLAND'S NEW BOOK, MOSS-SIDE,
in genial and appreciative language, from which we extract the following:

"A fresh production from the fluent pen of Marion Harland is certain of a warm greeting from all the lovers of the pure, the beautiful the enrobing in literature. Her powers as a writer are no longer a matter of question upon which critics can decide; they can no longer dispute her claims to this or that laurel, or throw the shadow of their cavils upon its greenness. The true critic is the great public, who buys the book, reads it, loves it, watches for its successor and utters an involuntary 'well done!' as the last leaf is closed. The unerring voice of the multitude has pronounced Marion Harland among the first of American female writers. The echo of that voice has sounded across the water to foreign lands, and been responded to in foreign tongues. Our readers are aware that 'Alone' and 'The Hidden Path' have been translated into several languages, and have found hosts of delighted readers in Europe. What surer test can there be of popularity! All the carping of the most sapient critics cannot steal from such success one atom of its reality.

"High as her first work placed her, with each succeeding volume she has taken a step onward; has reached a new round of the steep ladder of fame.

"Moss-Side is a more artistic work than her two earlier productions. It is written with greater force; it evinces a deeper insight into human nature—especially into woman's nature—the deep, mysterious well-springs of woman's heart. The diction of this last book is perhaps more carefully correct—more polished—and yet it has lost none of the morning freshness, the romantic-loving warmth, the unstudied eloquence, the natural grace of style, which characterized her former efforts.

"The mental conflicts of Grace Leigh; the yielding up her idol at the command of the angel Duty; the temporary burdening of her heart with an overwhelming sorrow; the touch of a little child upon its rocky surface, commanding the waters to flow anew; the gradual regeneration of her chastened soul; her holy self-renunciation and triumph; the descent of the dove of peace upon her purified spirit, call to mind the poet's declaration:

'In the flaming heat, the martyr
May a lofty courage show;
With a pure intrepid order,
Freedom's chief to battle go;
But, my maiden, in the combat
Of thy motives' good and bad,
Thou hast shown as true a mettle—
Thou as great a triumph had!'

"This contest and victory furnish the impressive moral of the narrative. It is one that may teach patience to some who are groaning beneath the weight of unapprehended affliction. It may open blinded eyes to see the mercy of the hand that smites. It may change murmurs to prayers and thanksgiving."

"These closing passages describe a touching interest for those who are aware that, during the interval between the appearance of 'Hidden Path' and 'Moss-Side,' a wedding ring glistened on the delicate finger of Marion Harland."
