FOR THE HEARTHSTONES OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.
THE SCALPEL for January, No. XXXV., Edited by EDWARD H. DIXON, M. D., contains a great variety of interesting Popular Articles. It is entirely original and by far the cheapest and most elegantly printed Journal in this country. Price 25 cents.
THE SCALPEL differs radically from every other periodical publication in the following points: It is entirely original; every separate number contains several valuable popular articles on the most important questions of health; the collected series is a great library of truths in physiology and economics suited to every class of intellect.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.
"The January number is most decidedly good and no way inferior to its predecessors." [Courier and Enquirer, New-York City.
"Full of life and energy, and never obscure to the commonest mind." [Vinton Eagle, Iowa.
"There is hardly an article which we would not gladly transfer to our columns did space permit." [Daily Times, Brooklyn.
"It is a mystery how a man engaged in extensive practice in the heart of the city finds time to make one of the most original, fascinating and instructive journals issued from the American press." [Weekly Sentinel, Burlington, Vt.
"Broad humor, true pathos and trenchant satire are harmoniously blended." [Sussex Register, Newton, N. J.
"It is the most independent quarterly we have ever read." [York Pennsylvanian.
"No periodical in the country is entitled to more readers or a better support." [Despatch, Erie, Pa.
"There is a vitality and a sparkling audacity about it, sensible to the reader, but altogether beyond description; it grows more racy, more fascinating and more useful with every issue; as a powerful instructor its presence in the family circle cannot but be a blessing." [Rockland County Journal, Nyack.
"The Editor is one of the most original thinkers of the age." [Gate City, Iowa.
"It has no equal, and is worth ten times its price to any family; caustic, satirical and witty, it is as interesting as a dramatic tale." [Independent, Moline, Ill.
"It is under the control of one of the master minds of the day and carries sound instruction and reformation to every intelligent reader." [Ashland Kentuckian.
"To all who delight in fresh and vigorous thought clothed in sturdy Anglo-Saxon, and abounding with good sense, this journal is an ever welcome guest." [Hingham Journal.
"When people once get a taste of The Scalpel, they are not apt to give it up." [Constitution, Middletown, Conn.
"Dr. Dixon makes his journal one of the most readable ones in the world." Courier, Rondout.

TO THE ENTERPRISING, A GREAT AND PROFITABLE LIFE INVESTMENT.
THE SCALPEL, completely and elegantly stereotyped, with title-pages and indexes, from No. 1, Jan. 1, 1849, is for sale. It is in perfect order, and cost, with advertising ten years, $16,000. Price, $3,500, cash, the Editor continuing to control its pages, and to fill it with original matter. The object is to get clear of the extremely distasteful labor of publishing it, and to extend its circulation. Any enterprising man who understands its nature and adaption to the popular and inquiring mind, can clear its cost the first year. Indeed, from past experience on a limited scale, there is no doubt that by supplying full sets at $5, and properly canvassing the city, the work would return the cost in three months; but this course is entirely inconsistent with the Editor's duties and tastes.
No work ever issued in this country has met with a more enthusiastic and constant support. There have been over twenty-three thousand notices of the press, and it is a very common thing to see entire articles copied from its pages in the most popular journals and newspapers here and in Europe. An elegant and very popular volume of four hundred pages, illustrated by Darley, has been published, and there is matter enough for two more now in its pages. The eight volumes, up to No. XXXI., 1856, can be printed and neatly bound in four large books of 500 pages each for $2. They sell at $6, and are the cheapest books ever published in the United States. The London Times calls it "an inexhaustible mine of amusement, instruction, and genial wit." Whether sold or not, there will be no change in the publication.

PAST OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.
"Every page is marked by talent of a high order; its eight volumes have not exhausted its vitality, nor its audacity of language, nor its boldness of purpose; the scenes in city practice are life-pictures of what is doing beneath many a roof within sight of Broadway. Indeed, the power of vivid portraiture and effective grouping they exhibit might well excite the envy of the romance writer, and has seldom, if ever, been surpassed by any recent fictitious production." [N. Y. Tribune.
The London Times says: "A most fascinating and brilliant affair, in Jonathan's best manner; it commands the attention of every reader."
The London News remarks: "Flashing, spirited and humorous. The Scalpel is as interesting as a novel; it loses none of its raciness."
The London Lancet says: "We have received ten numbers of this glorious journal for the people. We take to ourselves the credit of originating it. Had there been no Lancet in Europe, there would have been no Scalpel in America."
"The wonder is how any man so extensively engaged in medical practice could make so fascinating and instructive a journal." [Home Journal.
"Its editor is well known as a surgeon of great originality, and a writer of power. Every number contains several articles of general interest." [Courier and Enquirer.
"Dr. Dixon's Scalpel is emphatically a journal for the people: entertaining as a novel, thrilling as a tragedy, and sparkling as a diamond, every line glows with genius, and every page is weighty with wholesome morals, rendered palatable by an exquisite style." [Hampshire Gazette, Mass.
Address EDWARD H. DIXON, Box No. 3,121 P. O.
All applicants out of the city can obtain full sets, postage free, of the Editor only, for $6.
City subscribers, apply to SHERMAN & Co., No. 1 Vesey-st., Astor House, and MATHEWS & CLASSBACK, 645 Broadway.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE.
Victoria, majestic Queen,
Remarked unto her daughter:
"Such jewelry was never seen,
As we get o'er the water;
And RANNEY'S store I must commend,
Two ninety-three Broadway,
And gems both rich and rare he'll send,
To grace your wedding-day.
And an Embassador I'll send,
Great in his speech and looks,
To go to RANNEY'S splendid stand,
And purchase many books;
For with them all a present fine,
Is sure to come I read—
And when you thus in jewels shine,
You'll be a Queen indeed!"

LOVE'S ANNUAL MESSAGE TO HIS CONSTITUENTS OF BOTH SEXES.
FEBRUARY, 1858.
Lords of Creation, and you, Ladies,
To whom said Lords are all in bondage,
As selling VALENTINES is a trade is
Of some importance in this fond age,
I nominate, for your election,
STRONG, as my agent, true and trusty,
Whose VALENTINES, a rare selection,
Nothing contain that's old and musty.
Brilliant designs with rhymes delicious,
His vast, unequaled stock disclose,
There's nothing vulgar there, or vicious,
Or in the least degree pernicious.
Yours, truly,
LOVE, AMONG THE ROSES.

THE COSMOPOLITAN ART ASSOCIATION and OAKSMITH & CO.—A CARD.—The differences heretofore existing between the Cosmopolitan Art Association and Oaksmith & Co., Publishers of Emerson's Magazine and Putnam's Monthly, have been satisfactorily arranged, and all heretofore proceedings at law are withdrawn. Oaksmith & Co. will furnish their Magazine for the year to all subscribers whose names were handed in to them by the Association previous to the 16th day of January, ult., while the Association acknowledges and assumes the responsibility of delivering the said Magazine to all other subscribers on their books who have chosen, or may hereafter choose, the monthly named. The Association acknowledges that their allegations regarding the responsibility of Oaksmith & Co. and Emerson's and Putnam's Monthly were entirely unfounded; and Oaksmith & Co. acknowledge the payment in full for nine hundred and five subscribers, as per lists handed in previous to Jan. 16, ult.
In earnest of a mutual good will and understanding, the respective parties authorize the publication of this card.
OAKSMITH & CO.,
Publishers of Emerson's Magazine and Putnam's Monthly.
C. L. DERBY,
Actuary of Cosmopolitan Art Association.
