An Article Worthy the Attention of All.—Among the many necessary articles which are highly essential to the convenience as well as comfort of all persons, we would introduce to their notice TAYLOR'S CELEBRATED AMERICAN BATH AND TOILET SOAP. This Soap, entirely different in its composition from anything else heretofore introduced, combines the benefits of a highly deterative substance, together with a medicinal preparation which has the effect of cleansing and softening the skin, rendering it agreeably smooth and white. When used in the Bath, it is unsurpassed for promoting an agreeable and healthy action to the pores of the skin, removing from them the invisible obstructions so detrimental to an insensible perspiration. Many testimonials in favor of the above article can be given from some of the best families in the city. To be had of grocers and druggists generally.

BRADSTREET'S COMMERCIAL REPORTS,
FOR BANKERS and BUSINESS MEN.

The fourth Semi-annual Volume of this valuable record of credits, which was published on the 15th of January, having been exhausted by a rapid and extensive demand, a second edition of said volume, revised and corrected, has been issued, and is now ready for delivery to such as have not already supplied themselves with the work.

Several hundreds of the best Bankers and Merchants in different cities of the Union have assisted in perfecting this REFERENCE RECORD, thus making it a veracious and reliable compend of the pecuniary condition and prospects and business capacities of about 22,000 MERCANTILE FIRMS, in TWENTY-SIX of the PRINCIPAL CITIES and CENTERS OF TRADE in the United States.

The New-York Merchant or Banker will ascertain by a Key accompanying the Book, the grade of credit, character, habits, and capital of such as will be likely to deal with him, while the out-of-town Merchant will learn with accuracy the exact foundation on which the New-York houses base their business.

To provide for any possible errors that might occur in a work so GIGANTIC IN DETAIL, and to keep purchasers informed of the changes that most necessarily take place, the Proprietors issue a PRINTED SHEET OF CORRECTIONS EVERY WEEK.

The time and trouble such a work must save, the losses it must prevent, and the influence it must have in securing a sound and profitable trade, make it invaluable to Wholesale Merchants, Manufacturers, Note Brokers and Banks of Discount; and yet the whole, including the two Semi-annual Volumes, the Sheet of corrections and the facilities of the Office, are furnished to subscribers at ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS per annum.

Full particulars, not embraced in this advertisement, may be obtained at the Office of the Proprietors and Publishers,

NEW MUSIC.—"Oh Boatman, Haste," a barcarole, by M. W. Balfe, and "Good Night, Beloved," by the same composer—two really good songs, which are already very popular. "Beautiful Cloud." "Happy be Thy Dreams." "The Thoughtless Vow," and "The Three Homes." These are all excellent ballads, by Mr. J. R. Thomas. Though they are in the popular and pleasing style, yet they are musician like, and creditable to the genius of this excellent composer. "The Fairy March," "Kelvin Grove," variations, "Paganini's Andante Amoroso," transcribed for the Piano, and "Twilight," a romance, are all very useful and beautiful works from the pen of Wm. Vincent Wallace. "An imitation of the Banjo," in the form of a polka, by Albert H. Wood. "La Danse des Oiseaux Sylvette," and "La Ronde des Archers," march, by Lefebure Wely. "March de la Reine," by Archer. "The Welcome Light," a transcription of Thomas's beautiful song, "Some One to Love," by F. Brandeis, and "La Forge et Le Roust," caprice de genre, by A. Grosez, are all excellent works, and worthy careful and attentive study.

The above are all from the press of
WM. HALL & SON, No. 543 Broadway.

This firm have deserted their old place of business, corner of Broadway and Park-place, where they have been known for upward of 20 years, and have moved up to a new and more convenient store, between Spring and Prince-sts. The success of the Driggs's Patent Pianos has obliged them to find larger and more convenient warerooms. The new store is very spacious, and is beautifully fitted up.

THE ROMANCE OF THE RING,
AND OTHER POEMS.
By JAMES NACK.
12mo., Cloth, Gilt. $1.

"It is a volume fit to grace every center table or library in the land, and will, we trust, find a home among many appreciative hearts in our midst. The writings of James Nack have a depth and tenderness of expression which will touch the heart of every true admirer of poetry."—[Hartford Courant.

"At a very early period of his life, James Nack had acquired the reputation of the American Chatterton. A leading review of the period pronounced him an intellectual wonder. The loss of his hearing, at nine years of age, placed serious difficulties in his way, such as nothing but unwonted energy and extraordinary genius would ever have overcome. His Memoir by Geo. Westmore, written several years since, was a pleasing tribute to his manly worth as well as poetic excellence. These poems are uniformly excellent, often ingenious and sprightly, and characterized by a remarkable smoothness of versification. Some of them seem to flow like music."—[N. Y. Evangelist.

"Beautiful and wonderful is the poetry of James Nack. His conceptions are fine, and some passages exquisite."—[N. Y. Observer.

"The career of this author has engaged more than usual interest and attention from the circumstances of peculiar difficulty through which he has bravely pressed on to his present post of reputation."—[Churchman.

"The collection of miscellaneous poems contained in this volume is highly creditable to the writer's liveliness of fancy, purity of thought, and facility of versification. Although laboring under the misfortune of a total loss of hearing in early life, he is fully alive to the melodies of nature and the charms of social intercourse. His verse seems to be the natural utterance of his feelings, and is always marked by sincerity and earnestness."—[Tribune.

"The 'Romance of the Ring,' which gives name to the volume is full of stirring lines and fine description. It seems a blending of the weird and mystical beauty of the Germans, and of the stirring romantic incident which inspires the pages of Scott."—[N. Y. Leader.

"So terrible a misfortune with many must have broken the wing of poesy, or at least soured the temper and driven the unfortunate into a worse than melancholy; not so with Mr. Nack. His verse is habitually cheerful, and is characterized by a versification remarkably flowing, easy and musical—an unaffected and felicitous diction, and a depth and tenderness of feeling for which he may be eminently considered the poet of the affections. We cannot too highly commend the elegant style in which the publishers have set out this beautiful volume. It is a worthy ornament, both in its interior and exterior, for the richest parlor in the land."—[Philad. Nat. Defender.

"The versification is but a small part of the merit of these poems. They treat movingly of the domestic affections; they relate stirring incidents in fluent numbers, and sometimes indulge in humorous narrative."—[Evening Post.

"Very tastefully issued is a volume having for title 'The Romance of the Ring and other Poems by James Nack.' Of these, the domestic pieces are the best, showing, in not a few instances, a tenderness of touch and an aspiration after the good and the lovely which warm up one's sympathies toward the author."—[Albion.

"The volume contains, beside the 'Romance of the Ring,' which is a charming story in six parts, a three-act play, entitled the 'Spirit of Vengeance,' highly dramatic in character, and many miscellaneous and domestic poems, admirable in all respects. Some of those addressed to his wife are unequalled in tenderness, delicacy of thought, and true affection, by any in the language; and those to his children are equally to be admired. Of his humorous pieces, perhaps the 'Old Clock' is the best as well as the widest known. Every one has read or heard of it, and the 'Here she goes, and there she goes!' so aptly introduced throughout it, has become a household expression."—[Home Journal.

"James Nack is a true poet, and it is marvelous that his thoughts can thus 'move harmonious numbers' while the very avenue of sound itself is closed for him, and the mind is confined as if in a living sepulchre to an endless silence. But the faculty divine cannot be repressed by the deprivation of any of the senses; and in the case of Mr. Nack, as in that of many other sons of genius it has burst forth notwithstanding all the depressing circumstances in which his possessor was placed. The poems of Mr. Nack are characterized by their purity and elevation of sentiment, and no one can read them without admiration at their excellence, and sympathy for the fate of the poet. The present edition is tastefully got up, and contains a likeness of the author, and a social memoir from the pen of Gen. George P. Morris."—[Daily News.

"We cannot omit to call attention to such poems as the 'Old Clock,' 'The Wet Morning,' 'Booth,' 'My Boy,' &c. The volume does credit to the taste and skill of the enterprising publishers."—[Boston Ledger.

"His love-lyrics and domestic pieces are beautiful. Scarcely any living bard has expressed more melodiously and passionately what makes those heart-quakes which please even while they pain. His shorter lyrics are more worthy of being wedded to immortal music than nine-tenths of the songs in circulation. Mr. Nack's humorous poems are very good; lively, but not coarse. We sincerely recommend his volume as above the usual run of poetry."—[Philadelphia Press.

"Many readers will remember the fugitive verses of James Nack, which for more than a quarter of a century have graced the columns of our best magazines and newspapers. The best of these have been collected together and published in an elegant volume by Delisser & Proctor. Though generally choosing simple and tender themes, Mr. Nack gives us very good specimens of the romantic and humorous. From any man, such a volume as "The Romance of the Ring, and Other Poems," would be creditable. From a writer who has contended with the disadvantages of our author, it is most remarkable."—[Delaware Gazette.

"The volume exhibits a high development of the poetic faculty, a rare tendency of feeling, and, withal, a masculine right-mindedness, which prevents his sensibilities from running to waste or descending to sentimentalism."—[Brooklyn Eagle.

"We are pleased to see this elegant volume, in which a series of really fine poems is gracefully enshrined. James Nack has written enough good poetry to give him a permanent place among American bards. He has keen sensibilities, and infuses a fire and earnestness into his productions which give them a strong grasp on the memory."—[Sailor's Pictorial.

"That Mr. Nack is a man of sense as well as of genius will satisfactorily appear from the little poem which we annex:

'A WOMAN AS SHE SHOULD BE.

'In person decent, and in dress,
Her manners and her words express
The decency of mind;
Good humor brightens up her face,
Where passion never leaves a trace,
Nor frowns a look unkind.

'No vexing sneer, no angry word,
No scandal from her lips is heard,
Where truth and sweetness blend;
Submission to her husband's will,
Her study is to please him still,
His fond and faithful friend.

'She watches his returning way,
When from the troubles of the day
He seeks a home of bliss;
She runs to meet him with a smile,
And if no eye be near the while,
The smile is with a kiss!'

"The publishers have set these gems in a fitting casket, beautiful in all respects."—[Eastern Argus.

SARGENT'S EDITION OF DOWNING'S LANDSCAPE GARDENING.

Extract from Mr. N. P. Willis's review of this work in The Home Journal of March 26, 1859.

"A copy of a most beautiful new edition of Downing's Landscape Gardening is before me, with the duty of love performed to it—a Supplement of near one hundred and fifty pages, added by its Editor, Henry Winthrop Sargent. * * * Intimate with Mr. Downing while living, and possessing this natural sympathy of pursuit, Mr. Sargent was better qualified than any other friend to undertake the careful editing of a new edition.

* * * * * * *

"Nothing could be more timely than the issue of this volume at the present moment. With the rallying of our country's prosperity, the buyers and beginners of rural residences are greatly multiplied, and the wealthy town winterers are returning to their summer villas; and, to all these, the latest new book on the subject of 'Landscape Gardening' is every necessary. Beyond its value as an accumulation of the implied wisdom, however, it is a most ornamental addition to a drawing-room table, in the beautiful typography and splendid illustrations; and, in fact, we can recommend no purchase to the prospective dweller in the country—none which so combines the valuable and tasteful—as this Sargent Edition of Downing. N. P. W."

No. 48 North 4th-st., Philadelphia, Pa.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

"While traversing the hitherto unexplored regions of Central Asia, our author carried his weapons in one hand, and his portfolio and his colors in the other. In this way he produced 560 sketches of the scenery in colors, whose depth and purity of tone have not been surpassed."—[Rochester Times.

"This is a reprint of the English edition of the work, unabridged, with all the illustrations admirably executed, in a form placing it within the reach of many readers who might not afford to purchase the English edition of the work."—[Christian Observer, Philadelphia.

"Notwithstanding its low price, it is well got up and embellished with numerous illustrations, making a neat 12mo volume of near 500 pages, with a full index."—[New-York Evangelist.

"The pictorial illustrations are numerous and graphic, and add greatly to the value of the work."—[New-Yorker.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

"The volume contains an account of the journeyings, discoveries, and adventures of one of the most enterprising travelers of the age, condensed from his extended narrative, recently published in three large octavo volumes. The work is intended for many who feel a deep interest in Dr. Barth's great expedition, who would know whatever is worth knowing in respect to the condition, the civilization and prospect of men in Africa, but who have neither time nor money to procure and read the scientific, minute and bulky volumes from which the present has been abridged. The work is well printed and illustrated."—[Christian Observer, Philadelphia.

"The English edition of Barth's travels fill five octavo volumes, and the cost is between $25 and $30. The American book condenses the essential portion of the journal, omitting such details as are only useful for scientific inquirers. It is a volume worth having."—Richmond (Va.) Dispatch.

"Here we have the entire subject-matter issued in a single volume, with maps and illustrations, and at a very low price, while from the deep interest of its pages, we predict that it will command what booksellers rejoice to call a "run." The book is also enriched with notes from the expeditions of Richardson, Denham & Clapperton."—Pennsylvania Inquirer, Phila.

"It is got up in Mr. Bradley's usual style of excellence and beauty. It is pleasant to look at, to handle and to read."—[Columbia (Pa.) Democrat.

"We commend the volume to all who desire a perfect combination of instructive and interesting reading. Beside the contents, the typographical appearance of the work is alike creditable and attractive."—[School Journal, Philadelphia.

WE PUBLISH THIS DAY.
THE LIFE OF
FREDERICK WILLIAM VON STEUBEN,
Major-General in the Army of the Revolution.
By FRIEDRICH KAPP. With an Introduction by GEORGE BANCROFT.
Crown 8vo. 715 pages. Price, cloth, $1 75; half calf, $3.

"The life of Steuben is one of the most interesting and eventful of the many brilliant and stirring scenes of the eighteenth century.

"Sprung from an old, noble, and military family of Prussia, as a child he accompanied his father in his campaign in the Crimea, and during his sojourn in Russia; as a boy he was present at the siege of Prague; and, as a youth, he entered the service of Frederick the Great, the greatest commander of the age, and fought with distinction in the bloodiest engagements of the Seven Years' War. Taken prisoner by the Russians, he spent some time at the Court of St. Petersburg, and when set at liberty by Peter III., he remained, until the end of the war, attached to the personal staff of the great King. The calm which succeeded the stormy events of his youth was not destined to be everlasting. As soon as prospects of fame and active exertions were opened to him at Versailles, he threw up his agreeable but inactive appointment at home, and hastened to America, to devote his military knowledge and experience to the conquest of American liberty, and to find under George Washington for the independence of the United States. His efforts were crowned with success, and, after the termination of the war, Steuben finally retired into private life, to end a career devoted to the public good, in honorable but unassuming poverty, in a rough log house in the back woods.

"Prague and Kunersdorf, Petersburg and Berlin, Versailles and Philadelphia, Yorktown and New York, are the landmarks of his existence, which, however checkered and beset with difficulties, has left brilliant traces behind it, and justly deserves to be added to the records of American history, so that from a military example, the student may learn what efforts and sacrifices were necessary to found and protect the state of things, in the enjoyment of which the American nation lives happily and undisturbed."—[Life of Steuben, p. 38.

"The memory of Steuben has many claims upon the present generation. To the cause of our country in the times of its distress, he, at the sacrifice of a secure career, devoted the experience and skill which had been the fruit of long years of service under the greatest master of the art of war of that day. He rendered the inestimable benefit of introducing a better rule into the discipline of the American army, and stricter accountability in the distribution of military stores. He served under our flag with implicit fidelity, with indefatigable industry, and a courage that shrunk from no danger. His presence was important both in the camp and on the field of battle; from the huts of Valley Forge to Yorktown; and he remained with us till his death."—[Introduction by the Hon. Geo. Bancroft.

In a letter to the author, Mr. Bancroft writes: "I have read your Life of Steuben with admiration and instruction. * * * Your book must succeed, for it is thoroughly well done, and is deeply interesting, and a most valuable and now necessary contribution to the history of our Revolution."
