the most favorable circumstances; and as a result, in combination with the probable home causes, we expect higher rates for what is called money in our commercial centers."

UNITED STATES 5 PER CENT COUPON BONDS of 1874—UNITED STATES TREASURY NOTES 6 PER CENTS—NEW-YORK STATE 5 PER CENT REGISTERED STOCK of 1875—for sale in amounts to suit for investment or banking purposes, by THOMPSON BROTHERS, No. 2 Wall st.

N. Y. Wholesale Prices of Country Produce.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29, 1859.
[Reported exclusively for THE N. Y. TRIBUNE, by DREW & FRENCH.]

NOTICE TO CONSIGNERS OF FARM PRODUCE.—Put up everything in neat order. Mark plain, indelible directions on every package, including weight, with tare, count, and name of articles. Also tack a bill of particulars inside of one package, marked "Bill," and always send one by mail, with notice when and how things are forwarded.

COMMISSIONS.—For selling Berries, Fruits, &c., where packages are returned, and on small lots of stuff, 10 ⅌ cent. Other Farm Produce generally, 5 ⅌ cent.

QUOTATIONS are for sales of good Produce, in good order, at wholesale, such as Farmers realize, and not Jobbers' or Speculators' prices.

BUTTER—The Butter trade continues without animation, and with much irregularity in prices; this is particularly true of Western, and the lower grades of State Butter. Orange County is now down to 18@20c. The weather is intensely hot, so that Butter cannot arrive from the West, or from the interior of this State, in good order, unless ope fully protected with ice.

The general retail stock in market appears to be much smaller than a year ago, and the supply of choice State, in firkins, is exceedingly light; but the demand for this sort is equally light, so that it is deemed a difficult operation to either buy or sell a hundred packages of this style.

We have noticed some peculiar features in the Western Butter trade during the last year, which we mention for the benefit of those interested. The great bulk of this trade, particularly from the Western Reserve, has been for a long time consigned to a few old staunch houses, who have momentarily cooperated to sustain satisfactory prices—the point of compet then between them being to make large returns to their consigners—and to this end liberal advances were made and continued through long periods, and the views of consigners had a controlling influence in the management of the trade.

Last season there was an active though, as the result showed, not a judicious and prudent demand for Western Butter for shipment to California. Some shippers, with more ambition than sound judgment or substantial credit, bought largely of Western Butter, at very high prices from houses whose ambition to do a large business and make their mark in the Western trade, induced them to take risks, which were generally avoided by the sound and prudent portion of the trade. These high rates had the effect to stimulate speculation at corresponding figures in the country, and, further, to constrain the large receivers here who avoided the doubtful California operators, to hold their large stocks pretty firmly on account of the wide disparity of sales likely to be returned to the country. In spite of their best efforts and of the large shipping demand, large stocks accumulated and were eventually sold at very losing rates. The California bubble, as well as the general inflation of prices which occurred here last Winter, finally burst, bringing ruin to many, and severe loss to many more. The unusual number of failures in this line of trade would naturally induce greater caution on the part of shippers, and restrict their ventures, to parties who use responsibility was of the first order. It seems, however, that Western men have adopted the plan this season of putting their "eggs in a great many different baskets," probably not so much to distribute the risk of breakage, as with the hope of obtaining higher rates through this wide distribution of their property. They should, however, consider the danger of extremes in all things, and one effect of the present state of things is to induce an active competition to sell among a great many small concerns, some of whom are no doubt compelled to realize on consignment, to meet maturing paper. Buyers are quite well aware of this state of things, and do not fail to profit thereby. We have from time to time stated the present and prospective characteristics of the season, and our current quotations have been strikingly lower than some of our contemporaries. We think, however, we have not underrated the market. Well-founded confidence is the soul of trade; and consigners owe an important duty not only to themselves, but to the general interests of commerce, in the matter of judiciously placing these important interests of property. We quote:

HOPS—The market continues without material alteration; a moderate local inquiry prevails at 10@14c., for good first quality, 15@18c.; in some instances a very choice lot will command a rather higher price, say 18c., but we think the above is fair quotation for our friends in the interior to calculate upon. During the past week or two dealers here have been in receipt of advices from the country, reporting damages to the crop from frost, high easterly winds, &c., but it is too early to form an opinion as to how far the injury will extend. These we'l experienced say that at the season of harvesting is time enough to commence calculating the amount of the yield. The foreign news received for the past two or three months has been of an encouraging nature to holders; prices at London and other English markets have rapidly advanced, caused by a demand from Germany, where it is well known the crop last year was seriously damaged; but it must not be forgotten that during the month of December we imported English hops, though not to any great amount, and they paid a fair profit. This demand from Germany will prevent this happening now, as prices at London will run with those here, or are comparatively the same, and will have to advance considerably to leave a margin to enable us to export. Our crop last year was not equal to the home consumption, and will not probably, if the unscaffl well, amount to more than what we want this season. Old are without movement. The bulk of the stock is still held by speculators, who are not offering.

IRON—The market is quite dull, but prices are unchanged; sales of some 300 tons Scotch Pig have been effected at ⅌ 23 50@ ⅌ 24, 6 mos. Other descriptions sellslowly, as wanted, at former rates. We quote:

WOOL—Our market continues quiet, yet prices are well sustained, to the great chagrin of a portion of the trade, who are straining every nerve to depress the market, and quoting sales fully 5c. lower than any good selection can be obtained in any Wool-growing districts; but this mode of transacting business will in due course of time have a telling effect on those who falsify facts. The clipping season is now well nigh over, and the result is nearly one third of the crop in the Western States has been bought chiefly on manufacturing account, at an advance of fully 5c. ⅌ lb on last year's prices. Dealers and speculators generally are so purchased lightly, and this is well for the manufacturers if goods—it would indeed be a blessing to them often if there were no "middle men" to come between them and Wool-growers, but the great want of credit on their part, heretofore, has been so seriously felt that, without the assurance of the "middle men," it would be difficult for them to keep their looms in active motion. But those who now run the majority of our mills were not the consumers of them, and they probably bought very many of them under the auctioneer's hammer, at 50 cents on the dollar, or less; consequently they possess greater means than their predecessors, and therefore they or their agents now seek out the Wool-growers, and are the principal purchasers of the clip, at the highest prices, too. Indeed, the majority of them are always willing to pay the farmers at all times a proper remuneration for their Wool. Let not our interior friends, therefore, be led astray by most of the reports emanating from here. In Florence there is nothing of moment transpiring, and the few small sales making are mostly of inferior description, which are no real guide to the market; the transactions in the week 30,000 ⅌ common to full-blood Fleece at 36@37c., 1,000 ⅌ Canadian at 25@26c.; 200 bales California at 60@62c., 50 do. at 27@22c. for fine; 25,000 ⅌ Pulled at 36@40c., 30 bales Cape at 34c.; and 400 do. do. in Boston at 30c., cash, time and interest. Before closing, however, it may not be amiss to warn our farming friends against exalted prices. It seems, according to our correspondence, that very many have their prices on the extraordinary sales quoted in our last weekly issue made at 70c. Washington County, Pennsylvania. But they forget that these Wools excel in quality anything probably grown this year in the United States. Anything over 55@60c. is too high a price to be paid in the country even for the finest lots of lock quantity, and none, we believe, has paid such high rates but a prominent Eastern Wool manufacturing concern and the Philadelphia houses.
