TESTIMONIALS.
NEW YORK, April 29, 1860.
Prof. W. S. HUTCHINGS—
Dear Sir: The modes by which you perform your brilliant and wonderful mathematical operations, seem to me, on explanation, to be of really practical value to book-keepers and others, having much reckoning to do. Respectfully, GEO. BARTLETT.
OFFICE OF THE "SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN," NEW YORK, April 29, 1860.
I have examined somewhat into the mathematical calculations as shown to me by Mr. Hutchings, and I concur in the opinion expressed by Mr. Bartlett. S. H. WALES.
I concur in the above. O. D. MUNN. Scientific American Office.
From the New York Tribune. * * * "He will take three or four columns of figures, and more quickly than an ordinary person can read them on instantaneously, give the sum in addition without fail. The whole is quick as a flash. * * * This is a scientific process, which he can impart. It will be of immense advantage in trade, commerce, and science, and revolutionize the tedious mode of addition throughout the world."
From The N. Y. Evening Post. * * * "The process of adding five columns of ten figures was as near instantaneous as anything could be."
From Frank Leslie. * * * "His performances are as wonderful in their way as Blondin and Louis Napoleon in theirs."
From Life Illustrated. * * * "Never, in the whole course of our experience, have we witnessed a more remarkable, marvelous, and interesting operation."
Professor Hutchings has hundreds of other testimonials from colleges and commercial men, as well as the highest encomiums from the public press.
