A MAGNIFICENT MOORISH ROMANCE!
BY
SYLVANUS COBB, JR.
In THE NEW-YORK LEDGER which will be issued on MONDAY next, July 2, there will be commenced a Story by SYLVANUS COBB, JR., entitled
LEON DE BOURNAY;
OR,
THE CONSPIRATOR OF CORDOVA.

The scene of this Tale is laid in the ancient City of Cordova, at the time the Moorish power was at its height in Spain. The hero, LEON DE BOURNAY, is a Norman Knight of unequaled courage, prowess, and accomplishments; and the heroine is LULAH, the lovely daughter of the Chief Officer of the Moorish Monarch.
The wild spirit of adventure and daring which characterized the times, the pomp and magnificence of the Moorish Court, the unquenchable hatred between the Christian and Mahometan races, the terrible contests with fierce robbers of the Moreas, the romantic chivalry of the age, and the inevitable dilemmas of a Christian Knight and Moorish maiden who loved each other in that superstitious era, are all used by Mr. COBB with a master's hand, in weaving a story of unequaled power and thrilling interest.

Five years have elapsed since the people of the United States were made aware of the fact that certain English Engineers had planned a steamship which should be five times as large as any American steamship afloat, which should steam on the ocean twice as fast as the VANDERBILT, the ADRIATIC, or the NIAGARA. Ever since then, from time to time, our newspapers have recorded the slow but steady progress of the great enterprise. The interest awakened by the novelty of the system, and the difficulties which have beset it at every stage, have counterbalanced the weariness engendered by constant delays. It may be safely said, that in no part of the WORLD has the experiment been watched with more concern and pleasure, than in the United States.
HARPER'S GREAT EASTERN PICTORIAL contains a full and elaborate report of the building of this great steamship from the commencement; a complete account of her machinery, her spacious and magnificent cabins, &c. A plate of the plan, showing the arrangement of her machinery, passenger accommodations, and the upper deck of this great steamship. THE BEST RAILROAD GUIDE
IN THE WORLD
Will be issued immediately.
LLOYD'S AMERICAN WEEKLY
Will be issued
EVERY SATURDAY MORNING,
At the low price of 6 cents per copy.
The Time Tables will be corrected up to the hour of going to press, and we will guarantee to pay any man's expenses who may be left by following our Time Tables. The roads far distant from New-York will send us their time tables by telegraph, at our expense, so that roads at New-Orleans or Chicago, changing their time of starting on Friday, will send changes by telegraph to us, and be corrected in time for our paper Saturday morning, and offered for sale at the West and South on the Monday following. LLOYD'S WEEKLY will be one-fifth larger than The New-York Herald. On the inside of the paper is a large Railroad Map of the entire country, each station marked plainly, and the distance between each station. Every railroad is named distinctly and numbered, which number is duplicated on the outside of the paper, where the traveler can see the running time of each road correctly given. Railroads in progress will be represented on the map as far as finished each week. It is a well-known fact to railroad men that there never was a Monthly Guide correct in a single instance; but with LLOYD'S WEEKLY we will guarantee to keep the Time Tables correct invariably, and to sell at Six Cents per copy. It will go to press every Saturday morning, printed and shipped to all parts of the United States in eight hours afterward, and any child can understand it.
