THE BROADWAY RAILROAD.

Injunctions on the Mayor and Railroad Company—Operations on the Road Begun—George Law also Breaks Ground.

The work on the Broadway Railroad, which was commenced on Thursday by the Harlem Railroad Company, within an hour or so after the Mayor had signed the ordinance adopted by both branches of the Common Council, received a sudden check about 7 o'clock on the evening of that day, in the shape of an injunction granted by Judge Barbour, upon the application of Jesse A. Marshall and James Murphy of the Consolidated Stage Company. During Thursday afternoon the Railroad Company had employed three gangs of men, about two hundred altogether—one opposite Union square and Fifteenth street, another between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, and a third in Whitehall street near the Battery. The pavement for twenty or thirty feet at each of these places was taken up a sufficient width for the reception of the sleepers upon which the track is laid, and arrangements had been made by Mr. Burchill, the Superintendent of the road, and other officers of the Company to push the work forward night and day until completed. At the time mentioned the laborers were hard at work, despite the cold northeast storm that prevailed, when the following injunction was served upon the Superintendent:

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.—The New-York Consolidated Stage Company agt. the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the City of New-York, and the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company.—It appears from the complaint in this action, and from the affidavit of Jesse A. Marshall and James Murphy, that sufficient grounds exist therefor, I do hereby order that the defendants, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the City of New-York, and all persons acting under them, and each of them, do refrain and desist from giving and granting unto the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company, mentioned and referred to in the said complaint, the right to lay or construct a railroad track or tracks on any part thereof, in the streets or avenues, or any or either of them in the City of New-York, or from authorizing in any way or manner the said New-York and Harlem Railroad Company to lay a double track or railway in the Fourth avenue, Union square, Broadway, Fulton street and Whitehall street, or in any or either of them; or any railway or railroad track whatever in said streets or either of them, or from breaking and removing the pavement thereof, or from in any manner obstructing the said streets preparatory to, or for the purpose of laying or establishing any railroad track or railway therein.

And I do further order that the said defendants, the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company, their attorney or attorneys, agents, employees, workmen, and servants, or either or any of them, he and they hereby are enjoined and restrained from laying or constructing any railroad track or tracks in the said Fourth avenue, Union square, Broadway, Whitehall, and Fulton streets, or in any or either of the streets mentioned and referred to in the resolution or ordinance mentioned in the complaint herein, or in any part or parts of the said streets, or in any or either of them, preparatory to or for the purpose of establishing any railroad track or tracks or railway therein, or from in any manner disturbing or interfering with the carriage way of said streets or interrupting the travel thereon.—Dated New-York, April 23, 1863.

JOHN N. BARBOUR,
Justice of the City of New-York.

The Superintendent at once ordered the men to knock off work, which they willingly did, as the rain was then falling quite heavily. Later in the evening another gang of men were set at work on the line of the road by George Law and the other Albany railroad schemers, the object being to obtain the right of way by laying a temporary track in anticipation of the Broadway Railroad bill passing the Legislature. The points selected were the junction of Fourteenth street and Broadway, about ten feet or more below the point where the Harlem Company had commenced laying their track, and the Battery above where the Company had been at work. The tracks thus laid by Law & Co. consisted of detached rails temporarily fastened in the pavement, which was torn up for the purpose, no sleepers being used. This act on the part of George Law and others in forcibly taking possession of a public thoroughfare, displacing the pavement and laying a railroad track, was the subject of considerable discussion yesterday at the City Hall and about the city, everybody agreeing that there was no law for so doing, except George Law. Should Mr. Law persist in thus occupying the street, the Common Council will take the matter in hand and direct the Street Commissioner to remove the track that he has laid and commence a suit against him for damages.

Yesterday morning an order similar to the above was served upon the Mayor. Upon inquiry our reporter learned that this order was most accommodatingly granted by Judge Barbour at his residence, upon the application of the grantees mentioned in the Broadway Railroad bill, which has for so many weeks occupied the attention of the Legislature. As will be seen, it is altogether an ex parte affair, and as none of the papers upon which the order was granted had, up to 3 o'clock yesterday p. m., been filed in the Court, the presumption is that they are filed in Judge Barbour's coat pockets. Not having access to those archives we obtained the loan of one of the copies served upon the Railroad Company. The document gives evidence of legal acumen, and shows that the whole matter had been pretty well "cut and dried." It is printed on blue quarto and in large type, each copy bearing the signature, "John M. Barbour, Justice of the City of New-York." The Railroad Company have placed the matter in the hands of their legal advisers, who will, we understand, make an application at the earliest moment for the dissolution of the injunction. They contend that they have a perfect right to the way as granted by the Common Council, and that they cannot be hindered.

Their charter, granted in 1832 by the Legislature of the State, empowers them to lay a track or railway through Fourth avenue to Fourteenth street, and through any other street in the city, with the consent of the Common Council of the City of New-York. They have already a large quantity of material—sleepers and rails—ready, and will have provided sufficient for the entire line as soon as the injunction is dissolved. The speculators interested in the Legislative railroad scheme are furious at being outwitted by the Common Council, and have expressed a determination to contest the matter to the end. The injunction was served on Mr. Allen Campbell, President of the Harlem Railroad Company; J. C. Buckhout, the engineer of the road, and other officers, on Thursday evening by Deputy Sheriff Ray, and yesterday morning on the Mayor, Deputy Street Commissioner Tweed, and the officers of the Croton Aqueduct Board. We append the reasons given by the Mayor for signing the Harlem grant passed by the Common Council:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, New-York, April 23, 1863.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: I have approved the "Resolutions permitting the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company to extend their railroad through certain streets of the City of New-York."

A sense of duty to the public has constrained me to do this, notwithstanding my well-known objections to a Broadway Railroad; and justice to myself requires that I should state briefly and frankly the considerations that have controlled my action in the matter.

There is a similar bill now before the Legislature, with a strong probability of passage, in which the interests of the city are utterly disregarded. That bill makes no provision for revenue to the city, provides for no compensation to the property holders, makes no provision for keeping the streets in repair, does not stipulate as to the character of the rails to be used, nor does it subject the grantees to the laws governing corporations. In all these respects, except as to compensation to the property holders, and even as to that partially, your resolutions make careful and liberal provision.

They stipulate that 10 per cent of the gross receipts of the road shall be paid into the City Treasury; that the Company shall keep the street pavement from curb to curb in good repair; stipulate for the most approved rails, to be submitted to the Mayor for approval, and place the whole in the hands of an old and responsible incorporated company.

Between these two grants there can be no hesitation in making a choice. The latter will afford a large annual revenue to the city, amounting, in the long series of years during which it may be expected to be used, to many millions of dollars, and to that extent diminishing the taxation of our citizens, and at the same time relieving the city and property owners on the route from the expense of repairing and periodically repaving the streets. No grant for any other of the railroads authorized to be constructed in our streets has approached this one in the liberality with which it provides for the interests of the city.

The question of the constitutionality of the act of the Legislature, under which the permission in this case is given, is not involved in your resolutions, since your action is merely permission or consummatory of the grant given in that act. If the constitutional rights of the property owners shall be adjudged to be infringed by that grant, the Courts will not fail to protect them. The case of the Seventh Avenue Railroad, involving this very question, has just been argued before the Court of Appeals. The decision will soon be given, and must be conclusive in this case.

If it shall be adverse to the right of the Legislature or the corporate authorities, or of both, to make these grants, then this and all similar ones will be in effect declared void, and thenceforth become inoperative.

If the Court, however, shall decide otherwise, the city and the property owners will have the very valuable advantages secured by your resolutions, instead of being burdened with a railroad grant such as that which is sought to be forced upon us through the Legislature, and which is solely in the interest of a few favored individuals, without any compensating advantages to the city or to the owners of property.

GEORGE OPDYKE, Mayor.

BEAUTIFUL VILLA SITES and BUILDING LOTS at Auction in FORDHAM VILLAGE, Westchester County, New-York.

A. J. BLEECKER SON & Co., will SELL at AUCTION on THURSDAY, 30th April, at 12 o'clock, at the REAL ESTATE SALES-ROOM, No. 111 Broadway, Trinity Building, 74 lots of GROUND, finely situated, at Fordham Village, Westchester County, adjoining the lands of Mr. Peter Briggs, and Mr. Peter Bussing, on Franklin, Grove, College and Willow avenues. The soil is very fine, free from rock, and level with the grade. The whole tract contains between 5 and 6 acres; is bounded on the easterly side by a stream of water half a minute's walk from the Harlem and New-Haven Railroads. It is situated about half a mile north of the depot, a short distance from St. John's College. The attractions of this property are numerous; the natural beauty of the locality; its great salubrity; its nearness and easy access to the city; and the advantages as a residence to those who desire to be near the celebrated College for educational purposes. In any point of view it is one of the most convenient and desirable spots for improvement in the vicinity of New-York. It will be sold in plots of 4 or 8 lots, with larger privileges. The title is indisputable. Immediate possession can be had. A map of the premises may be seen at the office of the Auctioneer, No. 77 Cedar-st., adjoining the Bank of Commerce.

N. B.—A bill has just passed the Legislature, and is now a law, granting a charter for the Westchester County Railroad from Harlem Bridge through Morrisania, Fordham, Williams Bridge to Mount Vernon, to be completed at once, and to be used for Dummy Engines. This road will run close to the above property.
