The Charges against Gen. Milroy and His Wife.

To the Editor of The N. Y. Tribune.

SIR: I notice with regret that the papers of the North are industriously circulating the charges preferred against General Milroy and his wife by the Richmond papers, and I find that these statements have been used by the Copperhead press of the country in such a way as to induce many persons to believe that there is some foundation for the charges the Rebel press has preferred against Mrs. Milroy.

To those acquainted with Gen. Milroy and his wife, it would be unnecessary to say a word in reply to these charges; but as there are many who have been misled, and as it is impossible that the facts in the case could be placed before the country through the regular channel of a Court of Inquiry at least for some time, I have thought it proper, and due to the General and his wife, that the real facts connected with his course at Winchester should be made known. And the necessity for this will be more apparent when we reflect that certain papers in the country are ever ready to seize upon any pretext for assailing the character of any general or loyal man who is heart and soul devoted to the work of suppressing the Rebellion.

In speaking of his course at Winchester, I refer more particularly to that pursued in his treatment of citizens who insulted his troops.

When Winchester was first occupied by our forces, the females of that town were in the habit of offering every conceivable indignity to our men, calling them vandals, hirelings, Hessians, Lincoln pups, &c., and sometimes going so far as to spit on them. Gen. Milroy regarded it as his duty to protect his men from insult, and to punish those who causelessly abused his soldiers. The females of Winchester regarding it as their special prerogative to abuse Lincoln's soldiers whenever and wherever they pleased, began, as they had done before, to insult our men as they passed along the streets. The result was that several of them were sent beyond the lines, and among others Mrs. Logan and her daughters. The daughters are very handsome, exceedingly independent, and marvelously Secesh in their proclivities; and frequently felt called upon to inform our soldiers of the esteem in which they held Yankees. They were in the habit (such is the evidence) of calling our soldiers vandals, Lincoln hirelings, &c., &c. Complaint was made by the troops, and the General finally decided that the family should join their husband and father, who was in Richmond. They were sent beyond the lines. Whether this was proper or not I will not decide. I can only say that our successful Generals have all dealt with this class of offenders in the same way.

Gen. Milroy only required that the Rebel citizens should conduct themselves in a peaceable, law-abiding manner; in which case their rights would be respected and protected.

The ladies not being used to such restriction, but on the contrary having been accustomed, in many instances, to fessting the officers to gain favor while they insulted and abused the common soldiers, were very indignant. The chivalry became furious because their wives and daughters were not permitted to insult with impunity the Yankee vandals who paraded the streets. The Richmond papers contained numerous complaints that the female part of Rebeldom in Winchester was compelled to conduct themselves in a decent and ladylike manner, or go across the lines. It was this course of the General that called down upon his head the anathemas of so many correspondents of the Richmond press.

Mrs. Milroy is charged in those papers with having appropriated jewelry and wearing apparel, said to have been taken from the Logan family above referred to. To show how utterly unfounded and infamously false these charges are, I desire to submit the following facts, the truth of which can be established by officers and men who assisted in removing the Logans, and not only by these, but by some of the most bitter and, at the same time, most respectable Rebels in Winchester: At the time the order for the removal of the Logan family was issued, I was acting for Mark L. D'Motte, A. Q. M. of the Division, and hence was called upon to furnish transportation for their baggage.

I immediately called upon Mrs. Logan to ascertain what amount of baggage she would have to move. She told me she did not know what articles she would be permitted to take, adding that a man acting, as he said, by the authority of the General, had refused to permit her to take some goods that she had purchased a few days previous. I found the person to whom she referred, and told him that he had certainly misunderstood the general order, or had gone beyond his authority, if indeed he had any, which I very much doubted. I called upon the General and told him that one Bowers was presuming to act upon authority from him, and had refused to permit Mrs. Logan to remove the goods above referred to. The General's reply was, put him in the guard-house—he has no authority from me. I desire that Mrs. Logan be permitted to remove everything except the furniture and carpet; this I think should be turned over to the Treasury Agent, but let Mrs. Logan take everything necessary to make herself and family comfortable, wherever they may go beyond the lines—use your judgment in this matter, and provide transportation for whatever they take. I told the General that Mrs. Logan complained of being ill. He replied, that if she was too unwell to go beyond our lines, she would be permitted to remain in Winchester. "I do not desire," said he, "that Mrs. Logan, or any one of her family should suffer, but I desire to have it distinctly understood that Rebel citizens, both male and female, shall conduct themselves in a proper manner, and they shall not with impunity insult my troops." I then went back to Mrs. Logan's and informed her that I had been instructed to furnish transportation for all articles she desired to move, except the furniture and carpet. I sent down to our warehouse and procured boxes for her, and then in conjunction with a Lieutenant of the 110th Ohio Volunteers, and a few of his men, assisted the family in packing up, and at this we were busily engaged from morning until late in the afternoon. You can form some idea of the goods we packed up.

Every one who was at the house knows perfectly well that no articles of wearing apparel were left in the house—they took away everything, even bird cages, checker boards, &c. While we were packing up the goods, I said, "Miss Logan, won't you will me this checker board?" "Oh no, she replied, I expect to have many a game of checkers on that board, and will take it along if there is room." I told her there would be plenty of room, and that I would provide more boxes if they needed them. "We do not need any more boxes," she said, "unless you let us take away the carpets." I replied, "that under existing orders this could not be permitted." As to their leaving jewelry, it is as any candid person will see, perfectly absurd, when at the same time they removed checker boards, bird cages and poodle dogs.

I was instructed by Gen. Milroy to take a careful invoice of all the property left in and about the house. This I did, assisted by Sergt. Blair of Philadelphia, and the only articles of wearing apparel we found (and we searched carefully) were four Summer vests, and these were in the attic, and are mentioned in the invoice.

I can establish the fact beyond all question, and that by Rebel citizens, that the Logan family left nothing behind save the carpets and furniture. Then how infamous to charge Mrs. Milroy with appropriating to her own use the clothing and jewelry belonging to the Misses and Mrs. Logan.

Mrs. Logan did leave her silverware, which I took possession of, putting it in our safe, after carefully inventoring it, a copy of which invoice, together with an inventory of the other articles in the house, was furnished the Treasury Agent, and is on file in the proper department at Washington.

I desire to add, in this connection, that the house or property of no other family was interfered with during our occupancy of Winchester; and hence the base charges against Mrs. Milroy and her daughter—who, by the way, is a mere child, ten years old—originated in the removal of the Logans, and the subsequent occupancy of the house by the General for his headquarters.

Those who are acquainted with Mrs. Milroy know her to be a pure minded woman, and a devout Christian, and wholly incapable of the conduct wherewith she stands accused by a lying Rebel press.

And if she was not the Christian woman she is known to be, but has been enough to take that which did not belong to her, you see plainly that it would have been utterly impossible, on account of the facts stated above, for her to have been guilty as charged in the Rebel papers.

The Rebel papers had the same authority for charging Mrs. Milroy with dishonesty that they had for stating that she was abandoned by her husband and captured by the Rebels, and there is about the same amount of truth in the two statements.

Mrs. Milroy left the General, and returned to her home in April—the last—and was, at the time of the evacuation of Winchester, in Indiana—more than a thousand miles from her husband. As to Gen. Milroy's precipitate flight from Winchester, I have noticed that slander in The Baltimore American of the 6th or 7th, and would beg to refer you to that paper. I need only say on this score that Gen. Milroy left the fortifications with his men; fought with them, leaving three charges himself—in one of which his horse was killed under him—and reached Harper's Ferry with them.

Great injustice has been done Gen. Milroy and his wife by the press, unintentionally in most cases, no doubt. But editors should remember, before giving publicity to such charges as appeared in the Rebel papers, that the Rebels hate Gen. Milroy on account of his rigid discipline among them, and their articles at best are but slightly flavored with truth—and in the present instance they omitted that important ingredient altogether.

I think it just that the papers that have—however unintentionally—injured Gen. Milroy and his family by giving publicity to the outrageous charges referred to above, should endeavor to correct any wrong impression that may have been created, by publishing a statement of the facts.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
BENJAMIN BUTTERWORTH,
Late of Quartermaster's Dept., 2d Div., 8th Vt.

THE CITY INSPECTOR'S DEPARTMENT.—We would call the particular attention of the residents and occupants of Broadway to the notice from City Inspector Beale, published in another column of THE TRIBUNE, setting forth that the almost universal custom of sweeping out the stores on this thoroughfare in the morning is a great hindrance to the perfect cleaning of the street and keeping it free from dust, and requesting that, instead, they cause their stores to be swept at night. Mr. Beale contends that by the sweeping out of the stores in the morning the dust is carried along the line of the walks and blown by every gust of wind into the faces of pedestrians, and dusty setting in the streets gives them an unclean appearance, whereas if swept at night, and the dust thrown into the gutter, the sweepers will gather it up in their nightly rounds. This is a change easily made, and it is to be hoped that our Broadway merchants will cordially co-operate with the City Inspector in effecting it. Mr. Beale, since entering upon the duties of his office, discovered that one great obstacle to success in keeping the city in a cleanly condition was occasioned by the almost invariable habit on the part of persons occupying tenement buildings of throwing into the street their ashes and garbage, even after the streets had just been cleaned, alleging as an excuse for the necessity of this practice that the owners of said property had neglected or refused to furnish them with boxes for the reception of their refuse matter. For the purpose of remedying this evil, the City Inspector has submitted an ordinance for adoption by the Common Council, compelling owners of tenement houses to furnish garbage boxes for the use of their tenants, and in case of neglect or refusal they shall be liable to a fine of $25 for each offense. The occupants of tenements will be held liable to a fine of $5 for each offense in neglecting to throw their ashes and garbage into the box, and a further fine of $25 will be inflicted upon any person "who may break, injure in any manner, or interfere with or disturb any garbage box or receptacle placed in front of any premises in pursuance of this ordinance." During the past week a newly invented disinfecting powder has been used very successfully throughout the city. Further experiments are to be made. We learn that by recent regulations adopted in this department the Inspector of each ward is held responsible for the clean condition of his district, and is held to a strict accountability for the neglect or non-performance of his duty. The streets are to be swept one day, and in twenty-four hours thereafter another gang is to be put on with hoe, and broom, and hose, to thoroughly cleanse the gutters. On Tuesday City Inspector Beale visited all the wards, and between the hours of 7 a. m. and 2 p. m. paid off every man employed upon the streets. The amount required reached $17,000.

FLOUR AND MEAL—The market for Western and State Flour is dull, and prices are 5@10c. ⅌ bbl. lower; the decline is not severe on all brands; Trade and Family brands are firmer and lower. We notice the arrival of the first sample of new Flour from St. Louis, sent to Samuel C. Farrar's Son & Co. This Flour is known by the name of "San Inez" brand, and is considered superior to any brand offered in the market; sales 600 bbls., to arrive, on private terms. The sales are 11,000 bbls. at $4 10@$4 45 for Superfine State and Western; $4 20@$5 15 for extra State; $5 20@$5 40 for Fancy do; $4 55@$5 20 for the low grades of Western extra; $5 50@$5 70 for Shipping Ohio; $5 75@$6 85 for Trade brands, and $5 75@$6 50 for St. Louis Extras. Mackerel are firm, and in fair demand; sales of 1,000 at $7 50@$7 75 for large No. 2 Massachusetts, and $5 50@$5 75 for medium No. 3 do., mostly at the lower rates, and small sales of new No. 2 at $10 50@$10 75; small No. 1 sell slowly at $11@$11 75. Smoked are in good supply, but a great portion are small and inferior, and selling at prices much below the value of good merchantable, which we quote firm at 38c. for Scaled, and 32c. for No. 1; yet some 10,000 boxes have been disposed of at 28c. for No. 1, and 32@35c. for Scaled. Pickled do. are scarce and wanted at $3 50@$5 37½ as to quality. Of other kinds, sales of 37 bbls. Cod and Scale Fish have been effected at $5 and $3, cash.

FRUIT—There has been considerable movement in Raisins at some decline from former rates, and a few jobbing lots have been disposed of at $4 20 for Bunch, and $4 60 for Layer. Beyond this the market for foreign dried has been very dull, and prices are nominally unchanged. Of foreign green we note sales of Bahama Pineapples at $8@$9; Barcoo Bananas at $1@$1 37½, and do. Cocoanuts at $35. In domestic green there is considerable doing at $3@$3 50 ⅌ bbl. for sour and sweet Row Apples, and mixed lots of green Apples at $1@$2 50. Domestic dried are dull.

FEATHERS are inactive, yet firm, at 55c. for prime Western, cash.

GRAIN—The Wheat market is rather dull, and 2@3c. lower, influenced by the unfavorable news from Europe and an advance on freights, but a fair inquiry is noticeable at the decline; common qualities of spring are difficult of sale, and most kinds are lower, which appears to be a little stagnant in the absence of arrivals, occasioned by the break in the canal. It is evident, however, when the break is repaired that large receipts may be expected, and lower rates accepted, which induce those who have stored to offer their surplus more freely, and hence the reaction. We notice the first sample of White and Amber Wheat from St. Louis, consigned to Messrs. Samuel C. Farrar's Son & Co. The quality is very superior, and ranks among the finest ever exhibited in this market, and consequently superior to that of last year; and to the fine sample of Amber New Jersey, once good to Messrs. A. Bonnell & Co.; the quality is fair, but not so good as that of last year. The sales are 105,100 bush., and include about 21,000 bush. Chicago Spring at $1@$1 15; 20,800 do Milwaukee Club at $1 12@$1 18; 14,200 bush. Amber do at $1 21@$1 26; 2,500 bush. Amber Green Bay (very fine sample) at $1 29; 14,300 bush. Red Western, at $1 21@$1 27; 26,700 bush. Amber do. at $1 28@$1 31; 7,600 bush. White Ohio or Indiana at $1 32@$1 40; and 6,900 bush. choice White Kentucky at $1 53. Rye is less active, and 1@2c. lower, at 85@86c. for Western and State. Barley and Barley Malt are neglected, and unquotable. Oats are dull and lower, although the receipts are insignificant; sales of Canadian at 64@66c.; Western at 70@74c., and State at 75@78c. Corn is less active and closes dull and heavy, influenced by the advance in ocean freights, but probably owing more particularly to the too rapid recent advance, for if this were not so we cannot reconcile how a slight improvement in freight would exercise any material action on the market, by causing a decline to raise in the absence of arrivals. The sales of 27,000 bushels are for Unsound, and 67@68c. for shipping mixed.

GUNNY BAGS are dull at 13c., cash, for standard goods.

GUNNY CLOTH is in limited demand, with sales of 200 bales, on private terms, and small lots at 16@16½c., cash.

HEMP is devoid of activity,
