AN EXAMINATION OF MR. J. S. MILL'S PHILOSOPHY; BEING A DEFENSE OF FUNDAMENTAL TRUTH. By JAMES McCOSH, LL.D., Professor of Logic and Metaphysics, Queen's College, Belfast; Author of "The Method of Divine Government," "Intuitions of the Mind," etc. 8vo. pp. 434. Robert Carter & Brothers.

† This elaborate and systematic work is a review of Mill's "Examination of Sir William Hamilton's Philosophy," or, more properly speaking, an attempt to refute the metaphysical theories which the great English positivist advances in that essay. Into the controversy between Mill and the disciples of Sir W. Hamilton, Prof. McCosh does not enter; still less does he come forward as a defender of the Scottish philosopher. While holding that Hamilton "has furnished more valuable contributions to speculative philosophy than any other British writer in this century," he yet dissents earnestly from several of Sir William's favorite principles, and believes that fundamental truth cannot be defended without abandoning the positions assumed by him.

Professor McCosh discusses Mr. Mill's system with good temper and apparent candor. "I have really no pleasure," he says, "in exposing the inconsistencies, the misunderstandings, and mistakes to be found in Mr. Mill's 'Examination,' or any of his other works. Acuter minds, or more pugnacious spirits, or earnest souls irritated as they see the evils which must arise from the prevalence of a philosophy which undermines fundamental truth, will, I suspect, rejoice to do this, and may be tempted to do it in excess. But I have no personal antipathies to gratify, no wrongs to avenge. The deepest feeling which I entertain toward Mr. Mill is that of admiration of his talents, and gratitude for the clear exposition which he has given of many important principles. My aim in this work is simply to defend a position of primary truth which has been assailed by an acute thinker who has extensive influence in England."

AGENTS WANTED for HORACE GREELEY'S "AMERICAN CONFLICT."
Vol. I of this History has met with unparalleled success—130,000 having already been sold—and is emphatically indorsed by the press of all parties, by leading Generals of the army, by the President, members of the Cabinet, Senators and Representatives in Congress, State Governors, Literary men, and by thousands politically opposed to the author.
Vol. II (and last) will be published in August, and will more than sustain the high character of the first. In its preparation, the vast amount of time, labor, and pains-taking research, devoted to a careful sifting of the mass of crude surface material adopted by earlier writers without verification, and to the collection of important information hitherto inaccessible or overlooked—including much from the Rebel side—cannot fail, under the eminent qualifications of the author, to produce a record of surpassing excellence, which will supersede all other works on the subject. Hartford, Conn.
