BEADLES' DIME NOVELS No. 103.

BIG FOOT, THE GUIDE; OR,
THE SURVEYOR'S DAUGHTER.
A ROMANCE OF EARLY CAROLINA TIMES.
By W. J. HAMILTON,
Author of "Twin Scouts," "Eagle Eye," "Star Eyes," &c.

This fine romance introduces two well-known characters of early Carolina history, and repeals, in its leading incident, the actual story of the old Tuscarora outbreak. It is a very vivid characterization of the wild and perilous life led by the settlers. At the same time, it is pervaded by the element of youthful loves which make even danger sweet and peril a pleasure.

THE ROUND TABLE.
NO. XLIX. READY TO-DAY.
And for sale everywhere.

THE ROUND TABLE is more noticed, more quoted, more praised and more abused, both in America and England than any review ever published in this country.

THE ROUND TABLE possesses an influence among the cultivated classes both North and South, East and West, which is equally unprecedented.

THE ROUND TABLE is established upon a sound and permanent basis; but it is the fixed determination of the proprietors to continue to improve it in every possible respect, and they will spare neither time nor money to augment its solidity and its variety, its piquancy and its instructiveness.

ROSSETTI—INGELOW.

In the literary world the comparative merits of the "two new English poetesses" are being continually discussed. The critics, in reviewing Miss Rossetti's new volume, almost invariably bring in Miss Ingelow for a comparison. The Round Table, in an article on American Female Authorship, says: "America has never yet produced a great female poet. We have had no Mrs. Hemans or Mrs. Browning. Christina Rossetti has recently appeared, and already taken her stand among England's brotherhood of poets. The poems of Jean Ingelow are already read and admired in every household of the land."

A talented lady reviewer, well known among us, writes thus:

"The new poet has been compared to Jean Ingelow, as a competitor with whose poems we owe to the same enterprising publishers. But while both have distinctive merits, there is little similarity between them. Jean Ingelow's song is like that of her own English skylark, who sings as it soars, one gushing liquid strain of melody. It is an exhilarating song, as October morning among the hills, and single passages linger in our memory like rich chords of music, such as this, for instance:

"'Crowds of bees are busy with clover,
Crowds of grasshoppers skip at our feet,
Crowds of larks from their nestling covers
Thanking the Lord for a life so sweet!'

"Christina Rossetti's poems, on the contrary, are mostly in a minor key, subdued and quiet, though imaginative; dealing more with the problem of life, its duties and temptations, than with the external life of nature. Yet they are not in the least morbid, and the view taken of life is from its objective rather than subjective side. It is action and relation, cause and effect, that are mirrored forth in her brief, pure and suggestive poems; not an analysis of either thought or emotion."

THE INTERNAL REVENUE LAW FOR 1866.
D. APPLETON & COMPANY,
Nos. 443 AND 445 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK,
have now ready,
THE INTERNAL REVENUE LAWS,
As approved June 30, 1864, as amended by Act of March 3, 1865, and July 13, 1866; together with the Acts Amendatory. With Copious Marginal References, a complete analytical index, and tables of taxation and exemption.
Compiled by Horace Dresser.
1 vol., 8vo, 300 pp. Price, paper covers, 50c.; cloth, $1.
From the N. Y. Daily Times.
The contents embrace the Acts of June 30, 1864, as amended; the Bankruptcy Act of March 3, 1865; the Bankruptcy Act of March 19, 1866, as amended; the Act of July 13, 1866, and complete tables of taxes and exemptions, together with a full alphabetical index of the entire contents. The Act of last month is merely amendatory of that of 1864, most of its sections being in place of provisions of that law. These amendments have been inserted, each in its proper place, in the body of the original act. The excellence of this work consists in its convenience for reference—the two acts being thus united in alphabetical order showing at a glance the taxes on each article; the fact that it contains the laws entire, word for word like the official copies; and that it is not rendered expensive by the insertion of rulings which contain but little value when a new law has explained or altered the regulations. The work contains 220 pages.
Sent free by mail to any address on receipt of price.
For sale by all Booksellers and News Agents.

AGENTS WANTED—To canvass for the only Official Southern History of the War.
THE LOST CAUSE
By E. A. Pollard, the popular historian of the South, and Editor of the Richmond Examiner during the war. Complete in one large royal octavo volume, with 24 fine steel portraits, giving a full and authentic account of the rise and fall of the late Southern Confederacy, written under the encouragement of Gens. R. E. Lee, Johnston, Beauregard and others. The work is being liberally patronized by leading men of all classes, eager to hear the other side, and to arrive at the truth of history, which it is impossible to do from the many histories written solely from a Northern standpoint.
Agents and the public are cautioned against any other work purporting to be this one.
To energetic men and women a rare chance is offered to make money. Don't fail to send for circulars of this great and important work. Address E. B. TREAT & Co., Publishers,
No. 654 Broadway, N. Y.

AGENTS WANTED for HORACE GREELEY'S "AMERICAN CONFLICT."
Vol. I of this History has met with unprecedented success—120,000 having already been sold—and is emphatically indorsed by the press of all parties, by leading Generals of the army, by the President, members of the Cabinet, Senators and Representatives in Congress, State officers, literary men, and by thousands politically opposed to the author.
Vol. II (and last) will be published in August, and will more than sustain the high character of the first. In its preparation the vast amount of time, labor, and patient seeking research, devoted to a careful sifting of the mass of crude surface material scattered by the earlier writers without verification, and to the collection of important information otherwise inaccessible or overlooked—including much from the Rebel side—cannot fail, under the eminent qualifications of the author, to produce a record of surpassing excellence, which will supersede all other works on the subject.
