PRESENTATION FESTIVAL OF THE UNION HOME AND SCHOOL—REPORT OF THE ADVISORY COMMITTEE.—The Select Committee appointed by the Advisory Board to act in the management of the Festival for the benefit of the Home and School, submit their report: It may not be out of place, in the first instance, to advert briefly to the origin and present condition of the institution, in whose behalf the Committee have been called upon to act. At the commencement of the Rebellion, it became apparent to every thinking mind that the claims for relief to sufferers from the evils of war would be numerous and urgent. Various institutions of practical utility were organized with the purpose of alleviating, as far as practicable, the losses and afflictions which must inevitably follow in the path of the insurrection. Early in the year 1861 the Union Home and School was organized by a few benevolent women, almost without means, but with earnest, devoted, and trustful hearts, with the view of maintaining and educating the destitute orphan children of these heroic women whose lives might become a sacrifice to the cause of the Union. The persistent and disinterested labors of six years have furnished an undeniable evidence that such an establishment was called for by every consideration of duty and humanity, while its successive annual reports to the Legislature have shown the success and fidelity with which it has been conducted. The many hundreds of destitute and neglected orphans, gathered in many instances from the streets of the city, clothed, fed and trained in religious and moral principles, under the protecting care of this charity, are living witnesses that the faith of the dying soldier in the gratitude of his country was not a vain trust. Alive to the obligations of duty they had assumed, the minds of the lady managers of the Home had for many months been deeply impressed with the utter inadequacy with the means at their disposal to meet the pressing demands on their benevolence. As many as 400 applicants for admission within the last year having been of necessity, but with the greatest reluctance, declined. Under these circumstances, with the hope of receiving a permanent home, and more enlarged accommodations for the institution, adjoining site had been obtained by purchase, through the moderate aid afforded by the State and City authorities, and the necessity therefore became urgent and immediate of appealing to the private munificence of our citizens for means with which to erect a suitable building. Whatever allowances should be made for the incessant demands on the wealthier classes of our citizens, or for the explanation should be deemed sufficient, that the war having closed, the soldiers children must give way to other more urgent claims, still, it is not an agreeable revelation to make that in a community renowned for its generous spirit, and the readiness with which it meets the claim of the destitute poor, whencesoever they come, appeals submitted in behalf of these our fellow children to a number of the pastors of the principal churches in the city of New-York asking for their aid in reaching the sympathies of their congregations, met only with the response that it was not a matter within their province. One more resource remained; personal solicitation was made to many of our wealthy citizens, but with one single exception, which demanded grateful recognition, this resort to individual munificence proved to be a vain hope. A donation of $2,000 from the estate of the late Mr. John Rose, through his executor, Mr. Chauncey Rose, came providentially to revive the confidence of the desponding ladies; with this exception, it is due wholly to the generous kindness and practical benevolence of persons in moderate circumstances, in many whom charity has been the growth of adversity, that the Home has not before this been closed and the orphans been again scattered to meet the cold charities of the world. It was under such an urgency on its affairs, that a proposition was made by Messrs. Thomas & Co. to the Managers of the Home for providing the means so essential to its existence by an enterprise known as a Presentation Festival. While the ladies who have hitherto managed this public and patriotic char
