About 20 feet of the pavement in West Thirteenth-st., near Sixth-ave., has caved in and disclosed a deep well which once supplied the inhabitants of the Douglas farm. Planks had been put over it about three feet below the surface, and the top filled in. Its existence had been forgotten, except by the "oldest inhabitants." The decay of the planks and the violent strain of Friday night had prepared the way for this caving in.

Coroner Gover last evening commenced an inquest at Bellevue Hospital over the body of Christian Seitter, who died, it is alleged, from injuries received on Saturday last by being pushed from the stoop of the Frankfort House by John Decorse, into the waters. The wardrobe and jewelry of Mrs. Lincoln are still on exhibition at No. 689 Broadway, and daily attract hundreds of visitors of both sexes, who, after gratifying their curiosity and satisfying themselves of the fineness of the silken textures, the prominence of the diamonds, and the rareness of the fore and point lace, leave without evidencing a wish to purchase. The sale is expected to take place some time toward the end of this month. Mr. Bixby has been authorized to receive subscriptions for the Mrs. Lincoln Fund.

Mr. D. McMahon, counsel for the owners of the steamboat C. Vanderbilt, says that at the recent inquest in the Dean-Richmond-Vanderbilt collision no notice whatever of a coroner's inquest was given the Vanderbilt's officers, nor was any testimony taken from them or in their behalf, but that the persons who were examined were deeply interested in having their actions justified before the public, and especially by the United States Steamboat Inspectors for the district. Mr. McMahon's clients court an investigation, and intend to have it.

Gustavus Wagner was arrested a few days ago on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Yesterday morning, Abram Griggs of No. 272 Eighth-ave., appeared before Justice Dodge, and preferred a second complaint against him, charging that on the 24th of August last, Wagner visited him and asked a loan of $200, leaving as security a check on the Union Bank of New-York, dated July 26, 1867, payable to the order of Gustav Wagner, and promising to redeem it on the following day, which he failed to do, and which note proved to be utterly worthless. Accused was committed for trial.

Abraham Rickhart of No. 447 Third-ave., shot himself in the mouth on Saturday morning last. A few years ago he was a prosperous merchant in a country town in Pennsylvania, surrounded by all that makes home comfortable, but an inordinate love of liquor soon left him a bankrupt, and he was obliged to move to Newark, N. J. He found employment in New-York as a journeyman coppersmith, but worked irregularly, and frequently "went on a spree" of two weeks' duration. He was subject to fits of despondency, saying frequently that he would shoot himself. Verdict in accordance with the facts.

An action in a writ of ejectment before City Judge Russel, yesterday, was decidedly curious. William H. Carpenter was the plaintiff, and Hewer Gordon was the defendant. Gordon had rented a house from Mr. Carpenter, and his lease expired on the 1st of September. Meantime Carpenter leased the premises to Mrs. ——, and placed her in possession, she taking in with her 14 boarders. Gordon sued out a writ of ejectment, and had Mrs. ——— and her boarders thrust into the street. Then action was taken by Carpenter to put Mrs. ——— again in possession. The jury rendered a verdict for Mr. Carpenter, and Mrs. ——— is again in possession of the premises.

The Commissioners of Emigration and the Erie and Pennsylvania Railroads have recently been at variance. The former requested these two companies to change their agents at Castle Garden, and the companies refused to do so unless under a peremptory order. The Commissioners then expelled the agents. Mr. B. C. Traver procured from Judge Barnard a peremptory mandamus for their admission to the Garden. On application of the Commissioners, this writ was modified to an alternative one. Counsel for the Companies again applied on a petition setting up the fact of their making contracts in Europe for the transport of emigrants and the consequent necessity of their having an agent to receive them, and the mandamus was then again made peremptory.

In the Bankruptcy Court, yesterday, Judge Blatchford delivered an opinion relative to the case of John Bellamy, a bankrupt. The Clerk of the Court had been directed to enter a special order referring the case back to Isaiah T. Williams, esq., Register, to examine, certify, etc.; but Mr. Williams deemed a special order unnecessary, and held that a Register may continue under the original order of reference, and perform all subsequent services in a case under that order. In the same case, Judge Blatchford held that the Clerk of the Court should serve notices upon creditors, requiring them to show cause why a bankrupt should not be discharged; but Mr. Williams viewed this mode of procedure as most inconvenient and expensive. Judge Blatchford maintains his position, but will cheerfully consider the subject again.

The introductory lecture of the Winter course of the Medical Department of the University of New-York was delivered last evening by Prof. Loomis. The lecturer remarked that it was sometimes ignorantly and flippantly asserted that the science of medicine had not advanced commensurately with kindred branches of knowledge. This was a gross error. The progress of medical science in all its branches—especially within a comparatively recent period—had been marked. This fact was fully evidenced by one at all acquainted with the history of the profession. It was also shown by statistics. In the hospitals of Paris in the last 70 years the ratio of deaths had diminished from 1 in 7 to 1 in 12 cases, equal in the 80,000 patients annually admitted to a clear saving of 5,000 lives every year. In England the ratio of deaths in about the same period had lessened from 1 in 20 to 1 in 40 annually, while the average longevity had greatly increased. The speaker exhorted the students to patient, persevering labor as the only sure guarantee of success, and gave brief biographical sketches of Laennec, Bright, and Marshal Hall, as illustrations of this truth.

The New-York Sunday School and Mission Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church laid the corner-stone, yesterday afternoon, of a mission chapel, in Eleventh-st., near Avenue B. Bishop James presided. The Rev. Dr. Sewell, the Rev. H. Bates, the Rev. Cyrus D. Foss of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church of this city, the Rev. Mr. Hart, and the Rev. Hart F. Pease, Presiding Elder, took part in the services. The music was conducted by Mr. Philip Phillips. Many people witnessed the ceremonies. The edifice is to be of brick, and 42 feet wide and 85 feet deep, seating about 500 persons. The Society's receipts last year were about $30,000, chiefly from subscriptions and collections in the various Methodist Episcopal churches of this city. This year the receipts will probably amount to $40,000. The officers are: President, Wm. W. Cornell; Vice-President, Charles H. Applegate; Corresponding Secretary, Benjamin D. L. Southard; Recording Secretary, Jas. Wright; Treasurer, W. K. Fenton; Preachers in charge, the Rev. D. L. Marks, and the Rev. George Hollis.

A company of the Union Home and School children was paraded in the City Hall Park yesterday at 2 o'clock, and received by Mayor Hoffman. The movement which led to the erection of the Union Home and School in Delaware County, N. Y., was set on foot in 1861 by Mrs. Drake Mills of this city. The Home is intended for the reception of orphans of soldiers of the late war. The incumbent officers of the institution are: Mrs. Gen. U. S. Grant, President; Mrs. Gen. P. Duryea, Acting-President; Mrs. Gen. J. C. Fremont, Vice-President; Mrs. Robert Forster, Mrs. John S. Voorhies, Treasurer; Mrs. Gen. W. S. Hillyer, Corresponding Secretary. The institution provides for about 200 children and is temporarily situated between Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth-sts. near Eighth-ave., but accommodations for 21,000 children have been secured at Irvington, on Hudson. Whether the children, who had previously received yesterday, are to be transferred this week. The little fellows, in age from 12 to 14, performed the various military evolutions with almost the precision of trained veterans, and clad in their gray uniforms presented quite a soldierly appearance. An address to the Mayor was read by one of their number, Capt. Daly, and His Honor appropriately responded; after which, and a visit to the Governor's Room, the force marched home to Fifty-eighth-st.

A pale, delicate woman—Elizabeth Nodine by name—presented herself before Justice Ledwith on Friday morning, and asked for a warrant for the arrest of her husband, who, she said, had two wives living. She was the first wife, but had been always treated with unkindness, and left to depend on her own exertions for support. The magistrate granted the desired order, and the ingenious wife was arrested on Sunday morning by Officer Palmer, in a Bleecker-st. banning house. Yesterday morning the wife deposed that she was married to Benjamin J. Nodine when she was an orphan, 17 years of age, having done so merely for the purpose of securing a home. A few years of happiness were hers, and four children were born to her. After the birth of the fourth child, her husband formed an intimacy with another woman, whom he married under the name of Johnson. After a short time, she was deserted, too, and he went to live with another unfortunate creature, in whose company he was arrested. Her husband had often threatened to kill her, and used occasionally to visit her and her children at No. 236 West Seventeenth-st., and there assume himself by threatening to kill the entire family. Nodine was arrested about six weeks ago on a charge of abandonment, but was released on promising to support his family. This he has since refused to do, and hence he is in prison.

A serious accident occurred yesterday afternoon at the Courtlandt-st. ferry slip. The ferry-boat Jersey City was nearing the slip, while a schooner was just abreast, passing up the river. Although the pilot of the ferry-boat saw the schooner, he gave no signal for a reversal of the engine, but kept the boat on her course, thus attempting to cross the schooner's bow. Not until the ferry-boat was within 75 feet of the pier adjoining the ferry-slip was the engine reversed. She struck the pier with a tremendous concussion, crushing the heavy timbers, and, forcing her way through the dock, caused large beams to fall across the deck. The dismayed passengers fled, the women and children shrieking piteously. The apparent was the danger of collision that many turned their attention to the pilot. In accordance with navigation laws, it was his plain duty to wait until the schooner had sailed out of his course.

The old 69th, N. Y. National Guard, held their Seventeenth Anniversary picnic yesterday at Jones's Wood. The weather was most favorable, and the gathering was as large as had been expected. Mr. Richard O'Gorman, the first speaker, had always been anxious for the success of the 69th Regiment. For many years the history of the Irish race had been written only by their oppressors. In America, Irishmen have a chance to develop what is in them; but they want discipline and temperance. A poem, written for the occasion by Miles O'Reilly, was then read, after which Mayor Hoffman made a pleasant speech. The Hon. Fernando Wood was received with the wildest demonstration of delight. He said: "I have not come here to-day to make a speech, but as I am called upon to succeed his Honor the Mayor, I do so with pleasure. [Immense applause.] There are none to make us afraid; we are here for an innocent purpose, for a patriotic purpose. In fact a union, that the State of New-York leaves you to equip yourselves. This is a new invasion of the rights of the people. I did not come here prepared to address you, but I am prepared to receive my friends. Stand up for your rights. The 69th is a noble regiment. It was among the first to fly to the defense of the country. When I saw it return home with its tattered flags and concealed forms I said as I say now, God bless the glorious 69th Regiment."

Last evening, about 9½ o'clock, Policeman Curran discovered and arrested a man coming out of the basement door of Mrs. Jackson's house in Henry-st., near Remsen-st. The Common Council received and referred, yesterday, a petition from Messrs. A. A. Low, E. S. Mills, and other wealthy citizens, setting forth the horrible condition of the Brooklyn cobble-stone pavements as compared with the neat and smooth Belgian and Nicholson pavements of New-York, Newark, and even Elizabeth, and praying that the Common Council, instead of being longer a stumbling-block in the way of Brooklyn improvements, will do something toward beautifying the city and rendering it inviting.

On the first trial the damages were laid at $5,000 in favor of the plaintiff. On appeal, this was reversed and a new trial resulted as stated.

NORWICH.—The new iron arch bridge at Central Wharf shows symptoms of yielding to the pressure placed upon it. On Friday, as the workmen were removing the staging from under it, they were alarmed by the cracking of the arches and had to save themselves as best they could. The cause of the trouble was soon ascertained to be in the western abutment, which had given away so far as to drop the center of the arch three or four inches. How much further it can go, or to what extent the bridge is weakened or damaged, remains to be seen. A team trotting over it shakes it as if it were a common truss bridge. It will require several hundred tons of dirt to level up the street on top of the arch. During the progress of this work, practical men have doubted its permanence.

Weston will appeal to the editor of The Clipper, and to the editor of Wilkes' Spirit, and if they decide against him he will, if he wins the stakes, pay the above named forfeit. Weston is to start from Portland at noon of the 29th inst.

Enchantress, Lurline, Climax, and Luther, and others, are entered for the "handicap;" Zara, Leatherlungs, Tycoon, and Julius for the hurdle race; Gen. McMahon, Clement, and Redwing for the mile heats. The pools last night stood pretty nearly the same as on Friday evening. At the Union Course yesterday an attempt was made at betting on Kentucky's match against time; 200 to 50 was laid on time, but an offer of $1,000 to 600 did not draw forth a reply.

TROTTING ON THE UNION COURSE.

The match between Lew. Pettee and Daisy Burns for $1,000, came off yesterday afternoon at the Union Course, and resulted in the victory of the gelding Lew. Pettee, after running four heats, the mare having won the third under the guidance of Sam. McLaughlin. There were some 300 or 400 people present, and the betting was good, commencing in favor of the mare.

First Heat.—Pan. Race got Lew. Pettee off with the lead, which he kept right through, and at the half-mile post was six lengths ahead, but as they came up the home-stretch, the horse broke badly, and only just won by half a length, as the mare came up with a rush at the finish. Time—Quarter, 34; half, 1:14; and mile in 2:37.

Second Heat.—The mare was still the favorite, as her admirers, liking the way she came up at the finish of the last heat, paid 100 to 70 on her. The horse again got away with the lead. At the quarter he led four lengths. Coming to the half-mile pole they both broke, but righted again quickly, and on passing the three-quarter pole the horse was five lengths ahead, and came right along and won the heat by four lengths. Time—quarter, 37½; half, 1:13½; and mile in 2:34½.

Third Heat.—The betting commenced at first at 100 to 70 on the horse, but when it was discovered that Sam. McLaughlin was going to drive the mare, the backers of the horse would not lay more than 100 to 50, which was taken. At the start Sam. got the mare away with the lead, and at the quarter pole she was four lengths ahead, and then they both broke, and the mare recovering herself quickly, increased her lead to seven lengths at the half-mile pole, but on coming into the home-stretch the horse made an effort to regain the ground, but without avail, as the mare won the heat by four lengths. Time—quarter, 37; half, 1:17; and mile in 2:34.

Fourth Heat.—The betting was still on the horse, about 100 to 60 being offered, and two to one would have been taken freely. After a very good start the mare got a length ahead at the turn, which she increased to three, at the quarter house walking badly, this position they kept up to the 1 pole, where she was four lengths ahead, but on coming up the home stretch the horse made a rush, and won by a good head by two lengths. Time, quarter 37½; half 1:17½; and mile 2:36½.

BASE-BALL.

ATLANTIC VS. HAVINGTON.

The game between these Clubs yesterday resulted in an easy victory for the ex-champions by the score of 29 to 12. The Livingtons went into the game short-handed. Buckley, the only man in the nine who can catch Wallace's pitching properly being absent, and Shoaman putting in an appearance only at the commencement of the third inning. Neither the absence of their catcher, however, nor the fact that they had to begin with only eight men, was made a pretext for demanding a postponement or playing a game. The Atlantics commenced by scoring 9 in the first inning, when I should have been their total. Muffs by Sweezy and Walters and a blunder by Leonard helped them to the other 20. Leonard batting the Livingstons seemingly at his mercy as they secured in the rest of the game. From this point the play was so uninteresting that its story is worth but little space. The Atlantics, considering that they had two substitutes in their nine, played a very good game, and the Livingstons a miserably bad one. The batting of the ex-champions was heavy, but costly. Eighteen chances for Stockhoes were given, of which only nine were taken. Matters went from bad to worse with the Livingstons. Referees to demoralization and other errors, and the players seemed injured when the game was ended. Another contest between the clubs is now needed to decide the question of supremacy, each having won one this week. The umpiring of Mr. Lowell was impartial and suitable for the occasion. Wallace, for the Atlantics, pitched a fine game, but in calling strikes he was entirely too severe, while in calling balls he was as much too lenient. The game not having been advertised, was rather sparsely attended. The score is as follows:
