TENNESSEE.

LETTER FROM HER COMMISSIONER OF EMIGRATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TRIBUNE.

SIR: You are aware that in my late tour through the Northern States I endeavored to correct misrepresentations with regard to the social condition of Tennessee. When, in the latter part of last month, I returned to Tennessee, I had reason to believe that my labors had not been in vain, and that a considerable amount of capital and labor had been drawn to Tennessee in consequence of them. I was not a little disappointed when, on my return to this State, I was brought face to face with a condition of things which seemed to threaten the continued success of my labors. Disorders had increased; the Legislature had been called together to consider the propriety of calling out the militia, and the impression existed that, for a time at least, nothing could be done with regard to immigration. The Board of Immigration, however, was not of this opinion. They directed me to enter upon a tour through such of the counties of Tennessee as were favorably disposed toward the introduction of capital and immigration, in order to accumulate facts, the publication of which might serve to draw further attention to the State of Tennessee. In the discharge of this duty I have thus far visited three of the counties to which Northern immigration has principally forced its way. In Warren County there are from 130 to 180 Northern families settled; in Coffin County from 50 to 60, and in Dickson County nearly 100. The County seat of Warren County is McMinnville, beautifully situated on a high elevation, and in view of the Cumberland Mountains. It has five farms both on the top and on what is called the first bench of the mountains, or the first table. The town is on the railroad which connects with the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad at Tullahoma, and which is part of the South-Western Railroad. This road, of which 30 miles is to be graded forthwith will give a powerful impulse to the cause of immigration in the whole of that region, as it will pass through White, Putnam, and Overton Counties, and near Jackson, Van Buren, and Fentress Counties. The manufacturing interests of that district are also likely to receive an impulse by the employment of the water-power not far from Rock Island, near which the South-Western Railroad is going to pass, which has a fall of 91 feet in 900 yards, and a volume of water equal to 40,000 cubic feet per minute at ordinary tide, yet perfectly controllable for manufacturing purposes. I am also disposed to think that if a knowledge of the remarkable water power near Manchester, in Coffee County, situated on the Manchester and McMinnville Railroad were extensively circulated it would bring, at no distant day, a considerable increase of capital and immigration to that country. Adjoining Warren County is Grundy County, where, under the auspices of two Swiss societies, Capt. Piamacher has purchased a considerable tract of land, proposing to settle on it a large number of Swiss families. Dickson County is specially noted for the spirit of enterprise of those who have been most active in starting the settlement. A little over a year ago two families from the northern part of Pennsylvania came to Smyrna, a station on the North-Western Railroad, where each purchased a farm. They went to work in the old-fashioned Northern way, and by Fall, to use the language of one of their own number, they had destroyed one of the main crops of this State by grubbing out all the blackberry stocks along their fences as well as in their fields. Their first wheat crop proved equal to the Northern wheat, both in quantity and quality. Now there are nearly a hundred families settled in and around Smyrna-ville, and a town handsomely laid out, with its stores and hotels is rapidly rising into existence. I am sorry that they have a drinking saloon to mar its prospects. The principal founder of this community, who now lives near Clarksville, in Montgomery County, is about starting a similar enterprise in Stewart County. He states to me, in his last letter, that he and his family have found the people much more sociable than they are in the North. I have held it as a theory that the influx of such a Northern population would have a beneficial effect on all classes of the native population; it is more than a theory now. In the counties I have visited I have had full opportunity for noting this influence. It is but right to add that the secret of their success is to be found in the fact that they have come to Tennessee in the spirit of kindness to which they had not been strangers at home—a spirit which often makes its way where all other efforts fail of success.

There are portions of Tennessee, I am told, where men would not be left to the quiet enjoyment of their peaceful opinions. The counties I have mentioned do not belong to this class.

In conclusion I cannot but say, as I have often said in the North, that while there are disorders existing in Tennessee, there is yet a large portion of the State without them, and immigration continues to flow into these quiet regions, and may justly be encouraged.

Yours truly, HERMANN BOKUM,
Commissioner of Immigration for Tennessee.

Nashville, Aug. 12, 1868.

THE VINELAND ACADEMY.
VINELAND, N. J.
Incorporated under the laws of New-Jersey.
The Rev. F. E. R. CHUBBUCK, A. M., Principal, assisted by an efficient corps of instructors. This is a first-class school, for both sexes, with thorough business and collegiate courses of study, offering unusual advantages in the Ancient and Modern Languages, and Music. Vineland, on the West Jersey Railroad, between Philadelphia and Cape May, has become justly celebrated for the healthfulness of its climate, and the high moral tone and intelligence of its people. Numbering nearly 12,000 inhabitants, it does not contain a single beer-shop, drinking-house, gaming place, billiard-room, or bowling-alley. Parents are assured, therefore, to an extent beyond what is possible concerning any other locality, that while their children are in this school they cannot be exposed to the ordinary temptations to which they are liable elsewhere. Board in private families, where the moral and social influences are unexceptionable, can be had at reasonable rates, making the expenses of the year, including tuition, not to exceed $250.
For circular, address the Principal.

THE NORTH GRANVILLE LADIES' SEMINARY will commence its Fourteenth Annual Session on TUESDAY, Sept. 8.
With the Green Mountains on the east, and the Adirondack on the west, the situation is unsurpassed either in beauty of scenery or healthiness of climate.
A regular Graduating Course is laid out in the solid branches, and an Optional Course in Art, Music and Languages.
Teachers of long experience and known ability are employed in each of the Departments.
For Catalogue or further particulars, address
W. W. DOWD, A. B., Principal, No. Granville, N. Y.

THE AMERICAN CONSERVATORY of MUSIC, No. 54 Union square, established for the purpose of cultivating music thoroughly in all its different branches, and to give students of music in this country an opportunity to obtain as good a musical education here as in Europe, having adopted a method by which pupils will receive their lessons separately, except where it is practical to instruct in classes, and having secured the co-operation of the following well-known artists: Messrs. Carl Anschutz, Hugo Bassemeyer, Wenzel Kopta, Ernst Grill, Frank Castelli, Louis Heluecke, A. Biederman, E. Eberhart, H. Perabean, G. Valiant, this institute will offer advantages like no other in this country. Terms for piano or violin, $15; cultivation of the voice or any orchestral instrument, $20 for 20 lessons.
