WHY ARE THE FOREIGN MASSES DEMOCRATS?

To the Editor of The Tribune:

SIR: I am a foreign-born citizen, and am often asked the question why it is that so many foreigners vote the Democratic ticket? To properly answer the question it is necessary to make some preliminary remarks. First: The foreign population is divided into two classes; the one is composed of mechanics, farmers, and laborers, full grown, and skilled in their several arts without a cent of cost to this country, and of young men with good educations, fitted and ready to perform duties required in all the various branches of business in the country. Every political thinker and inquirer knows that the cost and expenses of rearing, supporting, and educating a country's population is a dead loss to the wealth of a country. Well, the first class mentioned come ready and able to perform their parts; they come to better their condition, and to take advantages of opportunities not presented in their native country. The other class is composed of the dregs of the Old World; the ignorance, pauperism, and vice of Europe, whose instincts ascend no higher than the criminal nature, and of those who are forced to leave their countries for fear of the vengeance of laws outraged by them. I have traveled not a little through this country, and I have often met with persons who would have given half they were worth if they could be assured their disguises were proof against recognition. I have seen those who, after enjoying the confidence of their employers for a quarter of a century, having been caught in the practice of villainy, had fled to this country, and assumed the garb of respectability and honesty. One fellow, on renewing my acquaintance, says: "My dear Sir, I am here, and occupy a respectable position as ——; pray do me the favor not to mention that I used to keep the ——" (a low grocery, and worse; perhaps like to some of our worst places on Water-st.) Another, who burned his employer's office, to cloud and defy prosecution for years of crime, to blot out all paper evidence of his guilt. I meet in the highest walks of society here. He is a prominent member of a church, but he is known by old acquaintances to be a great blackguard, and to be living with a woman notoriously bad in the old country. So I have found them. Now in answer to the query. Scattered over the country from New-York to Kansas you will find the first class of foreigners—all loyal, and almost unanimously Republican not to say Radical. In the cities, New-York, Chicago, St. Louis, New-Orleans, &c., &c., you find the second class, all ignorantly disloyal and to a man Democratic. The men who come here to make use of the talents God gave them with prospects of appreciation which they never can hope for "over the sea," know too much to go with the party whose aim is the destruction of the country; and those who come here to settle their families in the world to a better advantage know enough to see that their very dearest interests lie in the union of the country and general prosperity.

AMERICAN PHOTO-LITHOGRAPHIC CO.'S OFFICE, HERALD BUILDING—Broadway—Room 19.

HURD & HOUGHTON, New-York, Riverside Press: Cambridge, will publish, Sept. 5:
1. REMINISCENCES OF EUROPEAN TRAVEL. By Andrew P. Peabody, D. D., LL. D., Preacher to Harvard University, and Plummer Professor of Christian Morals. In one volume, 16mo. Price, $1 50.
, This book is not a guide-book, nor a scrap-book, nor a philosophical treatise, but just the pleasant reminiscences of a traveler who was sure to bring back what was worth remembering. He traveled on the highway, and the thousands of Americans who have made the customary tour will find that this book will quicken their recollection in the most agreeable fashion. In its pages they can live over again their old experiences.
2. FIOR D'ALIZA. By Alphonse de Lamartine. Translated from the French by George Perry. In one volume, 16mo. Uniform with the Riverside Classics. Price, $1 25.
, Lamartine found the incidents of this charming story in a little nook in the mountains of Liguria, in Italy. It is a romantic story of present life, and told in his graceful manner it becomes a prose idyl, which leads the reader on without weariness to the end.
3. THE VAGABONDS. By J. T. Trowbridge. With illustrations by F. O. C. Darley. A new edition. One volume, quarto. Price, in cloth, gilt, $2 25.

Sept. 19.

4. THE TRAGEDIAN; AN ESSAY ON THE HISTRONIC GENIUS OF JUNIUS BRUTUS BOOTH. By Thomas R. Gould. With a photograph from Mr. Gould's bust of Booth. In one volume, 16mo.
